NEW AND WATSON NAMED BY ACCLAMATION

NO FIGHT MADE ON TONER AS DELEGATE

Col. D. N. Foster Chosen Alternate Elector by Republican State Convention --Naming State Ticket.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.—The republicans in convention here got down to the real business of the meeting today. Judge Quincy A. Myers called the delegates to order at 10 o'clock and the preliminaries being soon cleared away, the platform was submitted and approved.

The expected contest for the fourth place on the delegation at large to the national convention did not materialize. Fred A. Sims, James A. Hemenway, Will H. Hayes and E. C. Toner were elected by acclamation. Winfield T. Durbin, former governor, who was expected to be a candidate for the fourth place, was not nominated.

New and Watson Named.

Harry S. New, for the long term, and former Congressman James E. Watson for the short term, were nominated for United States senate by acclamation.

Ed Jackson, of Newcastle, also was nominated by acclamation for secretary of state. All were called upon for brief speeches.

James P. Goodrich's nomination for governor in the primary was ratified. He responded with a short address.

The rules of the convention were suspended while the nominations for senators and secretary of state were being made, as there were no contestants and the nominations were made by acclamation. All of the candidates were called upon for speeches after their nominations had been acclaimed.

Watson the Favorite.

Watson seemed the favorite of the delegates. He was given an ovation, not only when he arose to speak, but when he first entered the convention hall. There was no debate on the platform and its reading was frequently interrupted by applause.

Mention of the name of Charles W. Fairbanks again today evoked cheers from the great crowd which filled every corner of Tomlinson hall.

Col. Foster Named.

Walter J. Riley and James W. Dunbar were elected presidential electors and Thomas F. Davison and David N. Foster were named alternates. There was no opposition.

The alternate delegates-at-large were named without opposition as follows: Albert B. Conridat, Kokomo; A. L. Pfau, Terre Haute; Luie H. Moore, Fort Wayne, and S. A. Furnis, Indianapolis.

The Balloting Begins.

The first contest developed over the nomination for lieutenant governor. Balloting started a few minutes before noon with the following men in the race: Edward D. Bush, Salem; John M. Lewis, Seymour; Thomas G. Moore, Greencastle; Joseph A. Minturn, Indianapolis Wm. White, Crawfordsville, and Julius Friedman, East, Chicago.

The first ballot for lieutenant governor was: Bush, 232½; Lewis, 233½; Moore, 154½; Minturn, 288½; White, 138½; Friedman, 180½. Votes necessary for choice 585. One hour was required to take the ballot and as soon as the result had been announced the taking of the second ballot was commenced.

The second ballot in the contest for nomination for lieutenant governor showed a trend to Bush, and White withdrew from the race. The vote follows: Bush, 304; Lewis, 290; Moore, 123; Minturn, 235; White, 91; Friedman, 125.

Just before the taking of the third ballot, Julius Friedman, of East Chicago, withdrew from the race in favor of Lewis, who received the second highest number of votes on the second ballot.

Bush is Nominated.

While the calling of the roll on the third ballot was in progress Minturn also announced his withdrawal.

Edgar D. Bush, of Salem, was nominated for Lieutenant governor on the third ballot. He received 649 votes while his nearest competitor, John M. Lewis, got 418½.

The rules committee at a meeting last night decided upon Horace Stilwell, of Anderson, as permanent chairman.

A platform drawn upon conservative lines was drafted by the resolutions committee in a session that continued practically all night and was to be submitted to the convention today.

Chairman Takes Gavel.

Judge Quincy A. Myers, temporary chairman of the convention, took up the gavel promptly at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Z. T. Sweeney, of Columbus, delivered the invocation. The committee on credentials reported no contests. The committee on rules and permanent or-

RAY OF PROMISE IN TOLEDO CAR STRIKE

Appointment of Receiver Postponed by Court Until Saturday.

Toledo, April 6.—Appointment of receiver of the Toledo Railways and Light company wast postponed until Saturday by Federal Judge John M. Killits. Toledo will continue without car service until that time.

The court granted the postponement upon representation by company officials and the city attorney that the deadlock over the right of the car men to wear the union button has been broken and that negotiations are progressing satisfactorily on a proposed contract of 22 sections between the company and the men.

The men receded from the position that they would not present their contract until the company conceded their right to wear the button. Secret conferences on the contract which continued until midnight will be resumed this afternoon. Judge Killits announed from the bench that if a receiver is necessary Captain John Craig, of this city, would be appointed.

Platform Adopted by Indiana Republicans

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.—Containing a strong indorsement of Charles W. Fairbanks for the presidential nomination the platform drafted by the resolutions committee in an all night session was submitted to the state republican convention here today.

The platform denounces the Wilson administration as "inefficient and extravagant" and declares it has "brought us business depression at home and discredit abroad," adding that "such prosperity as has attended the democratic administration has been due not to democratic policies but has prevailed here and there in spite of that. Democratic prosperity such as it is, is due almost wholly to woe and disaster which prevail in the old world."

The Tariff Issue.

The tariff plank demands the reenactment of a protective tariff at the earliest possible date and continues:

"We condemn the democratic party for its overthrow of the republican tariff law and the substitution of the Underwood tariff, which diminished the public revenues and made necessary the imposition of obnoxious stamp taxes and an increase of taxes upon the people and their business."

Merchant Marine—Preparedness.

The platform favors a privately owned and operated merchant marine under the American flag and "such preparedness as may be necessary upon land and sea to protect American citizens in their persons and property at home and abroad. So long as other nations are armed for aggressive purposes, we must be prepared to defend ourselves against them." Strict neutrality toward the nations engaged in the European war is also recommended.

Mexican Policy Assailed.

The president's Mexican policy is characterized as "weak and indecisive" and states that it has "brought us increasing confusion and national humiliation.

"The president's failure to recognize Huerta as the de facto executive of the republic turned the government over to chaos, resulting in the murder of ministers of God at the altar and the exile of others, the desecration of churches and the violation of women consecrated to the service of humanity. * * * The president has exhausted our patience and should surrender to the republican party the problems he is incapable of solving."

MATTER NOT YET SETTLED

Dispatches Regarding Army Use of Mexican Railways Reach Washington.

VILLA HUNT TAKES DIPLOMATIC TREND

Hint That Carranza May Ask U. S. Army to Quit is Persistent.

Washington, April 6.—Dispatches reporting continuing negotiations with Gen. Carranza for use of the railways were received today from Special Agent John T. Rodgers at Queretaro. They indicated the question was still unsettled, but officials regarded the situation as favorable.

The exact questions under negotiations were not disclosed. Secretary Lansing declined to say what progress had been made with Gen. Carranza. The last official announcement was of submission by Carranza of several modifications. These apparently still are before the state department.

Elesio Arredono, Gen. Carranza's ambassador here, has not conferred with Secretary Lansing in more than a week.

In some quarters there was a strong inclination to connect the de facto government's apparent delay in permitting the use of the railroads for the shipment of supplies to the United States forces with a desire of Gen. Carranza to have the American soldiers to leave Mexican soil. It is understood that Carranza officials on the border have made informal inquiries as to how much longer the expedition will remain in Mexico and how far south it will penetrate. Legally the American forces are now pursuing what is termed "a hot trail." No great surprise would be expressed here if Carranza should suggest soon that the trail had become cold and should question the propriety of

CHICAGO MILK WAR GROWS MORE SERIOUS

Big Plants Closing and Customers Get Short Deliveries.

Chicago, April 6.—With a shortage in prospect unless the differences between producers and distributors in the Chicago district are settled soon, the milk war today assumed a more serious aspect. Most of the distributors of the city were unable to make full deliveries to customers.

The Borden plant, at Woodstock, and the Bowman factory, at Ringwood, were closed yesterday, due to shortage of deliveries. The Borden company announced that their works at Elgin, one of the largest in the county, will be closed today if the situation does not change.

The Bowman company appealed to the circuit court for a general injunction to stop the picketing by which the farmers have tied up most of the deliveries in the district. Judge Donnelly, to whom the application was made, issued an order forbidding intimidation by violence and interference with Bowman property, but declared he could not stop "peaceful picketing" on the part of the farmers.

WILSON MAY GO TO CHICAGO.

Tentatively Accepts Invitation of Spanish War Veterans.

Washington, April 6.—President Wilson today tentatively accepted an invitation to go to Chicago Sept. 4 to attend the national encampment of the United Spanish war veterans and review a preparedness parade. The invitation was extended by Lieutenant Governor O'Hara, of Illinois, and Jere Costello, adjutant general of the Spanish war veterans.

New York, April 6.—Christening of the automobile called "The Golden Flier" in which Mrs. Alice S. Burke and Miss Nellie Richardson are to make a tour of the United States under the auspices of the National American Woman Suffrage association was one of the features of the farewell tendered to the travelers by leading suffragists here today.

Officers and members of the association and of the state suffrage party gathered at the suffrage headquarters and escorted Mrs. Burke and Miss Richardson in a parade to Columbus circle, where Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president, broke a bottle of gasoline over the radiator of "The Golden Flier" and gave it its name.

Besides the ordinary equipment the automobile carries a fireless cooker and a small hand sewing machine.

BOILER BLAST HURLS ENGINEMEN 75 FEET

Bedford, Ind., April 6.—Two trainmen were thrown 75 feet and seriously injured early today when the engine boiler of the Chicago-to-Louisville Monon train No. 3 exploded when approaching the top of a heavy grade. The train was automatically brought to a standstill by the severed air hose and the passengers escaped injury.

Dill Johnson, Lafayette, fireman, was thrown 75 feet over telegraph wires and landed on his head in a fence corner. He may die. Joseph Ficer, New Albany, engineer, was badly scalded and thrown into an adjoining field. The engine was wrecked. The cause of the explosion is not known.

BANK ROBBERS TAKE $15,000

"Make a Move and You'll Be Shot," Written Message to Cashier.

FACED A PISTOL AS HE LOOKED UP

Robbers Make Escape in Auto After Daring Job at Houston, Pa.

Canonsburg, Pa., April 6.—Two men robbed the First aNtional bank of Houston, Pa., near here, soon after noon today of $15,000 and escaped in an automobile.

Joseph K. McNutt, cashier of the bank, was alone at his window when an automobile drove up in front of the building. A man entered carrying in his hand a piece of paper about the size of a check and laid it on the counter in front of the cashier. On the paper was written, "make a move and you will be shot."

Faced Automatic Pistol.

McNutt looked up to find himself facing an automatic pistol. Meantime the other occupant of the automobile had left the machine and made his way to the door leading to the cashier's cage, which happened to be open. McNutt was made to lie on the floor and one of the robbers guarded him while the other went through the vault. He collected $15,000 in bills ranging in denomination from $10 to $20, but did not touch $2,000 in gold or $1,000 in silver.

The men told McNutt to lie perfectly still, which he did, while they hurried to the automobile and drove quickly away in the direction of Canonsburg.

McNutt gave the police an excellent description of the robber who faced him at the window.

GERMANS ADVANCE AT ANOTHER POINT

Today's War News Given in Summary

A desperate all night struggle around Verdun resulted in substantial gains for the French west of the river Meuse, according to today's Paris bulletin, while east of that stream German attacks on French positions were repulsed. At one point, along the Avocourt-Bethincourt line, however, it is admitted that the Germans succeeded in penetrating French positions. The French gain was scored north of Avocourt, northwest of Verdun, where in the course of the engagement that began yesterday afternoon and continued throughout the night Gen. Petains' troops succeeded in capturing a large portion of the position known as Boise Carre, or "Square woods." The German attacks northeast of the city were directed against the lines north of the Caillette woods, where Paris reported a French gain yesterday. The efforts of the Germans to regain the lost ground are declared to have been futile.

Paris, April 6.—(2:30 p. m.)—The war office announced this afternoon capture by the French of a large portion of the position north of Avocourt known as Bois Carre woods. Meat cards will be introduced in Bavaria and Saxony on April 15 permitting consumption of 150 grammes (one-third pound) per capita daily except on two meatless days each week. Bavaria has forbidden sale of canned meats, whole hams, whole sausages, etc., to individuals to prevent the accumulation of stocks in advance.

Individual meat cards probably will not be issued in Berlin. Regulation of distribution will be effected by limiting the supply for each retailer.

The German admiralty announced today that German airships last night silenced a battery near Hull, England, with bombs and destroyed a large iron works near Whitby. The airship returned safely.

COLONEL'S HAT IN RING AGAIN

Roosevelt Gets Into Race for the Republican Nomination.

BUT HE SETS OUT DEFINITE TERMS

Makes It Clear the Policy Must Be Strong on Defense Issue.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., April 6.—Col. Roosevelt's hat is in the ring. There is no longer any doubt of that. He announced the terms under which he would be the republican candidate for president in telling a political caller who expects to be a delegate to the republican national convention not to nominate him if he expects the colonel to pussyfoot on a single issue he has raised or unless he thinks the nomination is in the interests of the United States.

This visitor was a man from a nearby state who came to Sagamore Hill, saying he expected to be a candidate for congress as well as a delegate to the republican national convention. Then, in hopes of the colonel's support of his congressional candidacy, the optimistic pilgrim added:

"You know, colonel, I may make up my mind that we'll have to nominate you."

Makes Position Clear.

"Well," began the colonel, pausing a moment to gather his strength before letting loose, "now let me give you a piece of advice. If you have any doubts on the subject, don't nominate me.

"Get it perfectly clear in your head that if you nominate me it must not be because you think it is in my interest, but because you think it is in your interest and the interest of the republican party, and because you think it is in the interest of the United States to do so.

Will Not Pussyfoot.

"And more than that, do not do it if you expect me to pussyfoot on any single issue I have raised.

"Don't be for me unless you are prepared to say that every citizen of this country has got to be pro-United States, first, last, and all the time, and not pro-anything else at all, and that we stand for every good American everywhere, whatever his birthplace or creed and wherever he now lives, and that in return we demand that he be an American and nothing else, with no hyphen about him.

"Every American citizen must be for America first and for no other country even second, and he has not any right to be in the United States at all if he has any divided loyalty between this country and any other.

U. S. Must Prepare.

"I don't care a rap for the man's creed or birthplace or national origin so long as he is straight United States. I am for him if he is straight United States, and if he isn't I am against him.

"And don't you nominate me unless you are prepared to take the position that Uncle Sam is to be strong enough to defend his rights and to defend every one of his people wherever these people are, and he can't be strong unless he prepares in advance.

"I am not for war. On the contrary, I abhor an unjust or a wanton war, and I would use every honorable expedient to avoid even a just war. But I feel with all my heart that you don't in the long run avoid war by making other people believe that you are afraid to fight for your own rights.

U. S. Must Retain Respect.

"Uncle Sam must never wrong the weak he must never insult any one or wantonly give cause of offense either to the weak or the strong.

"The surest possible way to enable him to keep the peace and to keep it on terms that will enable Americans to hold their heads high and not hang them in shame is for him to be so prepared in advance—and I mean prepared in his own soul, as well as with his army and navy—that when he says anything the rest of the world will know that he means it and that he can make it good.

"Don't you try to nominate me unless you think that is the policy that ought to be followed out and followed out for your sake as much as for mine and for the sake of the rest of us here in the United States.

"And don't forget that isn't a course that provokes war. It is the only course that in the long run prevents war and secures national self-respect and guarantees the honor of this country and the rights of its citizens wherever they may be."

It is said that the would-be national delegate responsible for the colonel's outburst mumbled an unintelligible reply and softly faded from the scene.

TEACHERS LEAVE FOR MEETING AT CHICAGO

A large delegation of Allen county teachers left Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock over the Pennsylvania for Chicago to be inattendance at the thirty-third annual meeting of the Northern Indiana Teachers' association. About fifteen teachers left Wednesday afternoon.

As a result of the meeting in Chicago a majority of the schools in Allen county will be closed for the remainder of the week. Teachers of the county who did not go were not permitted to close their schools. The teachers of Fort Wayne will not attend, they having chosen the meeting at Indianapolis last fall.

AN UNIQUE CELEBRATION.

D. H. Wolf Walks Fifty Blocks in Memory of Battle of Shiloh.

D. H. Wolf, of East Wayne street, a veteran of the civil war, celebrated Thursday the fifty-fourth anniversary of the battle of Shiloh, in which he participated, by walking between forty-five and fifty blocks just for exercise. The battle of Shiloh was fought on April 6 and 7, 1862.

TRAPPER DIES IN CABIN'S SOLITUDE

Body of Aged Recluse Found in Dilapidated Shack.

Alone in his little log cabin in Milan township, far from the habitudes of even his nearest neighbors, Samuel Jordan, aged eighty-five, a recluse hunter and trapper, lay down to rest Wednesday morning on his narrow bunk. He lay for a long time, his head on his hand and his long white hair falling across his face, and then the fire in the little cannon stove went out, and the morning winds came up from across the fields and blew open the narrow door.

Emil Schaefer, a neighbor, happened to be crossing the field, and seeing the door open and missing the spiral of smoke that hung over the little house on cool mornings, he walked to the door and called. The echo of his own voice was the only response. He peered through the darkness of the shack and saw the ancient hermit on the bunk. He touched the declining figure.

The body was cold.

For thirty years Samuel Jordan had lived in the little house alone. For thirty years he had followed the byways of the township that was his little world, rarely venturing upon the open road. Friendless, companionless, rather glorying in his solitude, he had passed a score and ten winters in the silent wood and stubble field about his decaying home.

Spurning the advances of those who would make him their friend, dodging the neighbors who crossed his patch, disturbed by the voices of his fellow beings, he chose the hermit life, and he lived in solitude for thirty years and he died as he had lived.

In the shack was nothing that spoke of the modern world which had passed by the old trapper, and left him far behind. An old lantern lighted the single room and a musket and powder horn hung on wooden pegs on the wall. The hides of small animals, some ancient traps and a medical almanac of 1847 were the only possessions of the old man.

The body was removed to Maysville and Coroner J. E. McArdle pronounced death due to senility. The dead man had relatives at Antwerp, Ohio.

This is Captain Henry Stoll's birthday and congratulations personally and by mail poured in upon him, attesting to the esteem in which he is held by his friends.

CITY COURT DOCKET VERY SMALL THURSDAY

Two Drunks and a Vagrant Are Disposed of by Judge Kerr.

But three cases adorned the docket of the city court, Thursday morning and all were disposed of in short order by Judge Waveland Kerr. Charles Johnson, who was arrested on a charge of vagrancy, was allowed to go and his case was continued indefinitely when he proved to the court that he was really a cripple.

The case of drunkenness against William Bedaum, an aged man who has appeared before in the city court rooms was continued until Friday morning. He was held under a bond of twenty-five dollars.

Joe Shea, who was parading the streets with a souse, was fined five dollars and costs and went to jail.

Juvenile Loafing Must Cease.

Chief of Police Charles Lenz has issued an order that officers should break up the practice of children who play in and around new houses under construction. Not only is their danger of injury to the children themselves but several times it has been reported that damage has been done by children in houses before completion. Chief Lenz asks that parents should assist the department in enforcing this order.

Speeds by a City Car.

Three complaints were received at police station Wednesday evening that an automobile driver drove his car past a street car at Pontiac and Calhoun streets while the city car was receiving and discharging passengers. It is stated that several people narrowly escaped being struck and that the auto was traveling at a great speed. The license number on the car was given as 47,236 Ind., 1916.

MOTORMAN IS HURT WHEN HIT BY BRICK

George Landis, motorman on East Creighton avenue city car No 159, was slightly injured about 10 o'clock Wednesday night, when he was struck by a brick suspended by a rope from the trolley wire where it had been placed by some culprit. The accident occurred as the car approached Buchanan street on John. The motorman's injuries were not serious and he was able to continue his trip.

An unknown bicyclist riding alongside of a Spy Run city car, Wednesday night, hurled a brick through one of the windows, shattering the glass and almost hitting Mrs. Kintz, a passenger residing at 1701 Spy Run avenue.

Both incidents were reported to the police, but they were unable to apprehend the culprits.

SEXTON HANGS HIMSELF UNDER CHAPEL BELFRY

New York, April 6.—Under the belfry of old St. Paul's chapel, the sexton hanged himself today. Philip G. Walter, tiring, as he had recently complained, of the monotony of his position after thirty-one years of service at the famous edifice at Broadway and Vesey street, climbed upon a piano stool which he had placed upon a table, fastened a sash around his neck, tied the end of this cord to the stairs leading to the belfry and kicked the stool from under him.

Discovery of the sexton's body was made by an assistant who found a pad upon which Walter had written instructions for the finder to climb to the roof beneath the belfry. Walter was 55 years old.

F. W. Fitch, Pennsy machinists' apprentice, will spend the week-end in Chicago.

BIG TANK STEAMER AND HER OIL CARGO BURNED

New York, April 6.—The tank steamer San Cristobal, owned and operated by the Mexican Oil company between Mexican and gulf ports, was destroyed by fire, together with a cargo of 5,000 barrels of crude oil, on March 27 at Puerto, Mexico, according to reports brought here today by the Ward line steamship Santiago.

The fire started with an explosion and endangered the Santiago. Tugs towed her into the stream, returning for the blazing tanker, which broke away and drifted near the Santiago, which was badly scorched before the tugs could again get control of the tank. The fire was said to have been caused by an exposed light which ignited crude oil gases.

The San Christobal was built at Newcastle, Eng., in 1906, for the Mexican Oil company. She was registered at 1,280 tons.

HENRY BENDER DIES IN SPOKANE.

Former Fort Wayne Man Will Be Remembered Here.

Word has been received in Fort Wayne of the death at Spokane, Washington, on March 30 of the death of Henry Bender, who will be well remembered by older citizens of this city. He is survived by the widow and a son 20 years of age. Death was due to kidney trouble.

At the beginning of the civil war Mr. Bender was learning the trade of marble cutter in the monumental works of P. S. Underhill in this city. He enlisted in the Eighty-eighth Indiana volunteers but was later discharged on account of a physical defect in one of his feet. Completing his trade, Mr. Bender embarked in business at Bluffton. Later he removed to Montana, operating a hay and cattle ranch. Five years ago Mr. Bender sold out these interests and had been living a retired life at Spokane. He had been quite feeble during the winter but it was not believed the end was so near.

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name, and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

"Poorly" writes: "I have chronic constipation and my head aches all the time. I am nervous and don't sleep well. I have fever and my skin is muddy and my tongue coated. My eyes are dull and I feel tired and weak."

Answer: What you need is a good laxative and blood purifier. Clean your system thoroughly with three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). These tablets act on the bowels, aid digestion and purify your blood. Their use will drive away the tired feeling and other symptoms.

"Proud" says: "I have always been proud of my hair until lately, when it has acquired an ugly, greasy, stringy appearance, and my scalp is covered with scales and itches terribly. What may I do?"

Answer: You should use plain yellow minyol to relieve the scalp of dandruff and itching. It acts as a tonic to the scalp and hair strands and promotes a beautiful, luxuriant growth of hair. Clip the ends of the hair about an inch, to get rid of broken ends.

"Model" writes: "I have been a perfect thirty-eight in size until the last few months, when I have gained about 25 pounds too much flesh. Please prescribe."

Answer: You will find a very harmless and successful flesh reducer in the use of arbolone tablets, sold in sealed tubes, with directions for home use.

"Nervous" writes: "I am a brain worker but now I am so nervous as to be unable to apply myself to my tasks. I cannot concentrate my mind. Have a constant feeling of fatigue and drowsiness. Seem to have lost all buoyancy; in other words, I don't seem able to 'draw myself together' somehow. What will renew my strength, brace me up, and make me feel like a man?"

Answer: Your condition is the same as that of thousands of other men who have been restored to new strength and energy, when from worry, dissipation or overwork, they were feeling the same as you. Three-grain cadomene tablets should reinvigorate your system, give you new strength and life and make your brain clear and able to cope with daily requirements.

"Runt" says: "I'm tired of being called 'runt' just because I'm so thin. I want to weigh more. How may I add about 25 pounds to my weight?"

Answer: There is the use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets to increase your weight. They are the surest, safest and best health, strength and flesh producers I could suggest. You should easily gain twenty-five pounds in weight in a relatively short time.

"Anna L." writes: "I have kidney trouble and have had for some time. I have a baby three months old and since she was born I have been bothered. I have been taking medicine, but it doesn't seem to act on my kidneys."

Answer: Quite often kidney and bladder trouble follow child-birth, and if your symptoms are the usual ones, such as swelling of the feet, puffs under the eyes, chills and fever with headache and pains in the back, would suggest that you use balmwort tablets. They are a splendid all-around kidney medicine and tone and liven the kidneys."

"Sufferer" writes: "I am a chronic sufferer from rheumatism. I have tried various cures but none of them have given me relief."

Answer: You will be pleased with the results from the use of the following mixture: 2 drams iodide of potassium, 4 drams sodium salicylate, ½ oz. wine of colchicum, 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol and 5 ozs. of syrup sarsaparilla comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal times and again before going to bed. I always prescribe this treatment and it has given very satisfactory results.

"Gayle" says: "I have cold in my system almost constantly. I cough, and my throat and chest are sore. I seem full of inflammation."

Answer: Constant colds are bad for the system. Try to avoid draughts and undue exposure. Get a 2½ oz. bottle concentrated essence mentho-laxene and mix with simple syrup, according to directions. This should break up severe coughs and colds in a very little while, and at the same time rid the system of the cold inflammation.

NEWS OF FORT WAYNE'S NEIGHBORS

19 HATS IN RING AT KENDALLVILLE

Big Field of Candidates for the Election of Postmaster to Be Held April 14.

Kendallville, Ind., April 6.—Nineteen Kendallville citizens who are anxious to be postmaster of this city will submit their claims at the preferential primary to be held Friday, April 14, and Congressman Cline has promised to recommend the winner for appointment to the place.

Patrons of the office regardless of party affiliations may vote, although all the candidates are democrats. They are W. H. Gappinger, Guy C. Hart, W. H. Rinebolt, John R. Smith, A. G. Hill, H. M. Boszor, William H. Weil, O. E. Michaelis, N. J. Shook, J. D. McKellar, Bark Moyer, A. Matzinger, Walter L. Holcomb, W. E. Sawyer, F. N. Varian, M. S. Lyman, W. J. Fisher, A. J. Strauss and E. E. Wadsworth.

J. A. Shaffer is general chairman for the primary with A. B. Ritter as secretary.

LONG ROAD FIGHT IS WON.

State Aid Secured to Improve Lincoln Highway in Van Wert County.

Van Wert, O., April 6.—One of the very few remaining bad spots on the eastern section of the Lincoln highway is to be done away with by the recent decision to hard surface three and one-half miles of the unimproved portion of Van Wert county. This was determined at a recent conference held by the county commissioners and attended by the good roads advocates. Unlimited credit must be given to O. W. Kerns, spokesman of the people of Tully township, where the improvement is to be made, and T. C. Wilkinson, county counsel of the Lincoln Highway association, who have been working industriously to this end for the past three years.

The road will be improved to a width of sixteen feet at a cost of $24,000, of which $10,000 will be allowed by the state, the remaining $14,000 coming from the township and county, and work will be started as soon as possible.

With the addition of Van Wert to the list of communities in Ohio now actively engaged in making preparations to improve the Lincoln highway during the coming year, it is very apparent that the general sentiment is decidedly in favor of such construction, and the Lincoln highway will soon be entirely hard surfaced within the state.

MYSTERIOUS BARN FIRE

Third in Strange Series of Rural Fires in Jay County.

Portland, Ind., April 6.—The new barn on the Jacob Tieben farm in the northwest corner of Green township, was burned to the ground shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning. The origin is unknown, but is believed to be the work of incendiarism. Two years ago last September a barn on the same site was burned. Jacob Tieben was away from home, having gone to a neighbor's to procure seed oats. Neighbors succeeded in saving the live stock, a buggy and harness. Over 600 bushels of corn was burned with a large quantity of hay and other feed. Just last week the barn on the Raymond Hapner farm in the same vicinity was burned under mysterious circumstances. Depredations of this character have been going on for the past three or four years.

WILL KEEP LITTLE OLD DEPOT

Hartford City, Ind., April 6.—Whatever expectation there might be in this city as to getting a new Pennsylvania station was dispelled yesterday when a representative of the engineer's department of this district of the railroad was in town and was asked regarding a station for Hartford City. "The engineer's department has not looked at the plans for the new station since the day the city won the fight to keep High street open," declared the engineer. Four years ago, when the company declared its intention of building a new station here, the railroad endeavored to have a street near where land had been purchased, closed. The city fought the case and won. For the past several years the city has been forced to be content with a little frame station.

HUNTINGTON HAS NEW FACTORY

Huntington, Ind., April 6.—A. L. White, of Lima, Ohio, was in Huntington and gave his check in the sum of $50,000 to J. W. Caswell, trustee for both Mr. White and the subscribers of stock to the Huntington Steel Foundry company, a new industry that is soon to start here with 400 employes. Pending the payment of stock subscriptions by the Huntington contributors the incorporators of the Huntington Steel and Foundry company met at the Huntington county bank and formed a temporary organization by the election of A. L. White, president; J. W. Caswell, vice president, and L. R. Wright, secretary treasurer. These officers together with G. S. Rineholt and F. E. Wickenhiser constitute the board of directors.

HAND EXTINGUISHERS END FIRE

Van Wert, April 6.—The timely use of hand fire extinguishers perhaps saved the building in which the Van Wert Clothing company is located, from destruction, when a pile of rubbish at the rear of the office of Dr. R. C. Fleming became ignited. The origin of the fire is not known. The flames had gained considerable headway before they were discovered by Robert West, who was working on the second floor of the clothing store. The hand extinguishers were put into action and by the time the fire department could arrive the fire was completely under control.

PORTLAND'S CLEAN-UP DAY

Portland, Ind., April 6.—"Clean-up" day is to be observed here on May 1. This is the date set apart by the city council when it will be expected that citizens will have their premises in spic and span order and is in keeping with a request made by the Woman's Home and Civic league, who urged that the entire month of April be observed as "Clean-up" time with "Clean-up" day May 1.

A DRY TOWN'S RECORD

Hartford City, Ind., April 6.—Four arrests were made by the city police here during the month of March, the smallest number of any month for some time.

27 UNITS FORM FOR TEACHERS' PENSION

Fort Wayne in List of Indiana School Bodies Under New Law.

By Willis S. Thompson.

Indianapolis, April 6.—Since the teacher's pension law became effective in August, 1915, twenty-seven of the units described in the law have organized and been approved by the state board. Each county is a unit, including cities of less than five thousand. Cities of more than five thousand are units unto themselves.

Teachers who have been in the service for twenty-five years, are entitled under the law to receive a sick benefit of $350 a year, but when able to teach are supposed to return to work. The sick benefits increase at the rate of $25 a year up to and including thirty-four years of service. At thirty-four years the amount is $575 a year.

When a teacher has been employed for thirty-five years the state provides an annuity of $600 upon retirement from the profession for any cause. This amount increases up to and including forty years of service, when the annuity is $700.

No unit is recognized by the state board except where a majority of all the teachers and a majority of all the school officials make petition. To be included under the benefits prescribed in the law each teacher must pay a membership fee equal to the amount of the annual benefit anticipated. This fund is supposed to maintain the fund. Under these provisions the following units have been admitted since last August:

Laporte, Marion, Lafayete, Logansport, Goshen, Seymour, Hartford City, Vincennes, Muncie, Madison, Columbus, Jeffersonville, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Pulaski county school for blind, state normal Bedford, Huntington, Mishawaka, school for deaf, Kosciusko county, Franklin county, Wayne county, Valparaiso, Dearborn county and Bartholomew county.

CITIZENSHIP IS ATTACKED

Hammond Saloon Keeper Charged With Violating the Law.

Indianapolis, April 6.—When Andro Klobucar, a saloon keeper of Hammond, appeared before Judge A. B. Anderson, at Hammond, in 1911, in a successful attempt to obtain naturalization papers, he testified that he had operated his place of business without violations of the law. Two years later, Klobucar again appeared in court to testify in behalf of a friend who sought naturalization papers and admitted that his saloon was not being operated in accordance to the law.

For these reasons, a petition has been filed from the office of the United States district attorney in federal court asking that the certificate of citizenship received by Klobucar be set aside. The petition is based on an affidavit sworn by M. A. Sturges, of Chicago, chief naturalization examiner for the district including Indiana.

PLAN AUTOMOBILE CARAVAN

Rotary Club Members to Attend Convention at Cincinnati.

Indianapolis, April 6.—At the noon luncheon of the Rotary club in this city it was voted to go to the international convention of Rotarians at Cincinnati next July in an automobile caravan. The drive through the state, it was agreed, would be made a feature of the Indiana centennial celebration. Rotary clubs from Evansville, Terre Haute, Ft. Wayne, South Bend and other Indiana cities are expected to drive to Indianapolis and join the main caravan here. Indianapolis will have headquarters at the Sinton and Grand hotels for the convention.

RAISE $23,000 FOR Y. M. C. A.

Michigan City Workers Obtain $6,000 From Mrs. Howard Spaulding, Jr.

Michigan City, Ind., April 4.—A campaign to raise $20,000 for the Michigan City Y. M. C. A. was closed successfully here on the last day. More than $7,000 remained to be raised. Reports of subscriptions were received after a banquet in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, and the final announcement was that of a donation from Mrs. Howard Spaulding, jr., of Chicago, formerly Miss Catherine Barker, of $6,000. This made the total sum obtained more than $23,000. The donation was unexpected and the audience in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium rose and cheered when the leader of one of the committees visited Mrs. Spaulding at her Chicago home during the day and obtained the donation.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

Two hundred and twenty yards in 3 minutes and 34-5 seconds is new swimming record made by Olga Dorfner of Philadelphia, which places her up among the tank stars.

Miss Dorfer, representing the Philadelphia Turngemeinde, swam against Miss M. Galligan, of New York, at Philadelphia. She made a perfect dive and started in the lead in a double overhand stroke and kept ahead. She won by three lengths.

AMERICAN CAPTAIN PROTESTS STRONGLY

Resents Seizure of Persons from American Steamer China by British.

Shanghai, March 1.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Captain Frazier, the officer in charge of the American steamer China, which was stopped by an English auxiliary cruiser January 18, and delayed for five hours by the English, searching the ship and removing thirty-eight German, Austrian and Turkish passengers, has made a report of the occurrence to the local agent of the China Mail line, of this city.

Capt. Frazier protests the action of the British cruiser on three grounds. He maintains the English had no right to board the vessel with an armed force. He holds the English were beyond their rights in removing business men traveling between neutral ports who had passports showing they were not military reservists. He also objects to the delaying of the United States mail for five hours.

Capt. Frazier demanded an explanation from Lieutenant Steele of the British cruiser, when he boarded the China with an armed squad. The English officer explained his action at that time by saying it was necessary to prevent resistence on the part of the Germans. The English ship which stopped the China was formerly the White Star liner Laurentic, and has now been converted into an English auxiliary cruiser.

Capt. Frazier's report says the China left Woosung at three minutes past eight on the morning of February 18. At 11:25 the pilot left the steamer and at 11:49 the Laurentic was sighted. The China was then about ten miles from the mouth of the river. The warship ran up the signal: "Stop instantly." The back up the request, she fired two shot across the China's bow. The first was a blank and the second a solid projectile. The liner hove to and hoisted the American flag. The party that put off from the Laurentic consisted of three officers, and nineteen men, seven of whom boarded the vessel.

The passengers of the China were mustered on deck. Their passports and the ship's papers were carefully examined. When the examination was finished, the British took off twenty-eight Germans, eight Austrians and two Turks, a total of thirty-eight passengers. They left one German, who was a paralytic. The mail carried by the China was not molested.

The British officers told Capt. Frazier that they had been waiting fifteen days for the China. A wireless message—supposedly from Shanghai—told them of the German passengers on the steamer and when she sailed.

The following is a full list of the passengers taken from the steamer: Germans: Dr. W. Eyle, H. Fokkes, G. Grotjahn, Dr. R. Grimm, W. Hinkle, E. Seimssen, F. Schiefler, A. Bach, sr., A. Bach, jr., W. Doering, A. Frederick, J. Gartz, A. Gertzer, K. Goedecke, B. Hauer, J. Janssen, R. Klein, A. Klein, K. Kraus, K. Krausch, P. Mainke, W. Pigulia, L. Rospeck, G. Streckfuss, A. Schroeder, A. Schwartz, K. Tolkmitt, R. Weber; Austrians, C. Beckner, A. Camerle, F. Weurth, Anton Gerl, A. Pletty, W. F. Schuetter, I. Haas, P. Zednick; Turks, J. Glickman, L. Mechlin.

Advices from Nagasaki say that Mr. Grotjahn had originally come from Kobe to Nagasaki to board the vessel. He learned that the China was late and fearing that he might be seized in Japan he came to Shanghai and got on board. He fell into the hands of the enemy with the others.

Twenty Germans and one Austrian left Nagasaki on the China for San Francisco. Most of these were missionaries who have been deported from the South Sea islands, occupied by Japan.

Roosevelt in the Running.

Well, it has happened. The old familiar hat is in the ring once more. Colonel Roosevelt had laid down the definite plans and specifications under which he would be willing to accept the republican nomination for the presidency. He can be persuaded to accept party leadership once more and grace the head of the ticket this year provided the party will come unreservedly over to his way of thinking, permit him to designate the paramount issue upon which the battle shall be waged and to draft the rules of the contest. The colonel demands that adequate preparedness be made the chief issue, and he is forever and unalterably "for" it to the last final limit. The pronouncement was made by the colonel himself in an interview given out at Oyster Bay to some unnamed republican of prominence who expects to be a delegate to the Chicago convention and who told the colonel he feared he might make up his mind that the republicans would have to nominate the former president.

Some of the gentlemen who essay the task of making a livelihood by staging theatricals would do well to give close heed to Colonel Roosevelt's acomplishment in this latest instance. It is as fine as anything presented in many years. One cannot fail to notice the happy appearance of the obliging questioner at the psychological moment to premit the colonel to come stalking impressively upon the scene with his ultimatum. There were no half-way measures about it, either. He laid down the terms. The republicans can accept them or reject them—but they now know that if the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt is essential to the preservation of the country, they can have him, but only only upon his own terms. The party can build a platform—provided it builds a Rooseveltian structure.

There are many admirable traits about the ex-president, and his tremendous force and his fine Americanism can never be brought into question. At the same time we do not believe the people will clamor for Rooseveltian leadership at this juncture of the country's history. We do not believe they can be induced to rally to his standard as they did during either of the former occasions when he was a candidate for the presidency. There may have been an anxious demand by republican leaders that Colonel Roosevelt consent to be their candidate this year, but if so, it escaped our attention. Indeed, it is much to be doubted if they will permit him to get a look-in at Chicago. He defeated their nominee for the presidency four years ago, it is true, but he must not too lightly appraise their power or the intensity of their desire for revenge. They have neither forgiven nor forgotten. They probably could not be induced to frame terms of their own upon which they would accept the colonel, to say nothing of acquiescing in specifications of his own fashioning. That republican convention at Chicago promises to be a rather difficult crowd to stampede, and nothing save a stampede would make Colonel Roosevelt the republican standard-bearer this year.

In the course of a rather notable utterance in the reichstag, the German imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, protested against some of the sensational stories afloat, declaring, among other things, that "Germany, neither at this time nor any time in the future, contemplates aggression against the United States." The imperial chancellor decried as sheer calumny all reports of German hostility against America, and he unquestionably voiced accurately the sentimen of the German people. Still, some of those panic-stricken souls who simply must have something to view with alarm will doubtless be inclined to suspect that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg is simply trying to fool us.

Unwholesome motion pictures are said to have inspired a Lafayette lad of some seven years to form the "Brave Sons of the Starlight Camp" and start out as the intrepid leader of a band of gentlemen crooks and bold bandits. All went well with the oath-bound clan, too, until their peerless leader landed in the juvenile court and was sent to a reformatory institution for incorgible juveniles. With the wealth of wholesome, instructive and really meritorious films now available under the wonderful development of the motion picture business, it is amazing that movies of the sort that actuated the Lafayette youngsters are still permitted to be shown in some quarters.

Discussing the merits and the demerits of both the primary and the delegate systems of nominating candidates, W. D. Bynum, of Indianapolis, in a communication to the press contends that each is defective and that neither meets the situation properly in giving to the voter the largest measure of power of choice. Mr. Bynum would eliminate the legal recognition of parties, have all nominations made by petitions and all placed upon a single ballot without party designations. The suggestion is worth consideration.

Health experts are advising is that right now, and not a little later, is the correct time for indulgence in the national pastime of swatting the fly, for each one killed now keeps billions more from coming within the next few months. Get to swatting, brother.

He Located Villa.

Lieut. Dargue of the U. S. aviation corps, is the man who located Villa and his band and made a report that resulted in the 55-mile dash of Col. Dodd and his regiment and the surprise attack on Villa. Lieut. Dargue made a dangerous flight of 250 miles, partly over mountains, spied out the bandits from above and reported his discovery.

AN UNUSUAL SITUATION.

(Indianapolis Star.)

It is a strange and puzzling situation that confronts the democratic party of Indiana upon the eve of its state convention three weeks hence.

For the place left vacant by the death of Senator Shively, two names are mentioned—Taggart and Ralston. Neither of them asks it, yet neither of them would feel free to refuse it.

No one who has looked over Mr. Taggart's immense properties at French Lick with a discerning eye can fail to appreciate the enormity of his task, especially at the "Springs," and the extreme folly, from a business point of view, of leaving it to itself at this critical time for four years. Perhaps they who urge him into this political enterprise are not nearly so wise and true in their friendship as those business associates and advisers who believe in should let it alone.

Equally unaffected and sincere is the attitude of Governor Ralston. He knows the financial sacrifice involved in a senatorial career, and with his moderate means and a growing family to be educated, he naturally desires to resume the practice of his profession during his active years, rather than fall out of line in a calling where it is not easy at his time of life to re-establish oneself after a period of retirement.

At the same time, neither of these men feels free to refuse an obligation if it is put upon him by the party, and either would undertake the task of leadership if called to it, sensible of the honor and sinking personal considerations in the acceptance of duty.

Apparently it is simply up to the democratic convention to solve this riddle for itself. Its members may console themselves with the reflection that its decision can in no wise cloud the long and beautiful friendship between these two strong and sincere men. Whichever of them is chosen, he will have no more pleased and loyal supporter than the other. It is an almost unprecedented situation.

PROSECUTION, BUT NO PREVENTION.

(Toledo Blade.)

For a number of years, John Grant Lyman conducted a strictly non-legal business. He avoided all of those lines of human endeavor which involve the exercise of scruples. When he was caught in Florida, the postal authorities having taken a sudden interest in his case, he expressed regret that the particular swindle he had most recently been engaged in, had been exposed so soon. In a few more months he would have cleaned up magnificently, he said.

Blue-sky laws were passed to deal with promitions of the John Grant Lyman brand, prevention being the treatment. But these laws will not pass the acid test of constitutionality. None, we understand, has managed to go through the courts and survive. The only thing that the states can do is to urge the police to be a little more watchful of get-rith quick schemes. If John Grant came along, or one of his masters or pupils, cheated an investor or two, relieved a few widows of their insurance money and a sprinkling of orphans of their inheritances, then the state could step in and send someone to jail. Preventive medicine is not in the pharmacopoeia of the law.

What would we think of a constitution which solemnly forbade a doctor to apply disinfectants against Asiatic cholera and which yet laid it down as a duty that the doctor must prescribe for victims once they're infected?

NEW TREATMENT FOR SWOLLEN VEINS

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength) at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated. Apply night and morning with the soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal.

It is so marvelously powerful that swollen glands, and even goitre disappear when used steadily.

Valparaiso Reform Editor Suffers Broken Leg in Fall.

Valparaiso, Ind., April 5.—Some mystery surrounds the attack on L. Garfield Snow, editor of the Independent, a reform paper here, in his office Saturday afternoon, as a result of which he is suffering from a broken leg. Snow either jumped or was thrown from a second-story window when three men attacked him in his office. It is said his assailants intended to abduct him to permit a young woman, said to be a student in Valparaiso university, to horsewhip him for an alleged defamatory mention of her in his paper. The attack was the third one in which Snow figured, all being occasioned, it is said, by his attacks on conditions he considers lawless. He has not made a statement concerning the attack.

NICARAGUANS TO GET THE BALLOT

May Express Their Will in the Selection of a President.

Managua, Nicaragua, March 11—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The people of Nicaragua are to be given the right to express their will for the selection of a president. That will be a remarkable state of affairs for Nicaragua where, for twenty years, dictatorship and revolution have interdicted and made such a condition impossible. As the secretary of state expressed it in an official letter when he dismissed the Nicaraguan minister from the United States in 1909: "It is equally notorious that under the regime of President Zelaya, republican institutions have ceased to exist in Nicaragua except in name, that public opinion and the press have been strangled and that prisons have been the price of every demonstration of patriotism."

President Diaz has just issued an announcement through the press, and says he will make it official by a proclamation in the Official Gazette, that "it has been the basis of my program of government to restore in Nicaragua all the republican practices." To that end, he continues, the most important is the succession of one-term presidents in the executive power, selected by popular will.

As the presidential election in Nicaragua occurs October 1 next, and as politics are warming and the parties are gathering themselves together, this announcement is most significant. The present generation, (except the older people who were active before 1893), known nothing of a popular discussion of candidates for the presidency, of a free registration of voters, or of any expression of the popular will. Such things were not permitted under President Zelaya from 1893 to 1910.

The provisional government which gained force that year adopted a new constitution for a republican form of government, providing that the presidential term should be four years and an incumbent could not succeed himself, thus restoring the practice in Nicaragua for the quarter century preceding Zelaya. The first election was in December, 1912, but it came so soon after the revolution of 1912 engaged in by General Mena and the Zelaya liberals, that the partisans of the latter party made no effort at the polls and the conservatives won without opposition, the acting president, Adolfo Diaz, being elected for a full term.

The president now declares that the one-term provision will be carried out, which means that he will retire, and states further that the free expression of the popular will in the primaries or meetings will be guaranteed by the government "with the same care that I have taken that the other guarantees which the constitution gives to the citizens shall be respected.

He says that there is further guaranteed the free exercise of propaganda and the right of free speech in meetings providd that it be doen with decorum and in lawful manner. He calls attention to his instructions to the Jefe Politicos (governors), of the departments last month that all citizens who desired to register will be given further opportunity on two days in May.

The liberals, which is the party in opposition, are already taking advantage of the president's declarations that free discussion will be permitted, by organizing clubs and calling meetings. The conservatives are doing the same. So there is good prospect of a six months lively campaign. Some of the liberals seem a little stunned by the announcement that free speech will be permitted, so unusual is it. When it is remembered that most of the present high officials of the government, who are conservatives, spent more or less time in prison or in exile for indulging in free speech in the regime of Zelaya, the significance of President Diaz's announcement can be appreciated. It marks a new epoch for Nicaragua.

BLIND WIDOW WAITS, WAITS, WAITS FOR FORTUNE OWED HER BY UNCLE SAM.

Mrs. Norton sits silently in her ho me, waiting patiently for Uncle Sam to Pay the debt he owes her.

By Kenneth W. Payne.

New York, April 6.—Blind, widowed and broken-hearted, she sits rocking back and forth in her humble home here—the little old lady whom Uncle Sam owes and has owed for half a century one million dollars!

She is Mrs. Elmira D. Norton. She is past 80, but still waiting for the government to pay its debt to her.

Every day you see the black bars that are at the heart of this great tragedy! They are the post marks on the letters you receive!

Marcus P. Norton, of Troy, N. Y., invented in 1853 the machine by which postal clerks, with one deft blow, both cancel the postage stamp and postmark the letters that pass through their hands.

That device, the government itself has admitted, has saved taxpayers $20,000,000.

Yet its inventor and his heirs have never received one penny of profit. Instead they have been forced into debt trying to collect only a part of the compensation postoffice officials have declared are due to them!

The cancellation mark symbolizes the cancellation of a great man's hopes and a sweet little mother's dreams for her children.

When Marcus Norton, a young patent lawyer, had taken out a patent in 1853 on his device which cut in half the time and expense in canceling millions of letters, he submitted the machine for use in various postoffices.

Norton's invention was used for years and no appropriation was made to pay for it. Finally, in 1870, congress authorized the postoffice department to use the invention.

The department insisted that for the use of the invention before that time the individual postmasters alone were liable. Suits brought against them for indemnification never resulted in Norton's getting a penny of pay.

Norton's business went to ruin, he lost his health, borrowed money to press his claim and finally died.

For half a century the case has been swathed in tangled red tape, batted back and forth from congress to the postoffice department to the court of claims.

Only congressional action now can cause payment of the claim. A bill was brought forward during the present session of senate to pay $50,000 to Norton's heirs.

This sum, Mrs. Norton's lawyer says, is only a fraction of what the case has cost so far.

Mrs. Norton still hopes the patent will be officially purchased at a fair price.

In the meanwhile, she is waiting in the little home where her two daughters, Miss Ada and Miss Estella Norton, as actress and music teacher, earn enough to keep the household going.

A Real Flesh Builder For Thin People

Thin men and women—that big, hearty filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Meyer Bros. Co., Dreier Drug Co., D. & N. Pharmacy, The Family Drug store and all other good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package.—Advertisement.

FORTIFICATIONS BILL BROUGHT INTO HOUSE

Vast Plans for Making U. S. Coast Safe Against Attack.

Washington, April 6.—The third great element of the national preparedness program was today brought into the house. It is the largest fortification bill ever reported, and the first of four annual measures under which it is proposed to spend approximately $100,000,000 for increasing and modernizing the coast defenses, already officially declared to be superior to any in the world, and to supply an ample store of reserve ammunition for the guns.

Included in the bill are provisions for mounting 16-inch direct fire rifles to guard New York, Boston, San Francisco and other great cities from long range naval bombardment. Provision is also made for mounting 12-inch rifles now in reserve so they will have a range of more than 30,000 yards or 15 sea miles. No ship could live within that distance of the guns.

The plan will add 16-inch mortar batteries to the present 12-inch emplacements because of the increased armor protection of modern battleships. In addition it provides for 16-inch mobile howitzers and 14-inch guns on railroad cars to defend points not protected by established forts.

In approving the bill the committee accepted almost without alteration the proposals of the war department and the officers who have studied the subject of coast defenses for years.

The bill carries appropriations of $23,305,123 and additional authorizations to reach a total of $34,200,050. It is the first of the bills mapped out by former Secretary Garrison to cover a four year program of expenditure totaling $82,064,557 on the continental coast defenses and reserve material. The Panama canal defenses will add $13,995,000 to the project, reaching a grand total of $96,059,557.

The committee cut down the 1917 estimates $1,378,073. As the bill stands, however, it represents an increased expenditure over last year of $16,936,833.

Outlining the Projects.

Outlining the projects approved, the report says:

"While it may not be proper to state in detail the proposals made, it is proper to state that the ends sought by the additional armament are at certain points to defend the harbors and existing defenses against long-range naval bombardment, made necessary by the increased range of guns of modern battleships; to increase the volume of gunfire at certain places in order to make it adequate to meet the increase volume of gunfire that could be directed against the fortification by a fleet of modern warships; and in a few instances to cover water areas not covered effectively by existing armament; and to deny to an enemy the use of certain harbors not now protected.

"The total additional armament for continental United States included in the above projects comprises twenty-two 16-inch guns, twenty-four 12-inch guns mounted for long-range fire, twenty-three 6-inch and four 3-inch guns and forty-eight 16-inch mortars; for the insular possessions, eight 12-inch guns mounted for long-range fire; and for the Panama canal, four 16-inch guns, four 12-inch guns mounted for long-range fire, and twelve 16-inch mortars.

"In addition to the above, the projects of the board include one hundred and thirty-four 3-inch anti-aircraft guns for the seacoast defenses of continental United States, seventeen 3-inch anti-aircraft guns for the insular possessions, and eight 3-inch anti-aircraft guns for the Panama canal.

"The board also recommends the construction of six 16-inch movable howitzers and an experimental 14-inch gun on railroad car mount for defense against hostile landings in unfortified harbors."

Reserve Ammunition.

As to reserve ammunition, the report says:

"A review of the subject in the light of the European war caused the board to very greatly increase the amount of such reserve ammunition thought to be requisite, and it has submitted this year an estimate of three millions of dollars, with a contract authorization of three and one-half millions to be expended toward securing a new reserve. The committee has allowed in its entirety the estimate submitted, making an appropriation in effect of six and one-half millions for this purpose, as against previous annual appropriations of $200,000."

In addition to the new guns, the bill provides for the expenditure of $750,000 to purchase the rights of the radio-dynamic torpedo control devised by John Hays Hammond, jr. Acceptance is conditioned, however, on the report of a joint board of army and navy officers after a test for which the bill provides.

The report shows that four of the new 16-inch guns will be emplaced at Cape Henry, Va., two at Rockaway Beach, N. Y., others at San Francisco and San Pedro, Cal. Long range 12-inch guns will go to New York, Boston and either Portland, Maine, or San Francisco.

The full estimates for the insular possessions were allowed by the committee as were the war department's figures for additional mobile artillery including field guns. In addition the committee inserted an appropriation for $1,000,000 to provide tools and fixtures for commercial plants to equip them for the manufacture of government ammunition. It is provided, however, that the prices paid for ammunition or other material purchased shall not be more than 25 per cent. in excess of the government's actual or estimated cost of manufacture.

Purpose of Seacoast Defense.

Chairman Sherley presented the following explanation of the purposes of seacoast defenses in his report:

"It is the popular belief that our fortifications are designed to protect all the shores of continental United States and the insular possessions from invasion by a hostile force and that they are adequate only to the extent that they would prevent such invasion. No greater misconception of their function could be had. The author of this report is unaware of any responsible military authority ever suggesting such a purpose. Certainly the cost of such numerous fortifications to accomplish such a purpose would be beyond the purse of even this, the richest of all nations.

"But though this is known by all students of the subject, criticism is continuously aimed at our system of fortifications because of the absurd assumption that they should accomplish the impossible; while many, properly believing that our fortifications are excellent but with the same mistaken view as to their purpose, fail to appreciate the need for other means of defense.

"The chief and real purposes to be served by our fortifications are to protect from bombardment large centers of population where the damage that might be otherwise inflicted could not be thought from a military point of view admissible; to protect from destruction establishments of military value, such as navy yards, coaling stations, arsenals, etc.; to deny to an enemy the use of important harbors as a base for offensive operations against either our fleet or land forces; to preserve such harbors as a base of refuge for our own fleet and permit it to be used in its most efficient way by seeking out and engaging the enemy; to afford refuge and protection to our shipping; and to compel the enemy in order to achieve military results of importance to resort to an expedition involving the transportation of troops across the seas and effect their landing at some place not possessing the strategic value had by the places fortified.

"Of necessity many coast towns would have to be left without such defense, where the damage that might be done in the event of control of the sea being lost by our fleet, would be deplorable but would not be of such character as would really impair the nation's well-being or resisting power.

"Fortifications are deemed sufficient when they serve these purposes and the prevention of invasion then becomes the duty of the mobile army. They are deemed sufficiently strong if they compel the enemy to land in order to effect their capture.

The Real Lesson

By Elsie Endicott

MRS. SNYDER started everything in Arles. She was a little, eager, nervous woman whose daily endeavor it was to keep not up with the current of modernity as expressed by Arles society, but just a bit ahead of it. When her old aunt, Sarah Cronk, died and left her $1,000 she felt that fate had placed a power in her hands. A thousand dollars was a great deal of money for the Snyders to have, and she determined to make every penny count.

"I shall have a vacation," she told Mrs. Todd. "I've never had a vacation and I deserve one if anybody ever did. I've raised six children and done my own work since I married Myron Snyder. And I've never seen the outside of Arles six times in my life. I'm going to spend two weeks—two whole weeks—at Perch's Point. I shall have some new clothes made to wear and I shall sit around on a hotel veranda with my hands folded while somebody else is cooking my meals. And if I don't have the time of my life I guess nobody ever will."

"I envy you," said little Mrs. Todd, and she sighed. "I'd like a vacation, too, and Felix needs one, but there's no use in thinking about it, because it's an impossibility. It takes all Felix can earn now to just live the way we're doing."

Mrs. Snyder left about the middle of June. She sent back a lot of colored postcards with emphatic messages scrawled upon them. And when she returned she was full of enthusiasm.

"The most enchanting place on earth!" she cried. "Wasn't it, Myron? I can't begin to tell you. I'm no hand at description, but if you could just see it! The sea and the rocks! And if ever there's a place where one could take real, solid comfort, it's that hotel. I never ate such food in my life. And everybody so lovely to you. I'd advise anybody who can afford it to go to Perch's Point."

Myron Snyder said nothing. But then he never said anything. He was as silent as his wife was talkative. And experience had trained him in discretion.

The Latimers were the next to go. They only stayed a week and had not much to say about it. Mrs. Snyder hinted that they probably found it too expensive. She was still declaring the attractions of Perch's Point.

The Wheelers and Miss Finch followed after the Latimers. They stayed ten days.

There came a spell of torrid weather. Little Mrs. Todd nearly melted over her kitchen stove. Every night Felix came home from the grocery store limp and white and silent. One breathless afternoon Mrs. Todd was getting supper when Felix came home. He was earlier than usual.

"Oh, Felix!" she cried, and got as much of him as she could in her arms, as if she would hold and keep him against any adverse occurrence. "Are you all right?"

"Yes, girl, I'm all right. Come into the house; I've got something to tell you. Good news—the very best. There, now! Mr. Scutt has raised my pay and he've given me a week's leave of absence, with my wages going on the same as if I worked. I didn't know what to say when he told me. Oh, Bess, we'll have that vacation yet!"

"We'll go to Perch's Point," breathed little Mrs. Todd. And she could not help crying.

The potatoes were burning, but it did not matter. They were almost too excited to eat.

They had just seated themselves at the table when the back door opened and Mrs. Latimer came in with a dish of salad. "It's Waldorf, and I thought you'd like a bit of it," she said. "Anything wrong? I saw Mr. Todd coming home early and I was afraid—"

"He's had a raise and a week for vacation," said little Mrs. Todd proudly. She was all one shining flush. "I guess we'll do what everybody else is doing—go to Perch's Point."

Mrs. Latimer sat down suddenly. She looked very queer. "Don't!" she said at last.

"But Mrs. Snyder said—"

Mrs. Latimer looked grim. "I know. Because of what she said we went there. Everybody else has gone for the same reason. I could have stopped it all by a word, but I thought I'd keep still. Mrs. Enyder is my neighbor, and a kind of relation. And we didn't miss the money. When I saw that the rest were holding their tongues, I just made up my mind I'd never speak unless I had to. But I feel now as if I had to. I'll tell you folks what there is about it. Mrs. Snyder made an agreement with the hotel people to boost their place. She's paid for talking. Everybody who has been there knows it, but nobody wants to give her away or admit that they've been made fools of. Now you understand it all well enough to keep away from Perch's Point.

Little Mrs. Todd was gasping. She looked at Felix. Then she held out her hand to Mrs. Latimer. "Thank you a million times for telling us. I guess we've had a narrow escape. You don't know how I felt about seeing you all go when we had to stay at home. I was downright wretched. I guess Perch's Point is like a lot of other things you want because you only see one side of them. You've taught me a real lesson, besides saving Felix's vacation."

A very beautiful "farewell" party was given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bitner, of South Harrison street, when Mrs. Bitner entertained in honor of her niece, Miss Estella Graham, who is to wed within a few weeks, Carlos L. McMaster, of Columbus, Ohio. There were blooming plants of hyacinths and jonquils for decoration of the rooms. About twenty of Miss Graham's young women friends were asked to enjoy the party with her and arrangements were made for a shower of hosiery for the bride to be. Mrs. Bitner made a large stocking of pink tarletan, to which a long pink thread was attached. The stocking was hidden behind the piano and in it were the gifts. Miss Graham was told to unwind the thread and a fine hunt she had, upstairs and down, before it finally led her to the hidden gifts. Other threads which the guests had to follow up led to photographs of the bride as mementos of the occasion. The pictures were wrapped in pink paper and two were found at a time. After that fun there were two contests, both suggestive of an approaching wedding. One was to make a list of words from the letters found in the name, Estella. Another contest was to answer questions with letters found in the word stocking. So everyone had to make her wits work as well as her fingers and there was much laughter over the two contests. A little later came the announcement of supper time. The guests were then directed to the den, where suspended from the ceiling was a large white wedding bell, from which extended either green or white ribbons of crepe paper to the sides of the room. Under this bower Miss Graham stood and directed her friends to each take a ribbon-end, while she held the others. When the tangle was straightened out everyone found she had a partner to go to supper with. Supper was served in the basement, where Mr. and Mrs. Bitner have entertained their friends before. It was a vision in pink and white for the room was a peach tree garden in full bloom, while on the long table were white baskets of pink roses, white snapdragon and white and pink carnation blossoms. A corsage of roses for Miss Graham and small bouquets for each guest, together with festoons of bells and cupids above, and pink shaded lights, made the scene most charming. Tiny pink baskets held nuts and the menu included white wedding bell ice cream and pink heart cakes. Mrs. Bitner was assisted in serving the supper by her daughters, Misses Coreinne and Mildred Bitner. Covers were laid for twenty and the place cards were especially attractive, the work of Miss Coreinne Bitner, who designed them and did the work in water colors. The design of the cards was a landscape view approaching Columbus, with the word on a railroad guide post and a sketch of a house in the distance, suggestive of the new home Miss Graham is to occupy after a while.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

John Drew in a New Comedy, "The Chief," Monday Evening.

There are so few really successful dramatists that when an unknown one suddenly looms up on the theatrical horizon people generally are curious to know all about him. Such is the case regarding Horace Annesley Vachell, who wrote John Drew's new comedy, "The Chief," which comes to the Majestic next Monday. There are men who have written one successful play and have never been able, try as they might, to turn out another that would win popular favor. But within a year Mr. Vachell has had no less than four plays produced and hence the interest in a man who is so prolific a dramatist and so clever in being able to hit off the popular taste.

For more than twenty years, with absences from the state, Mr. Vachell lived in California. He married a native of the state, Miss Lydia Phillips, and to them two children were born. After the death of his wife Mr. Vachell returned to England, where he lives in a charming place near Southampton.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Opens Three Nights' Run, With Contest, This Evening.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," a favorite production for years, will open a three nights' run tonight at the Temple theater. While the floating ice and bloodhounds will be there to add something to the flight of Eliza, the play will not have to depend on such incidents to insure its success. It will be a really dramatic production of the play from Harriet Beecher Stowe's great work, which stands out prominently in the events prior to the civil war. Miss Ethel Hamerick, as "Topsy;" Frank Gallagher, as "Uncle Tom," and Marice Jenkins, as Lawyer Marks, are certain to score their usual successes in these rolls.

Amateur night Friday evening will be turned over to Fort Wayne colored folk and some real "stunts" are promised. A cake walking contest will end the production Saturday night.

AT KEITH PALACE

FOR THE WOMEN ONLY.

Special Eva Fay Matinee at the New Palace Friday.

An afternoon with Mrs. Eva Fay, without the trammeling presence of any men, is the unusual opportunity to be afforded Fort Wayne women Friday at the New Palace, when this famous mistress of mysticism and diviner of the hidden will solve the perplexities that the women propound. There will be no men in the theater during Mrs. Fay's presence on the stage and she will answer the most personal questions. Mrs. Fay has Fort Wayne by the ears through the amazing manner in which she divines questions, the names of the askers and the correct answers, although the questions merely are written on slips of paper and retained by the writers in their hands or pockets without a chance for a confederate so much as to see them. Thought wave transference, telepathy or whatever one may style it, one must concede that the act is a baffling mystery to the average mind. Mrs. Fay will remain at the theater until Saturday night and this afternoon will be presented at the head of a completely new bill.

The Misses Lightner and Alexander, that Jolly trio in songs, sayings and dainty dances; the Kelso Boys, the monarchs of the bicycle and kings of comedy; Arthur Rigby, through whose mask of burnt cork issues a steady stream of laugh compelling comedy; the Harmony trio, a singing combination of supreme merit and the Six Castillians, also known as the Cuban wonders, are some of the splendidly promising features on the week-end bill.

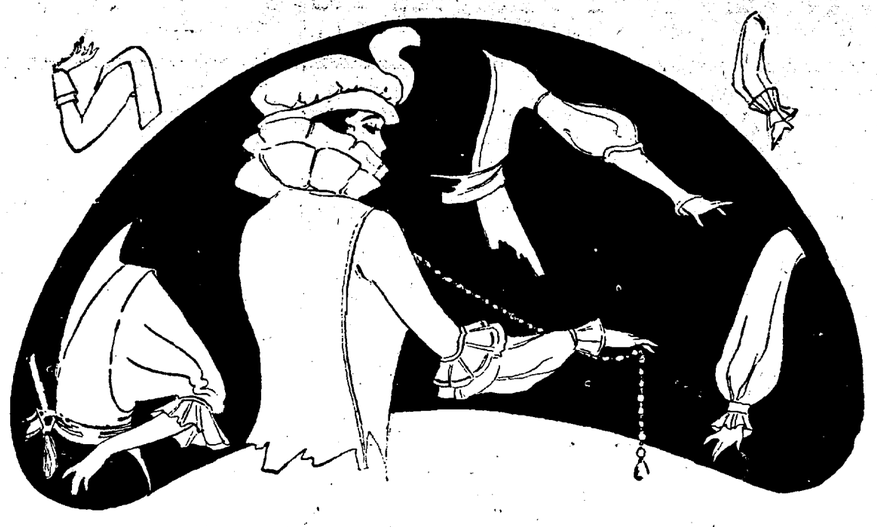
Look to Your Sleeve, Fair Maid; It Makes or Mars the 1916 Gown



By Betty Brown.

The collar may make the fashion this season, but the sleeve is a good "runner up." Better a gown of 50 cent serge with sleeve modishly puffed out or strapped in than a broadcloth gown that lags behind the style.

But how shall a poor maid know what is "it" in sleeves and what is "nit," I asked Mme. Alla Ripley, noted American designer and creator of many of the new sleeve models.

"So far there are only two things you may be certain about in sleeves," she said. "No sleeve follows the contour of the arm in unbroken line from shoulder to wrist, and no modish sleeve is exaggerated in style."

Believing that pictures speak louder than words I sketched a few of the Ripley models that will lead the sleeve fashions this spring.

The center figure shows the sleeve contour broken at elbow and wrist. The close fitting upper sleeve is of the same material as the gown; the double elbow frills match the collar in outline and material.

The sleeve at upper right starts out as a kimona, continues as a bishop until it is stopped below the elbow by a tight fitting, up-flaring cuff. The bishop puff is chiffon and the lower sleeve is taffeta. At lower right we find our old favorite the simple bishop sleeve which will be used on many of the sheer summer gowns.

Just to prove that the short sleeve hasn't altogether lost favor this charming model at the left has been designed for summer gowns.

AT THE GRAND

"A Social Deception" Featured at the Grand Today.

This is a three-reel drama with many climaxes. The cast is thoroughly competent, being composed of Edward J. Piel, Eugenie Besserer, Wheeler Oakman, Vivian Reed, Grace Darmond, Harry Mestayer and James Bradbury.

When Grace's father loses her inheritence, her fortune-hunting suitors abandon her. She meets Dodge, a millionaire, who pretends to have evidence that she is a crook, and claims to be a crook himself.

She goes to a dinner in his honor, and finds out his real identity, and is the means of reuniting him with his long-lost sister. He then asks Grace to marry him.

Friday and Saturday will be the last chapter of "The Girl and the Game."

ARMED MEXICANS ARE GATHERING

Border Patrol Suspicious of Concentration Near New Mexican Line.

Hachita, N. M., April 6.—Between 50 and 75 armed Mexicans from the American side of the border are concentrating in a secret position in the corner of Chihuahua that projects into New Mexico toward Hachita.

The border patrol has not discovered whether they are Villa sympathizers, or whether there is anything illegitimate in their movements.

But the appearance of so many armed men, singly and in twos and threes, has aroused suspicion in the minds of army men and border residents.

The alarm was given to the chief of the border patrol, by miners in the vicinity of Lost Cabin, northeast of Culberson's ranch, near which Col. Dodd's flying squadron of United States troops crossed the border.

They saw several parties of Mexicans with rifles, on horseback, passing toward the boundary, in the vicinity of the Banditas mine, which is on the Mexican side of the border and is operated by Mexicans.

There are half a dozen mines along this angle of the border, but only the Banditas and one American mine are now operated, because of present unsettled conditions.

Other Mexicans were seen riding toward the border near Doyle's wells, 12 miles southeast of Hachita, and only three miles from the international line.

There are three possible explanations of this Mexican concentration:

1. They may be scattered members of the Villa band who fled west and into the United States after the Columbus raid, arranging to meet at a secret point later.

2. They may be Villista agents getting ammunition into the Villa ranks from the bandit's American connections; thousands of rounds could be smuggled in this way, concealed under coats.

3. They may be lawless Mexicans from the New Mexico border towns, who see a chance to ply the bandit's trade in the present turmoil along the line.

The attack on an automobile at Lanark, on the Southern Pacific, is generally believed to have been made by outlaws living in the United States—not bandits from Mexico.

A communication has been received by Charles L. Biederwolf, secretary of the Commercial club, from ex-President William H. Taft, asking that delegates be sent from this city to the first annual national assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace, to be held in Washington on May 26 to 27.

KEEP ON PRAYING, MOTHERS

The saloon was crowded with men and boys. In the midst of their noisy talk a child's voice was heard through the thin partition:

"Take the name of Jesus with you,
Child of sorrow and of woe;
It will joy and comfort give you,
Take it, then, wher'er you go."

"Never mind, that's only my little Bessie singing one of her Sunday school pieces."

"Better hush her up," called a voice.

Again the little girl's voice rang out,

"Oh, the precious name of Jesus,
How it thrills our souls with joy!
When His loving arms receive us,
And His songs our tongues employ."

A young man put down the glass in his hand and went out. Another young man followed.

"What's the trouble, Will?"

"Trouble enough, Tom. I have a mother at home who has been praying for me all my life. That song made me remember her and her prayers. It spake to me of my sinful life. Tom, there is no hope of Heaven for me."

"Will," answered Tom. "It's the same with me. I too had a praying mother and though I loved her, I have not lived as she would have me."

"O, Will," cried Tom, "let's break away from the drink. It's spoiling our lives."

"If I only could; if I only could!" groaned Will.

"If that song is true," said the other, "we can find help in Jesus."

"There's a Bible in my trunk. My mother put it there when I left home. Come over to my room and we'll see if we can find help in it."

"Though your sins be as scarlet"—"that's me," sobbed Will.

"Read on, read this!" cried Tom. "They shall be as white as snow."

"Can it be true that the wrong of the past can be covered and we can have help to keep us right?"

That Bible whispered, "Whosoever will let him come," "I came to call sinners," "If we confess our sins, He will cleanse." When they came to David's prayer of forgiveness, "Create in me a clean heart," they made it their own. Then they knew David's joy of sins forgiven.

A mother went about her work with a troubled face. It is three weeks since the two asked God to cover their sins. This was Will's mother, sad-faced and troubled because it had been so long since any word had come from the boy away from home.

"Here is a letter for you!" called the postman. "It is from Will." The mother's sad face lighted up. What she read filled her with joy. Her prayers had been answered. Her boy's letter was filled with joy for sins covered and the help he was having from Jesus in keeping upright. She had never had a letter like this from Will before. How happy she was!

Saloonless Denver.

The same Denver that in another and a wetter day rejoiced in its reputation of being a "wide open" town, where "everything went," has known for more than a month the aridities of a saloonless existence. John Barleycorn was made to take his sign down in that town January 1. During the period immediately preceding, the pessimists had everything their own way. There would no longer be any money in circulation. Business would go to the dogs. Tourists would cease to visit Denver. It would become a "one-horse" town. Taxes would go up and property values come down. All the familiar arguments habitually advanced in every city of considerable size whenever it is proposed to close the saloon were brought forward in Denver.

More than a month has passed. Grass has not yet sprouted in the streets of the business section. A prosperous and contented people seem to thrive even more abundantly than before the drouth began. The New York Sun states: "Restaurants, poolhalls and other lines of business are reporting the best times in years." Many of the saloons have been converted into food shops, where light drinks are sold. Several of the largest breweries are engaged in the production of non-alcoholic beverages. There has been no falling off in rents. We are told, 'those saloons which did not reopen have already moved out and every desirable saloon site in the city has been snapped up for some other line of business.'"

GOOD PREACHING

A Y. M. C. A. secretary learned to say "Good Morning" in a foreign language. One morning he tried it on a discouraged looking "Dago" steel worker, on his way to work. The man looked up amazed and apparently unmoved. Next morning the friendly man had another "Good Morning, John" for him, and John responded with just four words: "You're like Jesus Christ!"

That was good preaching.—Association Men.

THEY FLY, BUT NEVER RETURN

Says Benjamin Franklin, the most American of Americans:

Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.

The flying minutes make up life, success, happiness. It is easy to let them escape; impossible to coax them back.

If you have time, you are rich, for you may accomplish anything; but if your fortune of time is wasted, you can do nothing.—Los Angeles Herald.

MUST I NOT STRIVE?

I had a long conversation the other day with a butcher, on the railroad, on the reason why men smoke and drink. This led us to the subject of the bitter misery that sin produces, even in this life; and the various attempts that men make to smother conscience and drown sorrow. The butcher had just lost his wife, was left with two little children, had passed through some trouble of conscience; but, what was worse, he often took too much drink. In short, we both agreed that one great reason why men drink is the misery and burden of sin. He owned it was a wretched thing thus to go on from sin to sin; and that solemn word of God sounded heavy in his ears, "The drunkard shall not inherit the kingdom of God." I found him much interested in the things of religion, and wishful to converse upon them. I found he purposed, at some future time, to make a firm resolution to cast off his sins and become religious. Alas! how many are now in hell who once had the same intention as this butcher! He evidently thought a little striving of his own, at any time, would do all that is required.

"Well, now," said I, "man is certainly in a wretched condition through sin; but how do you think he is to get saved from this guilt and misery?" "Well, you know," said the butcher, "it will not do for a man to go on in his sins until he dies, will it? He must strive hard to give up all his bad ways, and live to God." I replied, "He will never save himself by his striving in that way." "What!" said he, "do you mean to say a man must not strive?" "As long as he does strive in that way," said I, "he is a rejecter of Christ." I saw the poor man was evidently trusting in his future strivings. "Explain yourself," said he, "whatever do you mean?—A man striving is a man rejecting the gospel of Christ! What do you mean?"

I replied, "I will illustrate what I mean. Suppose you have gone on in sin and drunkenness until you have brought your family to starvation; you have not a farthing to buy them food, and you are too ill to make the least effort; when a friend comes to your house, spreads your table with plenty, and begs you to eat. If then you say, 'No; I must strive to get food myself,' would not you be rejecting the kindness of your friend? and would not this rejection of his love continue as long as ever you continue your striving? And is it not so with the lost sinner? Man is so bad that he really does go on sinning until he dies. Is he not as helpless as the starving man? God has come to his rescue—God has given His own Son to meet his deepest need as a lost sinner, by the death on the cross. He died to deliver us because we could not possibly save ourselves. God, the Friend above all friends, has come in Christ to our house of wretchedness and sin; and He, in pure love and pity, has spread the table of salvation—all things are ready. Oh! it is God who beseeches poor dying sinners to eat the bread of life spread before them. 'Now, then, we are ambassadors for Christ; as though God did beseech you by us, we pray you, in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.' The kindness of God to perishing sinners has now been shown by the death of Jesus. Now, pardon and deliverance as preached through Him. Surely, then, the longer I strive to save myself, the longer I reject the kindness of God of all love."

How to Read the Bible

George Muller was one of the greatest Bible readers, who read it reverently and with profit, every day, and his directions for reading it may well be adopted:

"Read the Scriptures regularly through. Read alternately portions from the Old and New Testaments. Begin at the beginning of each. Mark where you leave off and begin there next time. When you have finished each Testament, begin it again.

"Read with Prayer.—You cannot by your own wisdom understand the Word of God. In all your reading of the Scriptures, seek carefully the help of the Holy Spirit. Ask, for Jesus' sake, that he will enlighten you.

"Read with Meditation.—Ponder over what you read; the truth is thus applied to your heart. You see new and deeper meanings. It is better to think over a little than merely to read a great deal.

"Read with Reference to Yourself.—Never read only with a view to instructing others, but for your own teaching. Receive blessing yourself first, and you will communicate it to others. Always ask yourself, 'How does this affect me?'

"Read with Faith.—Not as statements which you may believe or not, but as the revealed Word of God. Receive every word as true, with simple, childlike trust. Rest upon the promises. Read them as made for you.

"Read in Order to Carry into Practice.—We must accept His Word as being the revelation of His will. In it He tells us what to be and what to do. He expects us to be 'Obedient children.'"—R. Messenger.

Calamity Often Cures Skepticism

Horatio W. Bottomley, editor of John Bull, and a prominent skeptic of London, in a statement renouncing his unbelief recently said: "In my fifty-fifth year, and after a very strenuous life, I now believe in God, and in the immortality of the soul of man. The great world war has done it. In it there is a mighty alchemy transmuting the base metal of human experience into the pure currency of faith. In these soul-searching days no man can be content with a mere negative philosophy. The doubter must go to the wall. Pure rationalism, however scientific, has no word of comfort for weary watchers, or of solace for broken hearts." When Lord Ashburton visited the home of Dr. James McCosh in Ireland before he came to the presidency at Princeton, he told him that his wife had died and that he had gone, for some source of comfort, to his friend Thomas Carlyle, who recommended Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister," but that no ease came to his soul. Dr. McCosh told him that neither Goethe nor Carlyle, but Jesus Christ alone, could give him help in such an hour. The troubles, the tragedies of life scatter unbelief to the four winds and sweep the soul into Christ as a refuge. The apostle thus announces this ministry of affliction: "For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." (2 Cor. 4:17).—The Christian Herald.

JOHN WESLEY'S RULE

"Packing Pork to Pay Expenses—An Incident in Moody's Life

(Tent-making and soul-winning—these went together for Paul; pork-packing and soul-winning—these for William Reynolds. And how the latter came to combine these two diverse lines of activity is herewith told by Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston).

I wish to relate to you a story which I heard over twenty years ago, from the lips of the man himself of whom I speak. He was William Reynolds, of Peoria, Illinois. It was several years before, that he was stopped on the street by a friend who asked him this question: "Mr. Reynolds, how long have we known each other?" After a moment's thought he replied, "About fifteen years." The friend continued: "Mr. Reynolds, do you believe that I must accept Christ as my Saviour, if I am saved?" "Yes, I do," was the reply. The friend continued: "Mr. Reynolds, are you a Christian?" To this he assented. With unexpected intensity, the friend then asked: "Mr. Reynolds, do you care whether I am saved or not?" "Why, certainly I do!" exclaimed this Christian. "Pardon me, I do not mean to hurt your feelings," said his friend, "but I do not believe it. As you say, for fifteen years we have known each other. We have frequently met in social contact. We have discussed almost everything under the heavens; yet in all this time you never once uttered one word to let me know that you cared about my soul. Of course, when I put the question, you assert your concern; but surely if you had cared you would have spoken. You are a leading Christian in this city, and if you had ever told me you had something precious in your life which I ought to have, I would have listened to you with respect. But you never spoke the word and I cannot believe you really cared."

An Unlooked-For Question

With shame Mr. Reynolds confessed that he had shirked many an opportunity to speak for Jesus Christ. But being much affected by this conversation he said to his friend: "What has happened to stir you up in this way?". His friend replied that on the previous day, as he was entering the train at Chicago, a man came in after him, occupied the same seat, and began a conversation somewhat as follows: "Pleasant day!" "Yes," said the friend. "Fine crops!" said the stranger. "So I believe," was the reply. The stranger, evidently bent on conversation said: "We ought to be very thankful to the good Lord for all His blessings." "Why, yes, I suppose we ought," was the reply. Then came the leading question: "My friend, are you a Christian?" The friend replied, "Well, I believe the church is a good thing, I would not wish to bring up my family in a city that had no churches in it; but really, I have never given any serious thought to this subject." Then the still more surprising statement from the stranger was this: "My friend, I would like to pray with you!" "Well," said the friend, "if we were in a convenient place, I do not know as I would have any objections." "Oh, we will never have a better place than this!" said the stranger. "And Reynolds," continued his friend, "before I knew it, he pulled my head down behind the car seat and was praying as I never heard a man pray. He prayed as if he believed there was no possible hope for me unless I accepted Christ as my Saviour. He prayed that God would give me no peace until I had repented of my sins and my indifference, and had turned to God in faith. I never heard such a prayer. Suddenly the brakeman called out the name of a station, and he said, 'Good-bye, my friend, I must get off here. Remember. Now is the accepted time. Now is the day of salvation,' and he was almost gone before I realized that I did not know his name. I rushed after him and said: 'Sir, will you please tell me your name?' He replied: 'My name is D. L. Moody.'"

One Man Who "Cared."

The friend continued: "Mr. Reynolds, I have heard of that man Moody and his wonderful work in Chicago. There is one man in the world who cares about my soul. He never saw me before, and never expected to see me again; but he could not miss that opportunity to lead me to my Saviour. Hundreds of Christians would have said that was no place to speak to a man about his personal religious life; but he wanted no better place. And the matter is so upon my heart that I have decided to go to Chicago, and hunt up that man Moody, and settle this matter." But William Reynolds was too much of a Christian to allow his friend to go away alone in that state of mind, and before they separated that evening he had led his friend to give his heart to Christ. Then, as he turned homeward, he exclaimed: "O God! forgive me! forgive my sin of unconcern about the dying men all about me! Here I have been counting myself one of the leading Christians in this city. Yet here is a man who can tell me that for fifteen years I have known him, and have never uttered a word to indicate to him any concern about his soul. There is something wrong about my Christianity! I think I would better go to Chicago and get acquainted with this man Moody!" And this very thing he did. It was the beginning of an acquaintance that transformed William Reynolds' life.

"Packing Pork to Pay Expenses."

These two Christian business men talked over the needs of the church of Christ, and Mr. Reynolds went home to begin a work of positive Christian activity such as he had never dreamed before of attempting for Christ. Some years before he died, I met a gentleman from Peoria on the Pacific coast. I said to him: "I suppose you know my friend, William Reynolds, of that city?" He replied: "Oh, yes. Every one in Peoria knows him." I referred to his great work, as he had gone from the leading church to a destitute part of the city and had built up a strong people's church from a mission Sunday school, started in a hall over a saloon. This gentleman spoke in the highest terms of the extent of blessed influence which had radiated from that work. Then I asked: "What is Mr. Reynolds' business now?" He replied: "Why, have you never heard what they say about him in Peoria? They say that William Reynolds' business is to serve the Lord Jesus Christ, and he packs pork to pay the expenses."

What God did through William Reynolds He can do through you—in lesser, or even in greater measure—if you will let him. Will you give Him a chance? "Freely ye have received, freely give."

Billy Sunday's Lincoln Illustration

During the civil war Lincoln issued an order that no soldier would be granted a furlough. A while after that order, one soldier got word that his wife was dying. His superiors couldn't grant him the furlough, but they did let him go and try to see the president. But when he reached the president's office a guard outside stopped him and told him it was impossible to see the great man. The soldier went away discouraged, his eyes filled with tears.

Outside a little boy saw him. The boy was Tad Lincoln. The little boy said, "What's the matter, Mister Soldier?" And when the man told the child why he mourned, the little fellow said: "Come with me; I'll take you to see him—he's my papa." The boy got the soldier past the guard and Lincoln signed the order allowing him to go to the bedside of his dying wife.

That story is perfect. Here is sin, the guard at the door, and you can't get by. Sin is the barrier. Twenty-nine years ago, in a Chicago mission Jesus Christ came to me. I could not get past the door, but he took me in.

FIGHTING TRIM

In a pamphlet entitled "Fighting Trim," just issued by the United States public health service, Surgeon J. M. Eager lays stress upon personal endeavor of every individual as of the highest public importance in the organized war against disease. The wonderful victories that have been won in combating infectious maladies have had a tendency to divert popular attention from the equally important personal fortification against diseases of all kinds. The question of preparedness against onslaughts of the enemy, a query prominent in the minds of everyone in these days of warfare is put in a special personal bearing as relating to the dangers threatened by disease, the permanent enemy of mankind. Are you personally prepared, it is asked, for the hand-to-hand encounter with disease that you are sure to be forced into sooner or later or in which perhaps you are already engaged? Unless you are willing to succumb without a struggle, fight you must, no matter how feeble your fighting proclivities are. The inevitability of the battle against disease is strongly insisted upon. Peace between nations, it is stated, may not be an unattained hope, but even when the much desired era of human concord comes and armed strife among men has ceased, there will still be an everlasting battle to fight, a ceaseless struggle for a few more years of health and life, a desperate conflict against a foe who, as far as victory over the individual fighter is concerned is certain in the end to win—the battle against disease.

In the defense against disease two things are necessary—a systematic union of fighters, the sanitary organization, and personal preparedness, the product of intelligent and diligent personal hygiene. Personal preparedness is the patriotic duty of every citizen as an aid to national sanitary defense. No man as a member of society is morally free to live unhygienically or to acquire disease through lack of personal care. Like a slovenly soldier, the person who neglects his health, risks imparting to others his loose morals, or even transmitting disease to the whole community.

THE MENACE OF ALCOHOL

"It is quite true that I have taken much more interest in the temperance question in the last ten years of my life than I did earlier, and this increase of interest has come from certain studies and opportunities for observation. These studies related to the terrible effects of alcoholism in increasing the number of feeble-minded, insane and criminal in our American communities. Later, I had the opportunity of studying the German investigations on the mental effects of very limited doses of alcohol, doses which most people have always supposed to be completely innocuous. The German investigations seemed to me to prove that every twenty-four hours after taking a small dose of alcohol the time-reaction in the human being is unfavorably affected. Now the quickness of the time-reaction is important to every machinic; to every artisan, and particularly to every person who is engaged in a dangerous occupation, like driving an automobile for instance, or managing a circular saw, or, indeed, in the tending of any powerful machine or hot furnace. Lastly, somewhat more than a year ago, I had a long opportunity of observing the difference between the white race and the Japanese, the Chinese, the Indian, the Malay and some of the Mahometan people, in regard to susceptibility to the alcoholic temptation. The white race is inferior to all the other people I have named in regard to this susceptibility to the temptation of alcoholism. No observant person can travel through the east for a year without being shocked by the manifest tendency of the white race temporarily resident there to destroy itself through alcoholism. Alcohol is destructive in the highest degree to the white race in the tropics, and all through the tropics the white-race exhibits a terrible lack of self-control with regard to the use of alcohol drinks. It is mortifying to the last degree for an American to see intoxicated American soldiers and sailors staggering about the streets of the Chinese cities where we now have troops, and never to see a Japanese soldier in such condition; although the Japanese have five times as many troops there as we have. I mention but a single fact; but the lesson of the east is that the alcoholism of the white race must be overcome, or that vice, with the licentiousness it promotes, will overcome the race."—Charles W. Eliot.

Diseases Caused by Use of Tobacco

Tobacco causes diseases of the digestive organs, nervous system, head, lungs, eyes and brain—heartburn, nausea, costiveness and diseases of the liver and kidneys—pains in the chest, difficulty of breathing and violent palpitation of the heart.

Tobacco also produces unnatural sleep, nightmare and a great number and variety of affections which we have not space to mention. Of course, it does not affect all persons alike, but where there is one man who has constantly used it and lived to old age there are tens of thousands who have been killed by the vile stuff before they arrived at middle life. The senior physician to the Metropolitan Free Hospital in London, England, writes as follows: "I must protest against the use of tobacco in any form. This is also the opinion of Drs. Broadee, Copeland, Critchett, Guerrin, Mantegazza, Cocopardo and numerous heads of my profession in all countries."

ALCOHOL AND PNEUMONIA

The United States Public Health Service, from its department of Health News, sends out the following:

"The United States Public Health Service brands strong drink as the most efficient ally of pneumonia. It declares that alcohol is the handmaiden of the disease which produces ten per cent. of the deaths in the United States. This is no exaggeration. We have known for a long time that indulgence in alcoholic liquors lowers in the individual vitality, and that the man who drinks is peculiarly susceptible to pneumonia. The United States Public Health Service is a conservative body. It does not engage in alarmist propaganda. In following out the line of its official duties, it has brought forcefully to the general public a fact that will bear endless repetition. The liberal and continuous user of alcoholic drinks will do well to heed this warning, particularly at this season of the year when the gruesome death toll from pneumonia is being doubled."

SENSIBLE YET INVINCIBLE

"Thou nearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh and whither it goeth." Two old miners lost their way in a coal mine that stretched out under the sea. The lights went out and they were in imminent danger of death. After wandering a long time, one of them said, "Let us sit perfectly quiet and see if we can feel which way the air is moving. It always moves towards the shaft." At length one of them felt the air on his cheek; he sprang up and said, "I felt it!" They went in the direction in which the air was moving and reached the shaft. Note—"If a little breath from God so gentle you barely recognize it touches your soul, do not disregard it. Thank God and give yourself up to it and you will come out of darkness, bondage and sorrow, into perfect light and joy."

ADVICE TO YOUNG LADIES

Dear Young Ladies: You who are old enough to be looking for your future helpmate, which is perfectly proper and right, let me advice you, first of all, to ask God to help you in this the most important step in life and try to be guided by your parents' and older friends' advice. You should not be in haste to fall in love and accept the first offer of marriage, fearing you may not have another, especially if his only recommendations are his fine looks and good clothes—often the first love is only "puppy love"—and will soon fade and die. It only takes a few moments and a cost of a few dollars to have the marriage knot tied, but it takes many months and several hundred dollars to have it untied, or annulled, besides the disgrace and heartaches.—Your Friend.

WHAT IS THRIFT?

To form the habit of spending money only for the things you really, truly, want—that is thrift—the thrifty man will have more fun and probably spend more money in a lifetime than the spendthrift—he will certainly have more to spend. The thrifty man will be his own master—when the time comes if he wants a gun he can buy a good one; if he wants to go hunting or fishing he can take a vacation for the purpose. He has not wasted his money on trifles that did not really interest him. He is free to do the things he really wants to do. The difference is like that between trained soldiers who submit to discipline so they can win and the soldiers who, because of self-indulgence and lack of discipline, get whipped.—Bolton Smith, Memphis, Tenn.

Diphtheria is a disease that is always caused by germs. Diphtheria germs never cause other disease except diphtheria.

This disease is caused by the growth of the diphtheria germs on the tonsils or mucus membrane of the throat.

The diphtheria germ does not usually grow in the body unless the covering membrane of the tonsil or throat is injured. When this membrane has been injured or when the individual is exhausted or his resisting powers lowered by exposure or weakened by some other infection, the diphtheria germ may be able to grow and by the poisonous substances which are produced, set up an infection which we call diphtheria.

Many cases of diphtheria are very mild and are often not recognized as diphtheria, but are considered as tonsilitis or merely sore throat.

Sometimes the germs are found in the throats of perfectly healthy persons who do not at any time show any symptoms of the disease.

If these germs through sneezing, coughing or in any other manner get into the throat of some one else, they are very likely to cause diphtheria in that person.

THREE MORE DAYS TO ENTER HORSESHOE CONTEST

SENTINEL PITCHING TOURNEY ENTRIES TO CLOSE MONDAY EVENING AT 6 O'CLOCK

With but three more days to enter The Sentinel horseshoe pitching contest and the events scheduled to be played off in a couple of weeks, the entries are coming in fast. The entry list closes at 6 o'clock Monday evening, April 10, and none will be accepted after that time. Close to sixty are entered in the singles and nearly a hundred in the doubles to date, and the returns are coming in so fast that indications point to a total list of more than 200.

Yesterday there were a score of pitchers practicing up at Swinney park, and each day and each evening finds the players working out about the city. Alleys and back yards and vacant lots are being put into service as horseshoe pitching courts.

The Variety of Shoes.

There has come up some discussion as to the types and varieties of horseshoes to be used, with the result that the committee of management will give a wide range of latitude to the kinds.

Here are the rules governing the shoes:

Each shoe must not weigh more than 2½ pounds.

The opening between the prongs may not be over 3½ inches across.

No shoes may be magnetized.

These are the only conditions. If you prefer a flat shoe that will slide into a ringer easily, you may have it.

If you want sharpened caulks that will prevent the shoe from sliding it is your own lookout. There are players who can play better with one kind than with the other, and it has been decided to allow them to take their choice.

CLEARY'S BOSSES TO MEET TONIGHT

Shop Leaguers Hold Session to Report on Advertising.

Mart Cleary and his shop leaguers will be on the job again tonight at their regular meeting and reports indicate that the score book advertising proposition is practically finished. The boys have been hard at work on the book and already have contracted for advertising amounting to several hundred dollars, enough to keep the league on its feet throughout the coming year.

The teams will work out Saturday afternoon and the managements seem to be well satisfied with the outlook for the coming season. Since the organization meeting held in The Sentinel office two months ago a great amount of work has been completed and the league is in the best shape any local city league has ever been.

JOE TINKER IS UP IN THE AIR.

Chicago, April 6.—It looks as though Manager Joe Tinker will not know the "regular" Cub lineup until he announces his batting order at Cincinnati April 12. In his endeavor to find a line of battle that will combine speed in the field and strength at the bat, the Cub leader has shifted his men about continually. He is confident he finally has injected into the squad some of th e"pepper" and fighting spirit he deemed lacking at the start but is still in doubt as to the makeup of the infield and outfield. Doolan's failure to round into form spoiled his plans for the inner defense, but in himself and Mulligan Tinker has reserve strength to use until Mike regains his speed. Mann's hitting slump has disappointed the manager, too, and leaves the outer gardens still to be definitely filled. It is probable that Schulte may retain his old place in left.

WHY NOT APRIL FIRST?

Gotch and Stecher are to meet on Labor day.

Ho, golfers! List to the claims of John L. Hudson, an inventive genius of Newark, N. J. Hudson has applied for a patent on a golf club which, it is said, will correct wild drives. The club has a bi-concave face, the bi-concaing being done both ways on driver and brassie to a dead center. By this method, it is asserted, more of the surface of the ball is covered by the club in making the stroke. Result: More impact, a longer ball and a straighter drive.

No, my dear, the Bitter Root Kid is not a patent medicine. He's a fighter who has just come out of Montana and threatens to conquer the world.

If Fort Wayne had a place to stage the games she might have roller polo for a week this spring. Grand Rapids is in the midst of a five-day series, and the local fans would like to have the teams come back again.

They don't seem to appreciate the high school team's track suits at the Washington gym, for the teachers at the school have raised a loud objection to the abbreviated uniforms and kicked the athletes out into the cold.

TOO MUCH WAR.

St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—Thomas G. Watts, jr., who promoted the big Missouri Athletic association indoor track carnival, has decided to resign as chairman of the association as soon as the financial details of the meet are settled.

"Long distance wrangling was too much for me," Watts said. "I lost ten pounds, resigned from business, lost half of my friends, made hundreds of enemies and worried myself sick. Hereafter in any athletic meet I shall be a private citizen. No more promoting. I'm going back into business harness for a vacation."

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 6.—"He's up in the air." This old familiar lay of the ball field, heard when pitchers falter under heavy fire, has seldom been rendered at the expense of Grover Cleveland Alexander. Yet Alex was "up in the air," literally, likewise actually, only recently and returning to mother earth took a solemn oath he'd never go there any more.

The Quaker star ascended here in company with Johnny Green, the aviator who made the trip across Lookout mountain. Green has been flying between St. Petersburg and Tampa and his craft has attracted Alex to the water front daily. Manager Moran was reluctant to allow his slab marvel to make the trip and welcomed him with open arms upon his return.

THE PROGRESS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

Cincinnati, O., April 6.—Twelve graduates of the Cincinnati public schools division for baseball umpires will be graduated at the home plate at league park a half hour previous to the beginning of the National league game with the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds on Saturday, April 15.

This announcement was made simultaneously today by Superintendent of Schools Randall J. Condon and President August Herrmann, of the Cincinnati club.

Of the twenty-eight men who took the course for the last year and likewise the recent examination, twelve of them passed while the remainder will continue on through the second year's course. A new class will begin another course in the fall, two years being required before any are permitted to take an examination which would entitle them to receive diplomas.

The graduation exercises will be staged just previous to the time for calling the players into the field for practice and the principal address will be made by Secretary John E. Bruce, of the national commission, while Superintendent Condon will likewise make a few remarks and then award the diplomas.

NOBODY LOVES A FAT MAN.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 6.—In an effort to put a stop to the practice of prize fighters entering Minnesota rings overweight, M. L. Molan, Minneapolis representative on the Minnesota state boxing commission, will present to the commission at its next meeting a proposal to incorporate a rule providing for the deduction of 10 per cent of a fighter's purse for failure to make the required weight.

"We have authority to make rules and we could do nothing that would help the game more than a rule of this character," said Mr. Molan. "Many fighters would deliberately forfeit a small sum posted on making a weight in order to enter the ring with an advantage in pounds, which, of course, is unfair to the opposing fighter. But a rule deducting 10 per cent of the purse would undoubtedly solve the question."

POLICE SEEK WOMAN AGAIN

Say South Bend Prisoner Took Wife and Assumed Husband's Name.

South Bend, Ind., April 5.—The police are trying to find Marjorie Forsythe, who said she is the wife of E. S. Miller, alias Basil Forsythe, bound over to the grand jury here on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Word was received from Elmira, N. Y., where the couple said they were married, charging that Miller ran away with Mrs. Forsythe, and adopted her husband's name. The husband is coming to South Bend. The woman was here Saturday, but has been missing since. In the preliminary hearing of Miller's case the evidence was that Miller has been representing himself as a magazine agent, and has been working in Evansville, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and other places.

PLOGSTERTH HEADS SCHOOL TENNIS CLUB

High Schoolers Plan Meet With More Than 100 Entries.

At a meeting of tennis enthusiasts held at the Fort Wayne high and manual training school Wednesday evening Bill Plogsterth was elected chairman of the committee, which will take charge of the coming meet.

It is expected to drag out about 100 or 125 players in the school meet, which will be played off early next month. It is hoped to play many of the games on the public park courts, although the various tennis clubs have offered their courts for the affairs.

The net men will get out and begin their practice within a few days, and the school has several players who are pretty nearly stars right now, and need nothing but training to place them in the front rank among the players of the city.

VOTELESS EAST AND VOTING WEST UNITE

Have Joined Forces in Tremendous Effort for Ballot.

Washington, April 6.—The suffragists of the east say they will prove that Kipling's "never the two can meet" is mere poetry.

In a "suffrage special" 25 of the leading suffragists of the east will go from Washington, April 9, to meet suffragists of the west.

In the 12 "free states of the west" voting women are preparing a reception for their eastern guests, and when the two "armies" meet they will unite for a tour.

Through Chicago, Kansas City, Topeka, Wichita, Cheyenne, Denver, Colorado Springs, Tucson, Seattle, Spokane, Great Falls, Butte, Portland and other western cities the suffrage special will whiz, stopping at the capital of each suffrage state and other towns along the westward route.

Public meetings will be held and there will be rear-platform speeches by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Miss Helen Todd and Mrs. Inez M. Boissevain.

Each speech will be an appeal to the women who have won the vote to use it in support of the national woman suffrage amendment.

The tour will end about May 12 at Salt Lake City, where delegates from the 12 suffrage states will organize the woman's party to support the national suffrage amendment.

Governor Arthur Capper, of Kansas; Governor Samuel V. Stewart, of Montana, and Governor J. B. Kendrick, of Wyoming, have approved the plan to organize a woman's party.

Training for the Track

(By Fred Kelly, World's Champion High Hurdler.)

Don't worry over your race or over your condition. Worrying is the surest way to retard your progess. In fact, don't worry over anything. If a man be of a nervous temperament he should avoid thinking of his race. Go in determined to win.

In training for the hurdle events a man must practice form particularly. This, of course, along toward the end of his period of training, say, about the last week. Before he goes in for the hurdle work he must be sure of his wind and he must know he can get away to a good start.

Good form in hurdle racing consists in keeping as close to the top of the hurdle in going over as possible without knocking the hurdle down. The idea is to spend the time on the ground running rather than in the air.

Experience has shown that less time is wasted if a runner takes his hurdles with his leg straight out in front rather than doubled under him in the old-fashioned way. In this manner he keeps closer to the bar and spends less time in the air. A man should be very careful to avoid turning sidewise in leaping the hurdles as this causes him to lose time.

Now a word about rub-down. A good rub before a man goes out on the track limbers up his muscles and puts him in better shape to run. No man should ever attempt to travel his distance without first warming up with a little jogging. Nothing will snap a tendon quicker than the strain of running without first having limbered up the muscles.

After a workout a warm shower, a vigorous rub, a cold shower and then a man is as fit as a fiddle and ready to face the air without fear of catching cold.

During the training season, of course, a man should never smoke or drink. In fact, if a man expects to put himself in the championship class he should never become addicted to the tobacco or liquor habits. Some coaches recommend that a man never eat sweets during the training season, but I find if I eliminate sweets for the last week it is sufficient. I have no fads about diet. Good, plain, wholesome food I find is all that is necessary. I get eight hours of sleep every night when I am getting into condition for a meet.

FRED KELLY.

Fred Kelly, 24 years old, holds the intercollegiate record for high hurdles. Time 15 seconds. Distance 120 yards. He also has equaled the world's record for low hurdles on a curved track. Time 24.4 seconds. Distance 220 yards. He does a hundred yards in ten seconds flat.

RECOUNTING BALLOTS STARTS NEXT MONDAY

Comissioners Are Named in Vonderau-Hursh Contest.

Three commissioners were named Thursday by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court to recount all the ballots cast at the primary election on March 7 as petitioned for in the contest proceedings brought by Christian G. Vonderau, of St. Joe township, against Allen Hursh, of this city, to determine the democratic nominee for county recorder. The commissioners named by the court and agreed upon by both Vonderau and Hursh are: W. A. Johnson, Clark Harrod and Albert T. Miller.

The recounting of the ballots will be started Monday morning at 9 o'clock and will continue until every democratic ballot cast has been counted. This will require two or three days. The clerk of the court will act as clerk of the board. Charles Niezer and Louis Crosby will be witnesses for Hursh, the present incumbent, and William Fruechtenicht and Jay Brown for Vonderau.

The proceedings were first brought by Vonderau in the circuit court and later in the county commissioners' court. There was no transfer, however, and when it was found that the petition had not been filed with the commissioners within the period required by law, which says that a contest must be started within ten days after the result of a primary election is officially known, Mr. Vonderau decided to proceed upon his petition pending in the circuit court.

Mr. Vonderau received a majority of the first choice votes in the primary election, but when it came to counting the second choice it was found that he was defeated by a very close margin. Because of errors on the part of the election officials in a number of precincts in the county it was impossible for the primary election board to count the second choice votes in these precincts. Mr. Vonderau is of the opinion that if these second choice votes had been counted he would have been nominated.

Manier Will Filed.

The will of the late Joseph Manier, of Arcola, was filed in the circuit court Thursday in which the deceased leaves his entire estate to his wife during her lifetime and at her death to be divided among his children, Joseph J., August, Robert, Sebastian, Maria, Mary Mason, Rosa Boaeuf, Anna Palmer, an adopted son, Elmer, and the children of a deceased child. One hundred dollars are left to the St. Patrick's church at Arcola. The widow, Margaret Manier, is named as executrix.

Suit for Divorce.

Charging desertion Harry Wilson, residing at 911 St. Mary's avenue, has brought suit in the superior court asking for a divorce from Abbie M. Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were married April 15, 1901, and separated December 1, 1915. They have four children as follows: Harry, 8; Abbie, 11, and Berril and Bertha, each twenty two months old. The suit was filed through Attorney Phil B. Colerick.

Jury Hears Case.

A jury in the circuit court Thursday heard the case brought by Diederich J. Brandt against his uncle, Diederich Brandt, for $600 alleged to have been collected by the defendant on a piece of property belonging to the plaintiff. The case has been pending for a number of years. The testimony disclosed that the uncle had paid the money to the plaintiff's father and one of the principal questions to be decided is whether this would bar the son. Judge David N. Smith, of Decatur, is presiding.

Failed to Report Accident.

An affidavit was filed in the circuit court Thursday by Prosecuting Attorney Frank Emrick against Alva Lahrman, charging him with failing to report an accident where an injury had occurred. Some months ago, it is alleged, Lahrman struck the rig of Mahlon White, on the Leesburg road, with his automobile. The rig was overturned and Mrs. White and grandchild were painfully hurt. It is alleged that Lahrman never stopped his machine and made no effort to ascertain whether anyone had been injured. The affidavit was originally filed in the court of 'Squire Henry J. Grabner, where a preliminary hearing was held. It was found that the justice of the peace did not have jurisdiction.

Damage Case Monday.

The case of Adam H. Hans against the Pennsylvania Railroad company wherein $10,000 is asked by the plaintiff for the loss of an automobile and personal injuries, has been set for Monday, April 10, in the circuit court. The suit is the result of a crossing accident at Maples a year ago, in which the automobile was struck by Pennsylvania passenger train, killing William Richey, injuring Adam H. Hans and demolishing the auto. The railway company settled with the heirs of William Richey some time ago.

Petition to Change Name.

The county commissioners have taken under advisement a petition filed Thursday by C. D. Kammeier and forty-three others asking that the name of the Bass road be changed to Winona drive. The road was named in honor of John H. Bass, whose farm and beautiful country home is along the highway. The road is sometimes known by various names, such as the Yellow river road, Leesburg and Columbia City road.

The Gable road and Hartman roads in Wayne township and the Harmon road in Marion township were established Thursday by the county commissioners. The Hartman road is an extension of South Broadway across the St. Mary's river to connect with the Winchester road, while the Gable and Harmon roads extend east of the Decatur road.

Cruelty Is Charged.

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Meta M. Oberlin through her attorney, Howard Hanthorn, filed suit in the superior court Thursday asking for a divorce from Guy E. Oberlin. Mr. and Mrs. Oberlin were married on Sept. 21, 1911, and separated Feb. 26, 1916. They have one child, June Oberlin, three years old. Mrs. Oberlin charges her husband with failing to make reasonable provisions for the support of his family. She is an invalid.

Mrs. Coby Makes Answer.

Mrs. Henrietta Coby, who was made defendant in a suit for divorce filed by Herschel Coby on March 29, has filed a cross-complaint in which she makes a number of ugly charges. She is asking that the decree for divorce be granted to her and that she be given the custody of their four-year-old baby. A restraining order was granted by Judge Yaple in the superior court to prevent the Pennsylvania Railroad company from paying to Coby wages due him for work until disposition has been made of the case pending. Mrs. Coby alleges that her husband on a number of occasions struck her and called her many vile names. She also charges cruelty to their little baby.

Two Issues Sold.

County Treasurer W. F. Ranke has sold two issues of road bonds. The $10,000 issue for the Dan Row road in Monroe township was sold to the Hamilton National bank for $10,181 and the $10,800 issue for the William Youse road in Madison township to J. F. Wild & Co., of Indianapolis for $10,986.

Notes of the Courts.

The case brought by Charles F. Hilker et al., against Frank Wagner, et al., was dismissed in superior court Thursday on motion of the plaintiff.

Judge Yaple Thursday granted a decree for divorce to George Smith from Dora Smith.

Suit for $750 alleged to be due on a note has been filed in the circuit court by Lawrence E. Heiny against Will J Conroy, Charles H. Gumpper and Martin H. Ankenbruck. Byron Hayes is attorney for the plaintiff.

Suit for $1,400 alleged to be due on a note has been filed by the Conservative Life Insurance company, of Indiana, against Henry W. Meyer.

The will of the late Lydia Hollopeter was filed Wednesday in which she leaves her entire estate to her son, Henry J. Hollopeter.

Judge Yaple in the superior court Thursday afternoon granted a decree for divorce to Clara Cook from Charles E. Cook.

ARISE TO FIND ROOF OF HOUSE IN FLAMES

Arising at 6:15 o'clock Wednesday morning, Roy Gilbert, residing at 1009 Huestis avenue, discovered that a large portion of the roof of the residence was a mass of flames. A call was sent in from box ..o. 78, and before the department arrived Mr. Gilbert with the assistance of neighbors had carried out nearly all the furniture on the first floor and part of the furnishings of the second floor. Sparks from the chimney caused the blaze.

The entire east side of the roof of the house was burned away and some damage was done in the garret. The loss was estimated at $200. When the fire laddies arrived the situation looked dangerous and a line of hose was laid but was not used. Street car traffic and an interurban car were held up for a short while.

The chemical answered a still alarm at 9:30 o'clock to Keller's stone yard, where sparks from the chimney had set fire to the roof of the office building. The loss was $5.

The sermons that Evangelist Jack Cauldwell is delivering at the revival services at Immanuel Baptist church are attracting wide attention and the interest seems to increase daily. The subject of the sermon Wednesday evening was "The Sluggard." The speaker said that sin was as sleep and that it made people indifferent to their surroundins; that it made them insecure, and that it made people go to sleep in strange places where they are exposed to death.

He continued by saying that we must have someone to awake us and that the only power that was capable of doing this was the gospel of Jesus Christ properly preached to sinful men and that it must also be accompanied by the power of the holy spirit.

American troops proceeding much farther.

Gen. Funston today asked the war department to send the recruits enlisted under the recent authorization of 20,000 additional men to Brownsville, Texas, for distribution among the border patrol regiments.

The recruits are being assembled and drilled at recruiting stations at Jefferson barracks, Mo.; Columbus barracks, Ohio; Fort Logan, Colo., and Fort Alcatraz, California. They will not be sent across the border but will fill up regiments of the border guard.

At Gen. Funston's request a battery of the Fourth artillery, which had been ordered from Brownsville to the Panama canal zone, will remain on the border, in view of Mexican conditions.

VEILED IN OBSCURITY.

El Paso, April 6.—The entire Mexican situation was veiled in obscurity today as far as the border was concerned. For the last three days not a single Mexican or American has arrived here from the interior and the scanty news given out by the Mexican officials at Juarez as received by telegraph threw no light on the operations, beyond confirming the impression that the chase has been practically halted, at least temporarily.

Army officers here show no hesitancy in expressing their opinion in attempting to pursue Villa farther without the aid of reinforcements is almost a hopeless task. The one incalculable factor is the question as to whether Villa is wounded or not. The Mexican commanders are emphatic in their assertions that the bandit chief is seriously disabled, but their belief is not shared by the American commanders. That Villa should spread a report to the effect that he had been shot is so characteristic a maneuver that it is received with considerable reservation.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

BOWSER MEN HAVE A SENATE AND CONGRESS

Organization Similar to Federal Government Part of Dividend Plan.

One of the biggest things that has taken place in Fort Wayne for some time occurred yesterday at the works of S. F. Bowser & Co., when all employes of the factory and office met to elect from among the ranks of the workers their own choice for members in the house of representatives.

The convention was held in one of the large buildings at the plant after dinner, and was called to order by President S. F. Bowser. As Mr. Bowser cordially invited the public to enjoy Rev. Folsom's address, which was a part of the program, he opened the meeting with a few remarks to the visitors, telling them the nature of these meetings which are held regularly at stated times.

The Purpose of the Meeting.

S. F. Bowser & Co. some time ago adopted a dividend or profit sharing plan for employes. Every man in the plant receives in addition to his salary a monthly dividend on the business done by the company during the preceding month. In addition to this profit sharing, a plan has been evolved whereby every employe will have a voice in the management and control of the conditions under which he labors. This is made possible by organizing the employes into departments similar to those of the United States government.

Mr. Bowser's speech was an expression of his faith in his fellowman, of his realization that every man can be true to himself only when he is true to his neighbor, of his high aspiration that the contract his own life may impinge, the direction of his fellowmen toward kindly judgment, efficient sympathy and neighborliness.

We have all come to realize that our age is transitional. Here in America we have announced an ideal of splendid self-reliance. The expression of that ideal required of us, first, the organization of a government based upon individual self-reliance and then the upbuilding of an industrial life in which self-reliance should obtain the greatest possible reward.

Self-reliance and self-interest are in our time reaching their higher fulfillment in a consciousness of our responsibility for others and our interdependence upon others. We are now learning—and with us the men of all the English-speaking world are learning—that there can be no freedom for the individual which does not include also freedom for the group.

Every change in society is the product of an interplay of forces. As men rarely act from single motives, so likewise do social forces rarely express themselves in single movements.

The new Bowser policy is one of several important expressions of man's larger regard for his brother. It is probably not the chief of them. Assuredly it is not the only material one amongst them. But we believe that to those to whom the ministrations of this policy are vouchsafed, its spirit may prove an exceptionally potential expression of our regard for these, our brothers.

This new policy means for the Bowser employe participation in profits and self-government in business.

It marks the epoch in the world's industry that business and Christianity must go hand in hand.

Rev. Folsom's Address.

Rev. Folsom then gave his most remarkable address entitled, "The Boy."

In part he said: "A father must set a good example for his boy if he wants him to be a good man. Until the boy is fourteen, mother's influence will do, but at fourteen the boy must have the influence of a man. Be a chum to your boy. A man that asks his boy to do things he don't do himself is a coward."

This address was the most practical talk we ever heard on the subject and made a decided hit with the many fathers in the audience. It was without doubt worth a dollar to hear.

John Leitch.

Mr. Leitch, who is planning this self-government scheme, then explained the duties of the house of representatives and an election was held. Every department of the business has a representative and the election resulted as follows:

In the factory—Paint shop, Carter Bowser and C. Zollinger; machine shop, W. Smith, J. Brown, F. Sorg, J. Pollamus, Arthur Saffron and William Bade; tin shop, C. Didrick, John Schmidt, Walter Reiter and J. W. Butler; meter department, C. W. Kroener and Leslie Laible; stock room, H. Burger and A. Bunting; crating department, George Green and F. C. Schaaf; factory department and drafting room, Hugh Stahl; grinding room, R. Betz; tool department, Paul Wood; boiler shop, E. C. Monroe, F. L. Waltemath and Henry C. Koresch; assembling department, H. Lahyman; carpenter and pattern shop, J. Richardson; yard gang, Fred Beckle; power, plumbers and electricians, Fred Johnson; ware house, C. Federspiel.

Offices—Card department, Miss Ethel Elliott; cost department, T. E. Sommers; stenographic, Morning Blystone; publication department, F. M. Morrison; service department, Fred Miller; collection department, Miss Graham and P. E. Krider; general sales, E. G. Conklin; export and Fort Wayne sales, George Bacon; executive department, A. J. Pranger; accounting and mailing department, F. H. Joebker and A. O. Hughes.

Music during the meeting was furnished by the girls' sextet from the card department and the men's quartet from the factory.

BIG CROWD AT BOWSER MEETING.

Over 1,000 people heard Rev. A. J. Folson deliver an address on "What We Owe Our Boys," at the factory of S. F. Bowser & Company yesterday afternoon. Of course, the greater portion of the audience were employes of the Bowser company, but there were many others there who are not connected with the concern.

THE CENTENNIAL NEEDS YOUR HELP RIGHT NOW

People for the Pageant Cast Are Wanted This Week.

Don't be bashful. Get in on the biggest thing that's going. The committee in charge of the Centennial pageant is badly in need of volunteers to put on the big show. Of course, a great many applications are already in, but a good many more are needed. Those who participate in the great show will have much to remember. To participate in an entertainment before an audience of 14,000 people will be the event and the sight of a life time. The opportunity is still open, and it is hoped the people of Fort Wayne will come forward promptly and give of their services in this connection.

It will require from 600 to 700 applications within the next few days to enable Pageant Master Donald Robertson to make his selections for the big show. Thousands of application cards have been placed at convenient places in the factories and other centers of activity, and a great many applications are already in. If you haven't one of these cards, it doesn't make any difference. All you have to do is to write to the committee, stating that you are willing to take part in the pageant, and giving your name and address, together with a few words concerning your ability or experience, so the pageant master may know just where to place you. Address your letter or card to The Pageant Committee, Commercial Club, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Tell your friends. Form a group of your acquaintances and join the happy throng that's to tell the thrilling story of Fort Wayne.

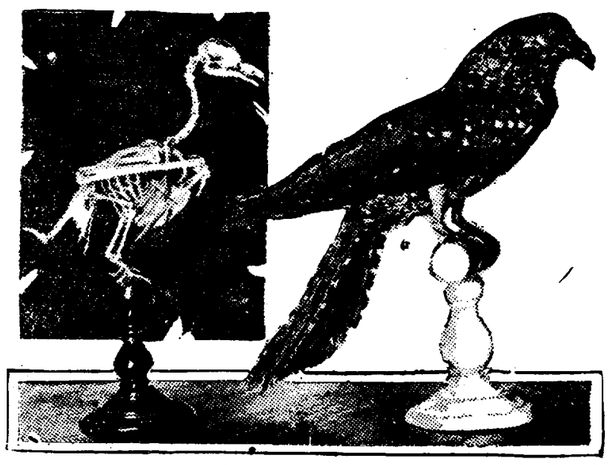
You Must Have Plenty of Iron in Your Blood to be Strong, Says Doctor

Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate, Nervous, Run-down People 200 Per Cent. In Ten Days in Many Instances.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people who were ailing all the while double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60, who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by the Dreier Drug Co., Meyer Bros. Co. and all other druggists.—Advertisement.

PHOTOS SHOW THERE'S NOTHING NEW IN DISCOVERY MADE BY T. R.



Here are pictures of a skeleton and stuffed specimen of the Guacharo or steatornis caripensis, which ex-President Roosevelt is quoted as saying he discovered on his recent trip to Trinidad. This skeleton and stuffed specimen have been the property of the Agassiz museum at Harvard university 30 years and was originally discovered by Humboldt in 1779. The natives of Trinidad use the oil of the bird for lighting and cooking and it is sometimes called the oil bird.

KILLED TRYING TO SAVE DOG

Clarksville Carpenter Struck by Pilot of a Suburban Train.

Jeffersonville, Ind., April 6.—Jarvis Benjamin, age fifty, a carpenter who lived in Clarksville, was instantly killed by a suburban train two miles west of the city. He was walking with Albert Fuller. His little dog, to which he and his wife were much attached, got under the pilot and in trying to reach the animal Benjamin was struck. Fuller was looking the other way and did not see the tragedy, but looked back to find Benjamin lying dead, with his feet toward the tracks and the dog cut in two. Benjamin leaves a widow and a brother.

"All Bosh---
Coffee Doesn't Hurt Me"

says the cynic—but, we live and learn and at some time of life many coffee drinkers wake up to the fact that the drug, "caffeine," in coffee is "getting them."

Headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart flutter, insomnia, etc., are often signs that coffee is getting in its work; and the growing knowledge of its true nature has led thousands of former coffee drinkers to turn to

INSTANT POSTUM

This famous food-drink tastes much like mild Java coffee, but is entirely free from caffeine and other harmful elements ever present in coffee. It is made of whole wheat and a small portion of wholesome molasses, and permits Nature, unhampered, to carry on her work of daily re-building brain, nerves and muscle.

Postum comes in two forms: The original Postum Cereal must be boiled; Instant Postum requires no boiling—a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes a delicious drink—instantly. Both forms are equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same.

HOUSEWIVES FLOCK TO BIG UNIVERSITY

Seek to Get New Ideas for Doing Their Work in the Kitchen.

Seattle, Wash., April 6.—At last the humble kitchen has won the profound attention of big universities and the apron taken its place beside the cap and gown.

The University of Washington has just conducted its second annual housekeepers' conference, under the direction of Mary E. Rausch who is in charge of home economic extension work throughout the state.

Miss Mary E. Rausch

Brides, brides-to-be, mothers and grandmothers, apartment dwellers and old-fashioned "home bodies" dominated class room and campus.

A model kitchen, built by the class in home management, was the hub of the conference activities. Matters of diet, food values, home management, cleanliness and the elimination of drudgery were thoroughly discussed in a practical short course.

Housekeepers who have heretofore stood somewhat in awe of the university have learned that it is but a short step from their kitchens to the laboratory and lecture halls where home problems are gladly considered.

They have learned that the college folk here are just as much interested in pumpkin pie as in Greek translation, in bringing up a family on $75 a month as in a problem of quadratics.

It's been a pleasant surprise all 'round.

How to make a 70-cent shoulder of lamb serve for a family of four with meat for three meals, was one of the demonstrations given housewives. The speaker, head of the meat department of a big market, illustrated his advise by carving the cut of lamb.

The entire course of instruction by experts was equally matter of fact. There was no vague theorizing; no highbrowism.

Following this conference here, Miss Rausch will lecture throughout the state, under the university auspices, in the interest of better homes and domestic management.

"No university," she says, "can perform a more important service."

A Night in Our Border Capital Since the Mexican Situation Became Acute

Soldiers Parade Streets of El Paso in Fours and Sixes While Evening-Gowned Women, Chatting Gaily, Flock to Fashion Show.

BY LEON STARMONT,
Special Correspondent on Mexican Border for The Sentinel.

El Paso, Tex., April 6.—Let's take a walk tonight around El Paso, to see what we can see.

There's a fashion show at the Paso del Norte, with living models, fresh from Broadway.

There's "The Birth of a Nation" at the Texas Grand, where slow-spoken southerners are cheering the Ku Klux Klan.

Store windows fronting the Prado shimmer with silks such as you'd see in Marshall Field's—and before them pace soldiers in fours and sixes, khaki cloaks flapping in a chill night breeze, service rifles over their shoulders pointing grimly at the cold north star.

Limousines purr to a standstill before the Paso del Norte, emitting pairs of evening-gowned women, chatting gaily. They stand silent on the curbstone till the soldiers pass. Then they enter the fashion show.

Farther south, on the one paved street that stabs the squalid Mexican quarter, garish red and green posters in Spanish announce "The Serpent—Para Hoy!" Theda Bara registers hate from behind a Mexican ticket-girl who rakes in nickels. They look very much alike.

A phonograph screams in Spanish from a little 8x18 restaurant, equipped with two tables, a cigar counter, and a yellow-haired, non-Mexican waitress.

In a cantina, a Mexican saloon, brown peons talk in soft grunts, and look at the pictures in ribald weeklies published in Madrid and Barcelonia.

There are fewer people on the side streets. Let's walk this way.

"Quong Sing, laundry down the alley," reads an English sign.

There's an alley there, but you might have passed it. The gate is only two feet wide. There are 14 little wooden doors in as many little adobe huts, built close together, without a window in the row. A Chinaman regards us curiously.

Soldiers in twos are walking through these side streets.

IN THE MEXICAN QUARTER, "THEDA BARA IN "THE SERPENT"
ON A SIDE STREET

Night life in El Paso, sketched by Juan Delgado, Mexican artist.

Four Mexican girls, who might be 18 or 28, razor their customers in a "lady barber shop."

Up in the El Paso & Southwestern yards a trainload of trucks has just pulled in—motor trucks from Detroit, for use in the Mexican desert behind the army.

Fifty civilian drivers pile out of a tourist car.

"Br-r-r!!—It's cold down here," says one. Few of them brought overcoats along. They thought El Paso would be sunny and balmy. They'll buy overcoats before they venture into Mexico.

There's a hint of snow in the air.

All windows are lighted in the higher part of town, inhabited by Americans and Mexicans of the well-to-do class, who fled from revolutions. There is singing in some of the homes along Montana street. Where there are no lights, you can bet the residents have gone to the fashion show, or the Country club, which perches on a clay-bank this side of Fort Bliss and commands an efficient view of the unvegetated Franklin hills.

Taxicabs flash past, toward the roadhouses out Ysleta way. It's just like any March night, up here where the streets bunt the foothills.

Down where the big irrigation ditch gurgles past Camp Cotton, sentries stalk in silence up and down the border. Restless army mules kick the sides of their stalls, and soldiers, awakened, curse them.

Empty street cars at intervals cross the international bridge.

STIFF CARD FOR SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., April 6.—South Bend's high school track team has arranged one of the stiffest schedules in its history for this year. The team will compete in two triangular meets, the northern Indiana events, with Culver Military academy and with the Notre Dame preps. On April 20 the interclass events will be held; on April 20, Culver will be met at Culver; May 4, Notre Dame preps at Notre Dame; Mishawaka, Laporte and South Bend at Notre Dame; May 13, Elkhart, Goshen and South Bend, at Elkhart; May 20, northern Indiana meet at Notre Dame. Indications are that the state meet will be held on May 20, and, if so, the schools in northern Indiana have practically decided to keep their men here for the sectional competition.

Motorcycle side cars are being successfully used for carrying the mails through rural districts in England.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.—Advertisement.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

If cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

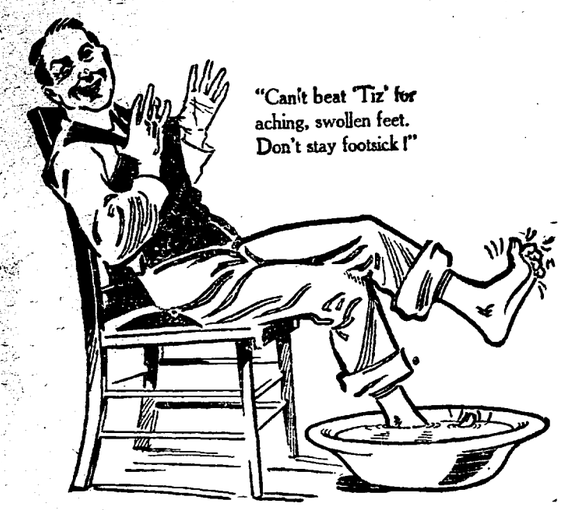
If your little one is out-of-sorts, half sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages, and for grown-ups are printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

"TIZ" FOR FEET

or Tired Feet, Sore Feet, Tender, Aching, Swollen, Calloused Feet and Painful Corns



Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." it's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

STRANGE CONTRASTS ARE SEEN IN MEXICO

Queer Mixture of Wealth and Poverty, Progress and Lack of It.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—"Mexico, the land of contrasts, of great riches and extreme poverty, a few of its people amassing millions, while myriads are starving, a place where the most modern machinery may be found in operation at the very side of the most primitive method of accomplishing the same end, where beautiful architecture is in contrast with adobe huts and where shining automobiles of the latest design whirl past sleepy ox teams hauling carts with solid wooden slabs for wheels identical with the design which was used at the time of the Spanish conquest," is the subject of a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society, from its headquarters in Washington today.

"Passing down a prominent street in almost any of the large Mexican cities, there may be seen fashionably dressed gentlemen, who look very much as though they were just as much at home on Piccadilly, the Champs d'Elysees or Fifth avenue following or preceeding them however, will be a sandalled peon clad in linen trousers and a boluse, with his 'serape' thrown over his shoulder and his head protected by a wide-brimmed sombrero and his entire worldly possessions upon his back.

"In the next block one may meet an Indian woman, barefoot and with uncovered head, a child slung in the 'rebosa' over her shoulders. About her there is a suggestion of garlic, onions and 'pulque,' while passing along the same street comfortably ensconsed in her victoria, dressed in a latest Parisian creation, rolls milady, also of the same nation.

"A gorgeously appointed funeral car bearing the remains of one whose family can afford this expense, may arrive at the burial place simultaneously with three or four peons, packing on their shoulders the body of a comrade in a plainly painted coffin the use of which is rented and will be returned after the body is given interment.

"A speeding automobile diverts its course to avoid a drove of sleepy burros laden with lumber feed, or pottery, or a great motor truck may move side by side with lithe 'cargadores' carrying mountain high, on their backs household goods of every description.

"One-story and possibly single-room adobe houses plastered in colors adjoin large structures of elaborate architecture and the poor peon passing along to his humble abode may catch a glimpse through a spacious doorway of a beautiful patio adorned with flowers and fountains. Later when he sits down to his tortillas and frijoles, his next-door neighbor is probably being served with the richest viands and the rarest wines.

"Back in the country districts the whirr of a sewing machine may be heard coming from a cane or a mud hut while the head of the house may be seen scratching the ground with a crude plow of essentially the same design as those used in Mesopotamia in the time of Nebuchadnezzar, or threshing his grain by driving animals over it.

"In the sugar-growing country, wooden, stone, or copper rolls operated by animal power extract the saccharine matter from the cane and excess molasses is absorbed by a wad of mud, although a few miles distant an hacienda with the highest type of roller mills, vacuum pans, and centrifugals, produces larger quantities of sugar of a superior quality.

"The climate, too, has its extremes, and in the highlands the nights are cold while the sunny side of the street at noon is too warm for comfort. The lowlands have days of intense torrid heat, proceeding others when a strong 'norther' chills to the bone. Months of drought, during which little if any rain falls, are succeeded by intervals when rain may be expected for a part of every day. Of such contrasts is Mexico, once called the 'Treasure House of the World.'"

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pine on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

OLD HOUSE YIELDS TREASURE

Box of Wealth Is Found Secreted in Walls at Vincennes.

Vincennes, Ind., April 4.—While three laborers were tearing down a two-story fame structure in this city, which was condemned by the state marshal, the workmen found a small wooden box between the walls. On opening the box they saw eighty silver dollars, two copper cents and a gold ring. The house was built in 1853 when the O. & M. railroad (now the B. & O.) was built through Vincennes. It was originally used as a hotel by the railroad men. The money was "split" between the three laborers, the foreman taking the ring and the extra pennies. All the dollars were dated 1865.

Held in Probe of a Dynamite Plot

CAPT. HANS TAUSCHER

Capt. Tauscher, husband of Johanna Gadski, famous singer, is under arrest on a charge of plotting to dynamite the Welland canal. Investigation, according to officials, links the name of Capt. Franz von Papen, German military attache who was sent back to Germany, with the plot.

UNCLE SAM'S NEGRO TROOPERS BRING TERROR TO MEXICANS.

United States negro cavalry marching through Mexico.

Somewhere in Chihuahua, April 5.—There's terror in northern Mexico! Peons of the deserts and mountains think the whole world has turned against them!

That's because Gen. Pershing made a wise move and sent in negro cavalry from Hachita, N. M., the day of the first invasion, and negro infantry from Columbus afterward.

"These dark people—they are not Americanoes!" cry the Mexican as the negro troops pass. "The gringoes have brought other nations to fight against us!"

"We're Americans, all right, and don't you forget it," the negroes on horses respond.

"No, the Americanoes are pale and fair skinned," the Mexicans mutter among themselves. And the word has gone deep into Chihuahua's mountains that another dark race, like the Mexicans, only larger, is helping the Americans in their chase of Pancho Villa.

You can stand on a Chihuahua hilltop and see the long columns of advancing negro soldiers stringing out over the line of communication which the Twenty-fourth infantry is guarding.

Blithely they start from Columbus, smiles on their faces, banter echoing up and down the line.

When they get to the border ranch they're a little tired and not so gay.

When they reach the first stopping place they are weary and they tread with a sag to their shoulders, but they march on till the order comes to halt.

The desert sun is hard on their eyes, and they wear colored goggles to protect them.

TRANSFERS GIVEN BY UNION EXCHANGE

Members of the Union Exchange, an organization of "jitney owners," endorsed and supported by organized labor, began Thursday selling six tickets for twenty-five cents and the giving of transfers, the tickets and transfers being good on all cars using a U. E. sign. Regular schedules are being established to compete with the various lines of the traction company.

The purpose of the Union Exchange is to put the "jitney" business in Fort Wayne on a better basis and to afford the same accommodations and privileges as are given on street cars. Another purpose of the new organization is to make this form of transportation much more satisfactory and safer than it has been in the past. The general offices of the Union Exchange will be in the labor headquarters, on West Berry street.

RIVALS MUST NOW BEWARE

Shelbyville, Ind., April 4.—Shelbyville's champion croquet team, taking advantage of the early spring weather, has started practice for the season's campaign. The first match game was played the other afternoon, with four of the members of the last year's champion aggregation knocking the balls about. The men showed that they still possessed some ability at the game. A manager of the team will be named later and an effort made to secure matches with teams from other towns and cities of the state. The locals are out after the championship of the state this year, they say, and are willing to meet all comers.

TRIAL SHOWS TWO OTHERS RIGHT ROAD

Husband and Sister Take Tanlac When Fort Wayne Woman Gains Relief.

"I can't praise Tanlac enough," said Mrs. Mary Gaby, 60 years old, wife of George C. Gaby, janitor at the St. James apartments a few days ago.

Through her use of Tanlac Mrs. Gaby, who is a very well known Fort Wayne woman, not only gained big benefits herself, but paved the way for the relief of two other persons as well. Mrs. Gaby's husband, George C. Gaby, and a sister of Mrs. Gaby, convinced now that Tanlac is what it is claimed to be, both intend trying the medicine.

"My trouble dates back for six years," Mrs. Gaby said, speaking of her case. "I had stomach trouble in the form of indigestion. The last few months it has been extremely severe. Everything I ate caused pain. Accumulations of gas formed on my stomach. I bloated easily and had severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Headaches bothered me and I was subject to dizzy spells. I was very nervous and slept very poorly. I'd awaken in the morning as tired as when I went to bed.

"After taking Tanlac only a few days the pains gradually began to disappear. The bloating is entirely gone now and I do not have the severe pains in my stomach any more. I am able to eat anything I care for without bad after effects. The nervousness also is practically gone now and I sleep well at night. In the mornings I get up feeling rested and refreshed.

"I had about given up hope of finding anything that would correct my trouble and so it is not unusual that I consider Tanlac's work really wonderful."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complainta, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite and the like and is a fine spring tonic, purifying the blood and strengthening the entire system.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

REAL WOMAN'S PARTY NOW IN THE MAKING

Hopes to Consolidate All Facttions for Woman Suffrage.

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, April 6.—A real national woman's party, to be made up of women voters of the "free" states, is in process of formation. This party will make an effort to consolidate the four million women voters regardless of their party denominations so their influence may be polled in favor of amending the constitution to remove the sex qualification and give every woman a right to vote.

This is the answer of the congressional union for woman suffrage to the action of this congress in refusing to vote on the Susan B. Anthony amendment. The suffrage leaders hold the democratic party, and particularly the democratic leaders of the house, responsible for the action of the judiciary committee which recently twice voted to postpone indefinitely any consideration of the suffrage amendment. This action by a house committee makes it impossible to secure a vote of the whole house on this matter, and was taken unquestionably in accordance with orders from the party chiefs who desire to keep the embarrassing subjects of suffrage and prohibition from a record vote in the house lest such votes and records embarrass members who are facing campaigns for re-election in November.

The call has gone out and a conference is to be held in Washington April 9 and 10, preliminary to sending a spectacular trainload of suffrage workers from the eastern states to the "free" states of the west. This expedition is what Alice Paul, chairman of the congressional union, calls "an appeal by the unenfranchised women to their free sisters" to help them by forming a woman's party. Already a big trip has been arranged to cost not less than $50,000 taking in twenty or thirty states, with speeches, rallying meetings all the way from the union station in Washington to San Francisco and back again. The influence of the women's party, of course, will be cast against the democratic party unless between now and adjournment favorable action is taken by the party on the suffrage amendment.

The increasing prospect that Louis D. Brandeis will be confirmed as a member of the U. S. supreme court has for some reason dampened the enthusiasm for Hughes as a presidential candidate. Whether it is because certain interests feel that Hughes will be needed on the court to counteract the Brandeis point of view in that body is a matter of conjecture. The fact is becoming apparent here that strong pressure is at work to keep Hughes on the court and to eliminate him from the presidential game.

Uncle Sam's department of agriculture has gone into house-planning for farmers. A very interesting plan for a "southern farmhouse for a small family" has just been published. One of the interesting features is a "cooking room," which is partitioned off from the kitchen and contains the cooking range. In the ceiling of this compartment is a ventilator and cold air is taken in through the floor, while next to the stove is a large double-sashed window. Thus, there is light and a current of air moving from the floor out through the ceiling carrying the odors and heat, while the kitchen proper is kept cool. Next to the cooking room is a fuel compartment which is conveniently fed from out of doors so that muddy feet do not track over the housewife's floor. Another convenience is a bathroom located so that the men from the stable or field may step into it without walking through the house. There is also a closet off the screened porch just at the latter entrance, in which muddy rubber boots or wet coats can be hung. The house contains living room, dining room, two bedrooms, kitchen, screened porch, back porch and double sleeping porch. It is all on one floor and planned for cheap construction.

A lamp which is more than 150 times as powerful as the most powerful acetylene signal lamps now used, has been devised by the instrument section of the coast and geodetic survey for use during the coming summer in the mountain regions of Idaho and Oregon for use in surveying by triangulation, where it is necessary to set up a light and observe it with a telescope from points over 100 miles distant. The new lamp is an electric one with specially designed filament and the power is an ordinary dry cell.

For the third time during the present session of congress Chairman Lemuel P. Padgett, of the naval affairs committee, has refused a request of Louis Gathman, the naval engineer and inventor, to be heard by the committee. Gathman's last letter to Padgett stated that he would submit documents, photographs and other illustrations to show how the "faulty construction and equipment of our present armored ships can be rectified, and how this would increase their efficiency more than twenty-fold at a cost of one-fifth of that of new ships, in less time than it would take to build three new ships."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

THE GREATEST PRAYER IN THE WORLD

Prayer is the highest act of man. In it he is nearest to his Creator and the farthest from his sometime brother—the brute. All women and most men pray—whether they admit it or not. Prayer is the soul's answer to the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" It came direct from Heaven, and did not unfold itself along with the convolutions of the brain.

Prayer is Hope with wings. It antedates all History. It will outlast Humanity itself. But prayer without faith is not prayer.

This is why the Lord's Prayer is the greatest prayer in the world. It is divine faith breathed into human words. All creeds, formulas, systems, philosophies, theologies—are within its miraculous compass. It is Religion itself. Like the dewdrop, it orbs the universe. Wise men have studied it reverently. Great men have lived and died with it on their lips. One-half the world has known no other prayer for 2000 years.

This is why we call it the greatest prayer in the world.

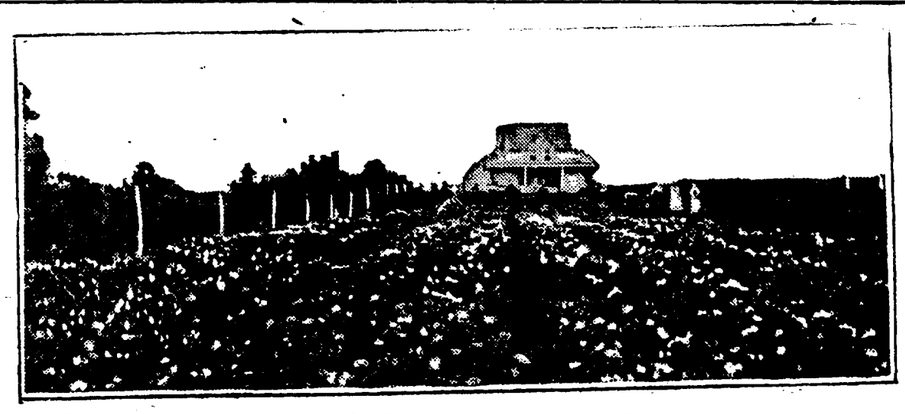
CANADA FINDS WAY TO TAKE CARE OF SOLDIERS AFTER WAR—WILL GIVE THEM READY-MADE FARMS.



Typical western Canada farm; just such a farm as war veterans may till when they return from the front

Ottawa, Can., April 6.—Ready-made farms for soldiers!

That is Canada's plan for helping heroes now on the British firing line and 1,000 farms in western Canada will be plotted and grouped into colonies large enough to insure support for schools, churches, libraries and other social and educational influences.

The movement to give soldiers ready-made farms originated with Canadian Pacific railroad and is being carried out under the direction of Lord Shaughnessy, president of the road.

Soldiers who come marching home long for the great spaces, and unless too badly maimed they want action, say directors of the movement.

The industries lack sufficient work for the returning veterans, even if they could "settle down."

Regarding the ready-made farm movement, Lord Shaughnessy says: "Each colony will have a distinctive name, probably something that will carry military associations. Besides there will be churches, schools, libraries and an experimental farm in charge of a scientific farmer so advice may be available for the soldier-farmer.

"The burden we propose to carry will be no light one, but we are prepared to face all petty annoyances to fulfill our duty to the men who defended the empire."

PLANT PHYSIOLOGY AN ABSORBING STUDY

Every Plant Is an Expression of the Combination and Interaction of Three Groups of Forces—the Seed, the Climate, and the Soil—Every Plant Has Definite Requirements For Its Best Development; What Some of These Requirements Are.

By E. H. SMITH.

The development of plants and the nature of the products which they bear are influenced by two principal factors. First.—The inherent quality of the plant itself, transmitted through the seed or bud; Second.—The nature of the environment in which the plant develops. One factor is as important as the other. The character of the mature plant is the result of two sets of forces. The first of these is the inherent capacity of the seed to develop and produce a normal individual of its kind. The second set of forces constitutes the environment in which the plant grows and of which the soil is one part, the other component being climate.

Ideal conditions for the production of any crop may be summarized as follows:

IN THE PLANT: Proper inherent qualities of growth and production.

IN THE SOIL: Proper moisture, aeration, chemical composition, physical composition, freedom from injurious influences.

In other words, the plant needs in its environment, for successful development, a proper degree of heat, moisture, air, light and food, and freedom from injurious influences. Any serious departure from these ideal conditions results in the presence of disease.

A clear understanding of the fundamental principles of normal plant physiology is necessary to enable one to judge abnormal or diseased conditions with any degree of accuracy.

A plant consists of certain parts or organs, each with its particular duty to perform to maintain the life and activities of the whole. These parts are commonly as follows: The root, stem, branch, leaf, flower, fruit and seed. Any or all of these parts is liable to disease. Some plants, for instance, like the turnip or carrot, are cultivated for the root; some for the stem or branches, like the asparagus or celery; some for the leaf, like the lettuce; and a great many different kinds for the flowers, fruit or seed. If the root or stem is diseased, in a sense of being in an injured or unhealthy condition, the flow of water from the ground will be cut off or interfered with, and the remainder of the plant suffer accordingly. If the leaves are injured or destroyed, their functions will be interfered with and the rest of the plant suffer from starvation. Likewise, the value of the crop will be injured or destroyed if the particular part of which is cultivated has imperfections or undesirable characteristics, whether the health or thrift of the plant is injured or not.

Section of Tree Trunk. A, Outer Bark. B, Inner Bark. C, Cambium. D, Sap Wood. E, Heart Wood.

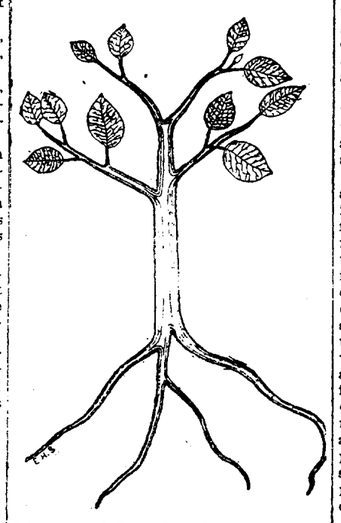

Diagram of Tree Showing Movements of Fluids, as Shown by Arrows.

Of the organs mentioned, the root commonly grows in the soil and the remainder of the plant in the air.

The soil has two general purposes in relation to plant growth. First, it furnishes a medium through which the root is able to accomplish its mechanical function of holding the plant upright in the air and exposing its parts to the air and sunlight. Second, the soil is a storehouse of food and moisture, both of which are indispensable to plant growth.

Far from being an inert mass of dead mineral and organic matter, the soil is likewise the home of uncounted myriads of living organisms, not only soil bacteria, but also many other forms of low plant life, hosts of simple animal organisms, and likewise more highly developed creatures, such as earth worms and many other forms. All of these exert a profound influence upon the soil and its relation to plant production.

The root of the plant spread through the soil by growth and subdivision, forming a network of fine branches, the extremities of which are the delicate, minute root hairs through which food and water are absorbed. Air is also required by the root as well as by other parts of the plant. The activities of the root are therefore entirely dependent upon the physical texture, moisture supply, temperature and chemical composition of the soil.

The specific food substances taken from the soil by the root are: Nitrogen, hydrogen, sulphur, phosphorus, calcium, iron, potassium, magnesium and oxygen. All of these elements are absorbed by the plant through the root in the form of a solution in water. In other words, the water of the soil is a weak solution of these and any other soluble substances which the soil may contain.

After being absorbed by the root the soil solution, or as we may now call it, sap, passes upward into the plant from the smaller into the main, larger roots, on up into the trunk. The particular path of this upward stream is located in the woody portion of the conducting fibres. In woody trees of considerable size this upward flow of sap from the roots is most active in the newer, outer layers of wood or what we call "sap wood." Very large amounts of water, with food materials in solution, pass up through the stems of plants in this way, as may be readily seen when we consider the amount of the soil elements which plants contain, and the fact that the solution in which they come into the plant from the soil is an extremely dilute one.

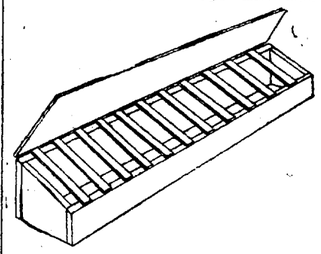
The relation of the plant to the atmosphere which surrounds it is of supreme importance, its relation being expressed most largely through the leaves, which act as organs both of absorption and excretion. The water supply coming from the roots with its food elements in solution, comes into the leaves and there the larger portion of the water is evaporated off into the air by a process called transpiration.

A varity of complicated chemical processes goes on all over the plant in which use is made of the various materials taken from the soil, and the various substances formed build up the growth of new parts, the formation of fruit, or are otherwise made use of in the activities of the plant. Respiration goes on in the leaves in a manner chemically similar to that in animals, oxygen is taken in and carbon dioxide given off.

Feed Poultry for Profit

Hens will be better on mixed feeds than on any other. A quart of corn meal alone will not give as good results as a pint and a half of corn meal mixed with some other food such as cooked potatoes.

A great variety of chicken feed is manufactured, consisting of mixtures of various grains, dried ground bone, dried blood, beef scraps and such matter, but the best results can probably be obtained by studying the needs of one's flock and supplying them at first hand.



Dry Mash Hopper.

Exercise is of course very essential to laying hens when confined during the laying season. To obtain this many methods are resorted to in addition to scattering grain among the straw as for instance suspending a cabbage or a bunch of beets about two feet above the floor in order to induce the hens to jump up to reach it. If the hens are very hungry for this sort of food they will get more exercise by jumping after it, but our experience is that when fed a moderate amount of clover or ground alfalfa they have no taste for any other kind of green food.

We have suspended cabbage and other tempting morsels in the manner described but have yet to discover that our hens ever got any exercise in that way. In fact the cabbage would, in most cases, go entirely untouched and even if it was chopped fine and scattered among the feed it seemed to have no attraction for the fowls.

This of course is only an individual experience and cannot be taken as a universal guide, but we believe that scientific experiments will show that better results can be obtained by supplying green feed in the shape of ground clover or alfalfa.

For winter feeding nothing is better than corn and wheat. Many successful poultry raisers do not crack the corn but feed it whole. On this point there is a great difference of opinion but to be on the safe side, corn, particularly the large-grain variety, should be cracked before feeding. In very cold weather it should be parched or warmed.

Some poultry raisers advocate the feeding of all sorts of green stuff during the winter such as cabbage, carrots, potatoes, turnips, onion tops and the like, but as these feeds are composed mostly of water they are of little practical benefit except to make the rations more palatable by adding to their variety. Many cases of disease, particularly scouring can be traced to the feeding of green vegetables of this sort if fed at regular intervals.

Nothing equals cut clover for feeding the chickens. Alfalfa comes next, but clover stands at the head and if this is fed regularly and in moderate quantities it will take the place of all other green feeds.

Wet versus dry mash is a question that has received much attention from experimenters during the past few years. The general consensus of opinion at the present time is that the dry mash is the most desirable. Many practical poultrymen, however, still prefer the wet mash. Labor is one of the greatest problems that the poultry raiser has to consider, consequently, if he can find a method which will be labor saving and yet give results, it is worthy of consideration. Dry mash fed in hoppers is easier to handle than any kind of wet mash. Hoppers are now made which are rat-proof, sanitary and convenient. These can be filled once a week and are found satisfactory. Experiments have proved that eggs produced by hens fed a dry mash are more fertile than those laid by hens fed a wet mash. Wet mash is slightly more forcing, is inconvenient to feed, and requires more care in keeping the feeding vessels clean.

The guinea-hen is proud and makes more noise than any other bird on the place, but the commonest old hen in the barnyard lays more eggs, and makes no fuss about it.

THE FIELD PEA IS A GOOD FORAGE CROP

The Growing of the Field Pea as a Forage Crop is of Special Interest to Farmers and Dairymen Living in the Northern Tier of States and Also Those Living in Regions of High Altitude Farther South in the Rocky Mountains.

By H. N. VINALL.

The field pea is an annual plant with slender stems two to four feet high, which stands erect only where there are other plants to which they can cling. The plants seldom have more than three stalks and very often only one or two. The herbage is pale green with a whitish bloom on the surface. Each leaf bears usually two or three pairs of leaflets and is terminated by a slender, branched tindril. The hanging pods are about three inches long, each containing five to nine nearly round seeds.

The garden pea is cultivated primarily as a green vegetable, or as a grain crop for human food; the field pea is grown for hay or for grain to feed to animals. In many cases, however, the same variety is grown for both purposes.

Generally speaking, the varieties with wrinkled yellowish or greenish seeds and white flowers are classed as garden peas; while those with smooth seeds are considered field peas. Some field-pea varieties have yellow seeds and white flowers, while others have colored blossoms and brown, marbled, mottled, or speckled seeds.

Some confusion of name has arisen in this country because in the South the cowpea is often called the field pea, while in the same region the garden pea is distinguished as the English pea. The cowpea is really a bean, resembling the common bean both in its leaves with three large leaflets and no tendrils and in its kidney-shaped seeds. Further, on account of the fact that the true field pea is more largely grown in Canada than in the United States, it is frequently called "Canada field pea" or "Canadian field pea."

The native home of the pea is supposed to be in that part of western Asia extending from the Mediterranean Sea eastward through Syria and Palestine to the Himalaya Mountains. It appears to be one of the first cultivated crops, as seeds have been found among the relics of the Stone Age in Switzerland. It was, perhaps, one of the first crops to be brought over by the colonists to the United States, since there are records of its being grown in Virginia as early as 1636. The cultivation of the field pea did not spread rapidly in that section of the United States, but as the country developed it gained more and more favor in Canada and became a staple crop in the United States only in the New England States, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the eastern Dakotas.

Fruiting Branch of a Field Pea Vine, Showing the Characteristics of Stem and Leaf, and the Succession of Bloom and Pods.

The cultivation of the field pea throughout western Canada has increased with the settlement of that territory. In Washington, Oregon, Idaho and western Montana it has also been found well adapted to the climate and soil and is steadily increasing in importance as a farm crop.

A cool growing season is essential for the field pea. High temperatures are much more injurious than frosts, which are disastrous to the crop only when they occur just at the period when the pods are setting. These climatic requirements of the field pea limit its successful production as a summer crop to the Northern States and Canada and to high altitudes in the mountains of our Western States. It may, however, be grown with profit as a winter crop in the Southern States. Its moisture requirements are less important than those of temperature, but other things being equal, it does best where the rainfall is fairly abundant. A 15-inch rainfall in western Canada is sufficient to produce a good crop, while 20 inches of rain in Kansas, Nebraska or Colorado are inadequate.

It is a common practice in some localities to harvest the crop by pasturing with hogs or sheep. This is done more largely in Colorado than in any other part of the United States. There is no doubt, however, that the crop can be fully as well utilized this way in other Western States in localities which are near large sheep ranges. When intended for pasture, the field pea is sown alone or with but little grain, as it is not necessary in such cases that it be supported by some more erect-growing crop. Animals pasturing on field peas should be confined to one portion of the field by means of movable fences, or else a herder should be employed for this purpose. If sheep or hogs are allowed to roam about over the entire field, they waste a great deal of the crop by wandering around aimlessly as soon as their hunger has been satisfied. The animals should not be turned into the field until the seed becomes hard. Lambs will fatten on field-pea pasture in from 70 to 90 days, and a good crop will usually fatten from 10 to 15 lambs per acre, each animal gaining about 8 pounds a month. Hogs in a thrifty condition will fatten in from 60 to 90 days, and if not obliged to gather their food over too large an acreage will make an average daily gain of 1 pound. Alfalfa or sweet-clover pasture used in connection with field peas noticeably increases the rapidity of gain.

Farm Management

Certain fundamental principles of farm management are advanced by specialists as having been brought out or substantiated by a thorough agricultural survey of an old and representative farming section of Chester County, Pa. These principles are summarized as follows:

Farming conforms to local soil, climate, labor, and market conditions as well as to the business conditions of the individual farm.

When conditions remain unchanged for a long time, farming becomes approximately what it ought to be to get the best results, provided that practice which is immediately the most profitable does not deplete soil fertility.

Success in farming, measured in per cent of profit on investment, does not depend on the magnitude of the farm business, but measured in terms of the standard of living of the farm family it is directly proportional to the magnitude of business.

Profits increase as yields per acre increase until the yields are considerably above the average for the locality, but beyond this point increased yields are obtained at a loss.

In quantity of product per dairy cow the point of diminishing returns is not reached in ordinary farm practice.

It is easier and more profitable to increase low yields per acre than high ones, and small product per cow than large product. In other words, profits can be increased more easily by attention to the weakest points in a farming system.

There is a way of grouping the enterprises of a farm that is more profitable than any other way; that is, there is a certain most profitable acreage for each crop and a most profitable proportion of income from any one source.

Some enterprises, such as poultry keeping, may easily be made profitable as side lines, yet are difficult to make profitable when made a main feature of the farm business.

Production costs much more per bushel or per ton on the small farm than on the large farm of the same type.

POTASH FROM SEAWEED.

It has been found that the ash of the seaweed collected on the shore of Manilla Bay in Tondo yields 15 per cent of potash, says U. S. Commerce Report. This discovery has aroused considerable interest, owing to the war-time scarcity of potash. No data are available to show just the amount of seaweed available, but it is known in a general way that it is abundant. Explorations and further experimentation will be conducted by the Government.

MACHINERY USED IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF TRENCHES FOR TILE DRAINS

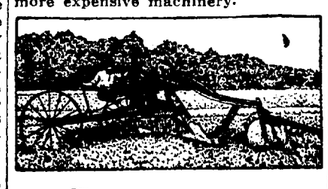
By D. L. YARNELL.

The invention of suitable appliances for tile trenching has been stimulated by three agencies—the rising prices of labor, the rapid extension of tile drainage for farm lands, and the growing practice of using large tile instead of open ditches of moderate size for community outlets, especially where the depth of cut is rather great.

Where wide trenches are dug by hand deeper than 6 or 7 feet, the material must be handled at least twice, since the dirt can not be thrown back from the edge of the trench at the first handling. Besides reducing the amount and cost of labor, a good machine greatly lessens the time necessary for doing the work, which is often of considerable advantage, apart from any saving in direct money cost. Difficulties such as occasionally arise where many unskilled workmen are employed may be largely avoided by the use of machinery requiring only a small crew. The many types of equipment for trenching vary from special plows and scoops of ordinary size to elaborate machines costing thousands of dollars. The smaller kinds are limited in depth and width of trench, also in regard to conditions of working. Some variations from the machines described have been manufactured and not found practical; new designs that may be available in the future perhaps will be as good or better than those now on the market.

Three things are required of a good trenching machine, namely, (1) it must operate efficiently through various kinds of soil; (2) it must be capable of cutting true to grade; (3) it must work for long periods without breaking or otherwise getting out of order. The first of these requirements is the hardest to fulfill, the second is the easiest.

Probably none of the plows or scoops cut accurately to grade, and some hand work is necessary to make the trench smooth for laying the tile properly. However, their low cost makes it profitable to employ them on work that would not justify the use of more expensive machinery.



Ditching Plow.

There are many kinds of soil to be encountered — hard shale, cemented gravel, sand, stones, loose loam, soft muck, and sticky clay. None of the machines will handle solid rock. The ideal machine will handle all kinds of soil, with but minor changes of parts, without breaking or stopping and at a minimum expense for purchase, operation, repairs and depreciation. Open or skeleton excavating buckets are best suited to sticky soils, while solid buckets are necessary in loose dry soils, though some machines have efficient cleaning devices that permit the use of solid buckets for any kind of material. A machine must be strong to work through shale or stony ground but if increased strength entails added weight, the efficiency and adaptability may be affected. A heavy machine can not work over soft ground unless fitted with rather costly apron tractors instead of the driving wheels.

Some form of trenching machinery will prove a profitable investment, according to engineers in the United States Department of Agriculture, if the landowner has more than 100 rods of tile drain to lay in soil that will require picking but which is free from rock. Ditching plows that can be purchased for $18 to $20 will prove of material assistance in such work. If as much as 1,500 rods of tile drain are to be laid, the landowner will be justified in purchasing a horse-drawn plow at $250 to $300, provided the soil is free from rock and large roots. The installation of 5,000 rods of drain tile will justify the purchase of a power-driven trenching machine for $1,500, provided the machine can subsequently be sold for one-half its original cost.

The various types of trenching machines are divided into four classes: (1) Plows and scoops, (2) wheel excavators, (3) endless-chain excavators, (4) scraper excavators. The plows and scoops range in price from $18 for a simple ditching plow to loosen the dirt and make handshoveling easier, to plows costing $300 and fitted with devices for lifting out the dirt and trimming the trenches. The other three classes are usually elaborate machines costing $1,200 to $6,000, which may not be profitable investments for the average farmer who has only a small amount of draining to do. However, where there is much drainage to be done it will be well for the landowner to investigate the advisability of purchasing some trencher which has a detachable tractor. When not needed for trenching, the tractor may easily be separated from the digging apparatus and used in all the ways in which a farm tractor is ordinarily employed. Another method of securing the services of a power machine is for several landowners to combine in purchasing it.

Endless Chain Machine.

The cost of trenching by machinery must include, besides the expense for operation and repairs, interest on the investment and proper charges for depreciation of the machine. The interest and depreciation charges are continuous whether the machine is working or idle. The real difference in cost of trenching by machinery and by hand is not so great as it is often supposed to be, but many times there are advantages in having the work done quickly or in employing only a few men instead of a large number. The more expensive machines will be profitable if the owners can keep them busy a large part of the time.

FIELD MICE DESTRUCTIVE.

A circular letter from the United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to the losses to orchardists, nurserymen and farmers from field mice, of which there are 50,000 species known to exist in this country, but the farmer recognizes only two kinds, meadow mice and pine mice. These mice are tenacious of life and multiply with great rapidity. They cannot live without eating and they take their choice of such food as may be at hand. If nothing better can be found the mice feed upon the bark of trees or upon the roots of grasses and shrubs, destroying grass, cutting down grain, clover and alfalfa, eating the grain in shocks or granaries, injuring flowers and vegetables, and doing harm in a hundred ways. In one part of Nevada the mice totally ruined 80,000 acres of alfalfa. Large blocks of nursery trees are totally destroyed each season by mice.

PROTECT THE FLOCK.

A flock of sheep harassed by dogs soon show the trouble in their general condition, as surely as in their manner. Fleetness of foot is not one of the characteristics of the animal, and when this is enforced as a means of preservation, it is to the detriment of the flock.

BE NEIGHBORLY.

The telephone is a great thing to cure loneliness on the farm, as it enables us to talk to our friends and neighbors in all kinds of weather and regardless of bad roads. But it does not take the place of actual visiting, and we ought to do more of that. This is true as applied to the young people. Encourage them to visit around as often as possible, and keep your own latch-strings out for others to come and call on your own.

HELPS FOR THE FARMER'S WIFE.

Don't leave matches, knives, hot water or other dangers within reach if there are children in the house.

Cookies should be put into a cloth-lined stone jar when hot, if you would keep them melting and crumbly.

When silver has become discolored with egg, dip a damp cloth in salt water, rub the silver; the stain will disappear.

Until we get perfect animals we should search for a sire that in some particulars is superior to the cows in our herds.

The farmer and his family, as well as his stock, accomplish more when care-free and in a happy turn of mind. All nature is fresh and cheerful. It is profitable for us to be likewise!

THE RIPENING OF CREAM.

By the ripening of cream is meant the changes it undergoes from the time of separation until it is added to the churn. Upon these changes depends very largely the quality of butter as regards texture and flavor. The temperature at which cream is held determines the firmness or texture, while the flavor is dependent upon the by-products from the bacterial growth.

The purpose of ripening cream is fundamentally that of giving the butter the desired flavor and aroma, but in addition it increases the ease and efficiency of churning. Cream is ripened in one of two ways:

First, it sours or ripens as a result of the action of bacteria which are normally present in milk and cream; or,

Second, it ripens as a result of action of certain kinds of bacteria which are added in what is termed a "starter."

THE GRAPE EASY TO GROW.

Grapes like good soil, location and culture, but they readily adapt themselves to circumstances so that lack of proper ground is anything but a sufficient reason to prevent almost anyone who has a garden from planting them.

The droppings from the swine, and the nitrogen gathered by the forage-crops, build up soil-fertility rapidly.

DON'T WORRY.

The man who is always behind in his work and frets and worries because he has so much to do, is working without a system. No use trying to do more than one thing at a time and if one will adhere to this rule and have a time for doing everything day after day and month after month, the kinks will soon straighten out and he can do his work easily and without friction.

GOOD DUCK FEED.

Cooked vegetables, thickened with equal parts cornmeal and bran is a mixture that is equally good for both growing ducks and layers. Equal parts oatmeal, cornmeal and bran, with enough "middlings" to make it cling together, is a good feed, but this requires the addition of an equal amount of green stuff.

DAIRY SUGGESTIONS.

Don't on any account milk any curd, blood or rope into your milk-can. If you find any slime inside the sieve, find out where it comes from.

Don't have your nails long.

Don't half do the job unless you want to dry the cow.

STRAW AS A FERTILIZER.

A large amount of straw is shipped from a county in Missouri to a nearby paper and strawboard factory. This straw brings the farmer about 50 cents per ton. A county agent recently found a pile of about 1,000 tons at Sikeston ready for shipment. He computes that as a fertilizer this straw is worth $2.50 per ton in addition to its value as a means of adding organic matter to the soil. He is making a campaign of the county in an attempt to show the inadvisability of the farmers selling their straw and urging its more extensive use as bedding in stables and feed lots. Straw used as a top dressing on fall wheat has been found to practically insure a good stand of clover on lands where clover is otherwise grown with great difficulty.

KEEP THE HORSE COMFORTABLE

The horse that is compelled to fight flies continually cannot get in a full day's work, or at least if it does there is less in stamina which eventually tells on the life-work of the animal. Neither can it do its best with an ill-fitting harness. The horse that is comfortable and in good spirits, is the one which makes the record.

Education and high milk yields go hand in hand.

Kill Lice and Save Pork

It has been estimated that a 150-pound hog has 92,000 drops of blood. Suppose he is supporting 1,000 lice and each takes one drop of blood per day. What per cent of his blood will be lost daily and who will pay the bill?

The question is a very important one. Lice are worse in winter than in summer. The hogs pile up closely and spend much time in their beds. The lice take advantage of the situation and breed rapidly.

To remove the lice is neither difficult nor expensive. Dipping or spraying with coal-tar compounds is dangerous in winter, but three other treatments are available. These are:

1. Equal parts kerosene and machine oil mixed together and applied with an oil can, brush or swab.

2. Crude oil (thinned with kerosene, if too thick), applied with a brush as a spray.

3. Powdered staphisagria dusted on the pigs, or steeped as a tea and applied with a brush or as a spray.

For a small bunch the first treatment is the most convenient, but when one has many hogs the crude oil is cheaper. Be sure to apply behind the ears and in both flanks. The lice prefer folds of the skin.

Clean the beds and pens thoroughly, also. If these are thoroughly sprayed with the oil, there should be no further trouble from the lice. If the hogs sleep in straw sheds, one can keep them free from lice by treating them every two weeks. Try it!—R. C. Ashby, University Farm, St. Paul.

TO GET FANCY PRICES.

To secure a fancy price for eggs, you must be absolutely certain that every egg sold is fresh. Don't leave an egg in nest for nest egg. You might accidently get one in gathering and send it to your best customer—then good-bye customer. When the breeding season is over sell all the roosters, or if you have a few good ones you wish to keep, pen them up. Then you can get a fancy price for infertile eggs, which are in great demand in hot weather. Clean all soiled eggs with a damp cloth and dry well, so they will not shine. Keep all small and imperfect eggs at home. Fill each layer with eggs of the same size, they look so much better that way. Pack carefully, so they will reach customer in good condition, and absolutely guarantee every egg to be fresh. You will not have any trouble in getting and holding customers for all you can produce, at several cents above the market price.

SHEEP PROVIDE FOOD.

Sheep should be kept to supply meat for the household. The farmer is much prone to confine his meat diet to salt meat, as for instance to salt pork, and largely for the reason that in this form meat is most easily kept.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, April 6.—Wheat prices developed strength today as a result of anxiety as to the lateness of seeding in the northwest. Opening prices, which ranged from ½c decline to ¼@⅜c advance, with May at $1.18½ to $1.18½, and July at $1.16¾ to $1.17⅜, were followed by moderate gains all around, interrupted temporarily by a rather sharp setback.

Closing quotations were unsettled, ¼@⅜c to ⅜@½c net lower, with May at $1.17⅞ and July at $1.16¾.

Corn reflected the changes in the wheat market. After opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, prices scored further upturns though not without undergoing transient dips.

The close was steady at ¼c to ⅝c net advance.

Oats hardened with other grain.

Steadiness was the rule in provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, April 6.—Mercantile Marine issues were again the outstanding features of today's early trading, the common and preferred being freely absorbed in large individual lots at substantial gains. Specialties also figured prominently in the initial dealings, Industrial Alcohol soon advancing 4⅝ to the new high record of 170½. Petroleums, Westinghouse, Studebaker and Goodrich were higher by material fractions, with moderate gains in U. S. Steel and a few other leaders. Norfolk and Western led the rails with an advance of almost a point.

Marines continued to dominate the list, dealings comprising almost one-third of the first hour's output. The common advanced 2¼c to 2⅜, with corresponding strength in underlying issues. Towards midday war stocks and the better known industrials and equipments assumed some of the recent activity at gains of one to over two points. United States Steel also denoted accumulation on its advance to 85⅝ and zinc shares responded to another rise in that metal. General Motors was conspicuous by a decline of 25 to 460. Bonds were firm, with marked strength in the new Canadian issue.

of the "democratic policy of scuttle in the Philippines;" a recommendation in favor of a world court; a demand for economy in national and state administrations; a denunciation of "such regulation of business as shall put any due burdens upon honest and wholesome enterprise" and a recommendation for a constitutional amendment which shall enable the president to veto specific items in appropriations, so as to put an end to the wanton extravagance of pork barrel legislation.

Fairbanks Endorsed.

In endorsing the nomination of Mr. Fairbanks for president the platform deals at length with his public career in the United States senate and as vice president and declares that he "has been for twenty years the trusted leader of his party in this state." It continues: "His election will mean the inauguration of a genuine republican administration in Washington free from internal contention, enlightened and steady in the dealings with domestic problems, and just and firm in its foreign policy. It will be an administration of peace and prosperity.

Dodges Liquor and Suffrage.

The platform as submitted to the convention contains no recommendations in regard to woman's suffrage or the liquor question.

The platform dealt with state issues at length, promising, among other things, "to restore an economical and business-like administration of the affairs of state upon the party's return to power," and announces that the republican party is in favor of the budget system for the expenditure of public funds.

Question of Taxation.

"We favor," the platform states in its plank on taxation, "a constitutional amendment fixing a limit to the tax rate and giving the legislature power to effect taxation reform, and, upon the adoption of such amendment, we pledge our support to a thorough revision of our system of taxation to the end that all property and persons shall bear equitably the burdens of governmental support."

Another plank states that the party favors an amendment prohibiting the increase of an official salary for the term of office, whether held by election or appointment. It states further that "we favor the abolishment of all bodies and officers not essential to the proper administration of the affairs of state."

The Labor Plank.

The labor plank follows: "The republican party has at all times been the friend of labor, as witness the many laws of the state and nation for the welfare of workingmen and women. We are opposed to the evils of child labor and favor the enactment of such legislation as will eliminate such abuse. We are opposed to placing convict made goods in competition with the products of free labor."

Primary Law Denounced.

The state wide primary law is denounced as "unsatisfactory and expensive and should be amended.

The co-operation with the federal government in the construction and upkeep of mail routes and other roads in general use is recommended and it is stated further that "the present system of road building and maintenance is no longer suited to the present needs and should be reformed." The plank adds that "all the people of the state should contribute toward the improvement of the roads of the state."

A recommendation for the enactment of law that will permit cities to adopt a commission or city manager form of government is also made.

Pledges Law Enforcement.

Laxity existing among the executive officers and police authorities in many of our cities in the matter of enforcing respect for the laws of the state is condemned and the party pledges its support to the strict enforcement of the laws. There is also a recommendation for the enactment of a simple and efficient impeachment law, "that inefficient and corrupt public officials speedily may be removed from public service."

The party in its platform goes on record as favoring a non-partisan judiciary and urged that the election of the judiciary, if made at the general election, shall be made upon separate ballots without any party emblem. Another recommendation is that the next legislature shall take the proper steps to reform and simplify the methods of legal procedure in the courts of the state.

As to party management the platform states:

"We reaffirm our uncompromising position in favor of equitable and non-discriminating party management and pledge ourselves to the principles that the right of our members in party affairs shall be equally sacred and sacredly equal."

The eagle shall continue to be the party emblem on all ballots, the platform states.

OLD HOUSE OF JIM FISK ALMOST GONE

Home Maintained for Josie Mansfield is Being Torn Down.

New York, April 6.—Josie Mansfield's former home is almost gone. The brown stone house at 359 West Twenty-third street, formerly so well known, has almost disappeared under the hands of the wreckers, to make way for a more modern improvement.

In the early '70s it was the home of Miss Josephine Mansfield, best friend of Jim Fisk, who was then vice president of the Erie railroad and colonel of the Ninth regiment, N. G. N. Y. Her influence over him was powerful. The house was wonderfully and beautifully furnished and the neighborhood at the time was fashionable. Mrs. Fisk occupied a house that was much less pretentious in the same street.

Miss Mansfield's house was the scene of many wonderful entertainments and dinners and gatherings of Fisk's friends and business associates. Here Edward S. Stokes was a constant caller. These calls ended in the quarrel which caused the shooting of Fisk by Stokes in the Grand Central Hotel (now the Broadway Central) January 6, 1872, and his death the following day.

The Mansfield house adjoins the quaint mansard roofed house back from the street which was once occupied by Lily Langtry.

No clap-trap methods of doing business at Foster's; no schemes, no premiums, no trading stamps, no guessing contests, no prizes—nothing to attract trade but goods goods, low prices and liberal treatment. Unhealthy methods of trade stimulation generally indicate a business that has seen its best days.

NOTED AUTOMOBILE LECTURER AT MAJESTIC THEATRE TOMORROW NIGHT

Hundreds of invitations have been sent out in answer to requests received at the Fort Wayne Overland Co. for admission tickets to the lecture to be held tomorrow evening at the Majestic theater at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Henry H. Hower, S. A. E., will tell all about the Willys-Knight motor and will conduct a general discussion lecture on all topics relative to the mechanism and working parts of the motor.

Special musical features have been arranged to make the lecture a complete, live, wide-awake and enthusiastic gala affair. Elaborate preparations have been made by Fred Gaskins, president of the Fort Wayne Overland Co.

As is known by nearly all motorists, the Knight motor made a tremendous jump into the automobile field some years ago and it has completely revolutionized the motor construction of many makes of cars since its debut.

In fact, in the past, only the highest priced cars were able to boast of the wonderful sleeve valve Knight motor until recently the Overland made the announcement of the new Willys-Knight which is the lowest priced car on the market with such a motor.

"Now, however," said Mr. Gaskins, "the Knight may be purchased at a moderate figure, and it would appear that automobile owners all over the country are eager to learn more about this remarkable invention. It was for this reason that we have prevailed upon Mr. Hower to give us this motion picture lecture.

'Mr. Hower has been associated with the Knight motor interests for the past eight years and he thoroughly knows his subject. During the past few months he has lectured in many of the largest cities in the east and also at nearly all of the universities in the east and middle west."

Mr. Hower's lecture is given in the non-technical language of the man who owns or drives a car, and every point will be explained in an interesting and simple manner.

The tickets are issued free at The Fort Wayne Overland Co.

BALLAINE DEFIES FOES OF PROJECT

Assails Those Who Would Check Development in Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., April 4.—Enemies of government projects in Alaska are boasting that with a change of administration railroad building and coal land leasing there will be stopped.

So declares Major John E. Ballaine, who has thrown down the gauntlet to the Guggenheim interests of the north.

Founder of Seward and builder of the Alaska Northern railroad, now part of the government system, Ballaine has announced his candidacy for congress from the Seattle district at the republican primaries.

He has fought consistently and powerfully against Guggenheim aggression in Alaska. He is regarded as the biggest single factor in securing the government railway in the territory.

"My decision," he said, "is prompted by threats of Steve Birch, manager of the Alaska syndicate; by the boasts of the Guggenheim lobby at Washington, and by the secret aid from a few men in Seattle who are on their pay roll, to the effect that work on the government railroad in Alaska will be stopped with the coming of a new administration.

"They include in their threats the repeal of the Alaska coal leasing laws.

"I will accept their challenge. We shall see if the hard-won battle of two years ago to develop Alaska in the interests of the public good is to be strangled. If in its place is to be substituted the old policy of private exploitation for the exclusive benefit of a high-financed New York syndicate."

Major Ballaine says he will support a program for the construction of yet another 1,000 miles of government railway in Alaska—"so that all parts of Alaska may be opened to equal development for all Americans of every degree."

Japan is planning to adopt an alphabet of forty-seven letters, including most of the Roman characters, some Russian and the rest original symbols.

GAS TAKES FIFTH JUMP.

Seven Cents Advance in Past Year in California.

San Francisco, April 6.—The price of gasoline took its fifth jump in five months when the Standard Oil company, of California, announced that, beginning today, the price of the product will be advanced one cent or to 19 cents a gallon.

A year ago gasoline was selling in San Francisco for 12 cents a gallon. The explanation offered by the producers for the rise is that gasoline is worth more and costs more to make.

Coroner J. E. McArdle has completed his investigation into the death of Isaac Zimmerman, of Holman street, the employe in the Western Gas company, who shot himself through the head Monday morning. The verdict will probably be suicide while temporarily unbalanced, due to injuries received in the explosion at the plant of the Western Gas company.

NEW AND WATSON NAMED BY ACCLAMATION

NO FIGHT MADE ON TONER AS DELEGATE

Col. D. N. Foster Chosen Alternate Elector by Republican State Convention --Naming State Ticket.

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.—The republicans in convention here got down to the real business of the meeting today. Judge Quincy A. Myers called the delegates to order at 10 o'clock and the preliminaries being soon cleared away, the platform was submitted and approved.

The expected contest for the fourth place on the delegation at large to the national convention did not materialize. Fred A. Sims, James A. Hemenway, Will H. Hayes and E. C. Toner were elected by acclamation. Winfield T. Durbin, former governor, who was expected to be a candidate for the fourth place, was not nominated.

New and Watson Named.

Harry S. New, for the long term, and former Congressman James E. Watson for the short term, were nominated for United States senate by acclamation.

Ed Jackson, of Newcastle, also was nominated by acclamation for secretary of state. All were called upon for brief speeches.

James P. Goodrich's nomination for governor in the primary was ratified. He responded with a short address.

The rules of the convention were suspended while the nominations for senators and secretary of state were being made, as there were no contestants and the nominations were made by acclamation. All of the candidates were called upon for speeches after their nominations had been acclaimed.

Watson the Favorite.

Watson seemed the favorite of the delegates. He was given an ovation, not only when he arose to speak, but when he first entered the convention hall. There was no debate on the platform and its reading was frequently interrupted by applause.

Mention of the name of Charles W. Fairbanks again today evoked cheers from the great crowd which filled every corner of Tomlinson hall.

Col. Foster Named.

Walter J. Riley and James W. Dunbar were elected presidential electors and Thomas F. Davison and David N. Foster were named alternates. There was no opposition.

The alternate delegates-at-large were named without opposition as follows: Albert B. Conrdat, Kokomo; A. L. Pfau, Terre Haute; Lute H. Moore, Fort Wayne, and S. A. Furnis, Indianapolis.

The Balloting Begins.

The first contest developed over the nomination for lieutenant governor. Balloting started a few minutes before noon with the following men in the race: Edward D. Bush, Salem; John M. Lewis, Seymour; Thomas G. Moore, Greencastle; Joseph A. Minturn, Indianapolis, Wm. White, Crawfordsville, and Julius Friedman, East, Chicago.

The first ballot for lieutenant governor was: Bush, 232½; Lewis, 233½; Moore, 154½; Minturn, 288½; White, 138½; Friedman, 180½. Votes necessary for choice 585. One hour was required to take the ballot and as soon as the result had been announced the taking of the second ballot was commenced.

The second ballot in the contest for nomination for lieutenant governor showed a trend to Bush, and White withdrew from the race. The vote follows: Bush, 304; Lewis, 290; Moore, 123; Minturn, 235; White, 91; Friedman, 125.

Just before the taking of the third ballot, Julius Friedman, of East Chicago, withdrew from the race in favor of Lewis, who received the second highest number of votes on the second ballot.

Bush is Nominated.

While the calling of the roll on the third ballot was in progress Minturn also announced his withdrawal.

Edgar D. Bush, of Salem, was nominated for lieutenant governor on the third ballot. He received 649 votes while his nearest competitor, John M. Lewis, got 418½.

The rules committee at a meeting last night decided upon Horace Stilwell, of Anderson, as permanent chairman.

A platform drawn upon conservative lines was drafted by the resolutions committee in a session that continued practically all night and was to be submitted to the convention today.

Chairman Takes Gavel.

Judge Quincy A. Myers, temporary chairman of the convention, took up the gavel promptly at 10 o'clock. The Rev. Z. T. Sweeney, of Columbus, delivered the invocation. The committee on credentials reported no contests. The committee on rules and permanent or-

RAY OF PROMISE IN TOLEDO CAR STRIKE

Appointment of Receiver Postponed by Court Until Saturday.

Toledo, April 6.—Appointment of receiver of the Toledo Railways and Light company wast postponed until Saturday by Federal Judge John M. Killits. Toledo will continue without car service until that time.

The court granted the postponement upon representation by company officials and the city attorney that the deadlock over the right of the car men to wear the union button has been broken and that negotiations are progressing satisfactorily on a proposed contract of 22 sections between the company and the men.

The men receded from the position that they would not present their contract until the company conceded their right to wear the button. Secret conferences on the contract which continued until midnight will be resumed this afternoon. Judge Killits announed from the bench that if a receiver is necessary Captain John Craig, of this city, would be appointed.

Platform Adopted by Indiana Republicans

Indianapolis, Ind., April 6.—Containing a strong indorsement of Charles W. Fairbanks for the presidential nomination the platform drafted by the resolutions committee in an all night session was submitted to the state republican convention here today.

The platform denounces the Wilson administration as "inefficient and extravagant" and declares it has "brought us business depression at home and discredit abroad," adding that "such prosperity as has attended the democratic administration has been due not to democratic policies but has prevailed here and there in spite of that. Democratic prosperity such as it is, is due almost wholly to woe and disaster which prevail in the old world."

The Tariff Issue.

The tariff plank demands the reenactment of a protective tariff at the earliest possible date and continues:

"We condemn the democratic party for its overthrow of the republican tariff law and the substitution of the Underwood tariff, which diminished the public revenues and made necessary the imposition of obnoxious stamp taxes and an increase of taxes upon the people and their business."

Merchant Marine—Preparedness.

The platform favors a privately owned and operated merchant marine under the American flag and "such preparedness as may be necessary upon land and sea to protect American citizens in their persons and property at home and abroad. So long as other nations are armed for aggressive purposes, we must be prepared to defend ourselves against them." Strict neutrality toward the nations engaged in the European war is also recommended.

Mexican Policy Assailed.

The president's Mexican policy is characterized as "weak and indecisive" and states that it has "brought us increasing confusion and national humiliation.

"The president's failure to recognize Huerta as the de facto executive of the republic turned the government over to chaos, resulting in the murder of ministers of God at the altar and the exile of others, the desecration of churches and the violation of women consecrated to the service of humonity. * * * The president has exhausted our patience and should surrender to the republican party, the problems he is incapable of solving."

MATTER NOT YET SETTLED

Dispatches Regarding Army Use of Mexican Railways Reach Washington.

VILLA HUNT TAKES DIPLOMATIC TREND

Hint That Carranza May Ask U. S. Army to Quit is Persistent.

Washington, April 6.—Dispatches reporting continuing negotiations with Gen. Carranza for use of the railways were received today from Special Agent John T. Rodgers at Queretaro. They indicated the question was still unsettled, but officials regarded the situation as favorable.

The exact questions under negotiations were not disclosed. Secretary Lansing declined to say what progress had been made with Gen. Carranza. The last official announcement was of submission by Carranza of several modifications. These apparently still are before the state department.

Elesio Arredono, Gen. Carranza's ambassador here, has not conferred with Secretary Lansing in more than a week.

In some quarters there was a strong inclination to connect the de facto government's apparent delay in permitting the use of the railroads for the shipment of supplies to the United States forces with a desire of Gen. Carranza to have the American soldiers to leave Mexican soil. It is understood that Carranza officials on the border have made informal inquiries as to how much longer the expedition will remain in Mexico and how far south it will penetrate. Legally the American forces are now pursuing what is termed "a hot trail." No great surprise would be expressed here if Carranza should suggest soon that the trail had become cold and should question the propriety of

ELKHART JITNEYS LEASE PRIVATE PARKING STAND.

Elkhart, Ind., April 6.—Forced to give up street stands jitney bus operators in this city have leased private property near the heart of the city on which they will park their automobiles.

For some time the jitney operators have been in trouble with owners of business property who objected to the automobiles being continually lined up along the curb.

CHICAGO MILK WAR GROWS MORE SERIOUS

Big Plants Closing and Customers Get Short Deliveries.

Chicago, April 6.—With a shortage in prospect unless the differences between producers and distributors in the Chicago district are settled soon, the milk war today assumed a more serious aspect. Most of the distributors of the city were unable to make full deliveries to customers.

The Borden plant, at Woodstock, and the Bowman factory, at Ringwood, were closed yesterday, due to shortage of deliveries. The Borden company announced that their works at Elgin, one of the largest in the county, will be closed today if the situation does not change.

The Bowman company appealed to the circuit court for a general injunction to stop the picketing by which the farmers have tied up most of the deliveries in the district. Judge Donnelly, to whom the application was made, issued an order forbidding intimidation by violence and interference with Bowman property, but declared he could not stop "peaceful picketing" on the part of the farmers.

WILSON MAY GO TO CHICAGO.

Tentatively Accepts Invitation of Spanish War Veterans.

Washington, April 6.—President Wilson today tentatively accepted an invitation to go to Chicago Sept. 4 to attend the national encampment of the United Spanish war veterans and review a preparedness parade. The invitation was extended by Lieutenant Governor O'Hara, of Illinois, and Jere Costello, adjutant general of the Spanish war veterans.

McCardle, who was Goodrich's manager, received $3,093.23, while $706.30 was spent for the employ of stenographers, rent of typewriter and clerical help; $3,113.59 for posters, calendars, motion picture and car advertising; $844.29 for his expenses as a candidate; $4,748.40 for newspaper advertising, and $5,567.44 for stamps and stationery.

CHRISTENS IT WITH BOTTLE OF GASOLINE

Suffragist Machine to Tour Country is Named the "Golden Flier."

New York, April 6.—Christening of the automobile called "The Golden Flier" in which Mrs. Alice S. Burke and Miss Nellie Richardson are to make a tour of the United States under the auspices of the National American Woman Suffrage association was one of the features of the farewell tendered to the travelers by leading suffragists here today.

Officers and members of the association and of the state suffrage party gathered at the suffrage headquarters and escorted Mrs. Burke and Miss Richardson in a parade to Columbus circle, where Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, president, broke a bottle of gasoline over the radiator of "The Golden Flier" and gave it its name.

Besides the ordinary equipment the automobile carries a fireless cooker and a small hand sewing machine.

BOILER BLAST HURLS ENGINEMEN 75 FEET

Bedford, Ind., April 6.—Two trainmen were thrown 75 feet and seriously injured early today when the engine boiler of the Chicago-to-Louisville Monon train No. 3 exploded when approaching the top of a heavy grade. The train was automatically brought to a standstill by the severed air hose and the passengers escaped injury.

Dill Johnson, Lafayette, fireman, was thrown 75 feet over telegraph wires and landed on his head in a fence corner. He may die. Joseph Ficer, New Albany, engineer, was badly scalded and thrown into an adjoining field. The engine was wrecked. The cause of the explosion is not known.

SAM MURDOCK GIVES $2,000.

Contributes to Erection of Old Students' Hall at Notre Dame.

Indiana Man Sees President for First Time Since Appointment.

Washington, April 6.—Joseph Shea, the new ambassador to Chile, conferred with President Wilson today for the first time since his appointment to succeed Henry P. Fletcher, transferred to Mexico. Mr. Shea said he expected to leave for his post within a few weeks.

BANK ROBBERS TAKE $15,000

"Make a Move and You'll Be Shot," Written Message to Cashier.

FACED A PISTOL AS HE LOOKED UP

Robbers Make Escape in Auto After Daring Job at Houston, Pa.

Canonsburg, Pa., April 6.—Two men robbed the First aXtional bank of Houston, Pa., near here, soon after noon today of $15,000 and escaped in an automobile.

Joseph K. McNutt, cashier of the bank, was alone at his window when an automobile drove up in front of the building. A man entered carrying in his hand a piece of paper about the size of a check and laid it on the counter in front of the cashier. On the paper was written, "make a move and you will be shot."

Faced Automatic Pistol.

McNutt looked up to find himself facing an automatic pistol. Meantime the other occupant of the automobile had left the machine and made his way to the door leading to the cashier's cage, which happened to be open. McNutt was made to lie on the floor and one of the robbers guarded him while the other went through the vault. He collected $15,000 in bills ranging in denomination from $10 to $20, but did not touch $2,000 in gold or $1,000 in silver.

The men told McNutt to lie perfectly still, which he did, while they hurried to the automobile and drove quickly away in the direction of Canonsburg.

McNutt gave the police an excellent description of the robber who faced him at the window.

WILL BE A WITNESS AGAINST BROTHERS

Grand Rapids, Mich., April 6.—John Richard Harrison, confessed train robber, accompanied by Inspector E. A. Mackey and Deputy United States Marshal Hanley, started this forenoon for Atlanta, Ga., where Harrison will appear as a witness against his two brothers, Charles and John Harrison; his cousin, William Carl Rentz, jr., and Benjamin McKee, all under arrest on charges of train robbery.

With Harrison's arrest inspectors recovered $3,000 of the $100,650 in unsigned bank notes taken in the Central Station, W. Va., train robbery October 1, 1915. Harrison has made a complete confession to inspectors, it is said.

FRENCH TAKE GERMAN LINE

Paris Claims Big Gains in Night Fighting in Verdun Region.

GERMANS ADVANCE AT ANOTHER POINT

Today's War News Given in Summary

A desperate all night struggle around Verdun resulted in substantial gains for the French west of the river Meuse, according to today's Paris bulletin, while east of that stream German attacks on French positions were repulsed. At one point, along the Avocourt-Bethincourt line, however, it is admitted that the Germans succeeded in penetrating French positions. The French gain was scored north of Avocourt, northwest of Verdun, where in the course of the engagement that began yesterday afternoon and continued throughout the night Gen. Petains' troops succeeded in capturing a large portion of the position known as Boise Carre, or "Square woods." The German attacks northeast of the city were directed against the lines north of the Caillette woods, where Paris reported a French gain yesterday. The efforts of the Germans to regain the lost ground are declared to have been futile.

The French ministry of marine announces the sinking of a German submarine by a squadron of French and British warships. The submarine's crew was captured.

The British steamer Zent has been torpedoed without warning according to a Queenstown dispatch. Two men were killed and 48 others probably drowned. The captain and nine of the crew reached Queenstown safely.

Paris, April 6.—(2:30 p. m.)—The war office announced this afternoon capture by the French of a large portion of the position north of Avocourt known as Bois Carre woods. This ground was captured in the course of fighting which went on all of yesterday afternoon and last night in the Verdun region west of the Meuse on the Avocourt-Bethincourt line.

At one point along the Avocourt-Bethincourt line the Germans succeeded in penetrating French positions.

Two attacks were made by German troops against French positions north of Caillette woods, but they were without result

TAKE VILLAGE BY STORM.

Berlin, April 6.—German troops have stormed the village of Haucourt on the Avocourt-Bethincourt front northwest of Verdun, the war officials announced today.

Meat cards will be introduced in Bavaria and Saxony on April 15 permitting consumption of 150 grammes (one-third pound) per capita daily except on two meatless days each week. Bavaria has forbidden sale of canned meats, whole hams, whole sausages, etc., to individuals to prevent the accumulation of stocks in advance.

Individual meat cards probably will not be issued in Berlin. Regulation of distribution will be effected by limiting the supply for each retailer.

The German admiralty announced today that German airships last night silenced a battery near Hull, England, with bombs and destroyed a large iron works near Whitby. The airship returned safely.

LAST MINUTE NEWS

London, April 6.—(5:20 p. m.)—The town of Felahie, in Mesopotamia, has been captured by the British, it was announced officially here today. All the positions gained have been consolidated and counter-attacks by the Turks repulsed.

NOT PIRACY, BUT ACT OF WAR, HE CONTENDS

New York, April 6.—The exploit of Clarence Hudson, alias Ernest Schiller, in holding up, unaided, the British steamship Matoppo on the high seas last week, was not piracy, Hudson contended through counsel in federal proceedings here today, but was an act of war which was acquiesced in by the captain and chief officer, who, he declared, joined him in a toast to the emperor of Germany.

COLONEL'S HAT IN RING AGAIN

Roosevelt Gets Into Race for the Republican Nomination.

Makes It Clear the Policy Must Be Strong on Defense Issue.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., April 6.—Col. Roosevelt's hat is in the ring. There is no longer any doubt of that. He announced the terms under which he would be the republican candidate for president in telling a political caller who expects to be a delegate to the republican national convention not to nominate him if he expects the colonel to pussyfoot on a single issue he has raised or unless he thinks the nomination is in the interests of the United States.

This visitor was a man from a nearby state who came to Sagamore Hill, saying he expected to be a candidate for congress as well as a delegate to the republican national convention. Then, in hopes of the colonel's support of his congressional candidacy, the optimistic pilgrim added:

"You know, colonel, I may make up my mind that we'll have to nominate you."

Makes Position Clear.

"Well," began the colonel, pausing a moment to gather his strength before letting loose, "now let me give you a piece of advice. If you have any doubts on the subject, don't nominate me.

"Get it perfectly clear in your head that if you nominate me it must not be because you think it is in my interest, but because you think it is in your interest and the interest of the republican party, and because you think it is in the interest of the United States to do so.

Will Not Pussyfoot.

"And more than that, do not do it if you expect me to pussyfoot on any single issue I have raised.

"Don't be for me unless you are prepared to say that every citizen of this country has got to be pro-United States, first, last, and all the time, and not pro-anything else at all, and that we stand for every good American everywhere, whatever his birthplace or creed and wherever he now lives, and that in return we demand that he be an American and nothing else, with no hyphen about him.

"Every American citizen must be for America first and for no other country even second, and he has not any right to be in the United States at all if he has any divided loyalty between this country and any other.

U. S. Must Prepare.

"I don't care a rap for the man's creed or birthplace or national origin so long as he is straight United States. I am for him if he is straight United States, and if he isn't I am against him.

"And don't you nominate me unless you are prepared to take the position that Uncle Sam is to be strong enough to defend his rights and to defend every one of his people wherever these people are, and he can't be strong unless he prepares in advance.

"I am not for war. On the contrary, I abhor an unjust or a wanton war, and I would use every honorable expedient to avoid even a just war. But I feel with all my heart that you don't in the long run avoid war by making other people believe that you are afraid to fight for your own rights.

U. S. Must Retain Respect.

"Uncle Sam must never wrong the weak he must never insult any one or wantonly give cause of offense either to the weak or the strong.

"The surest possible way to enable him to keep the peace and to keep it on terms that will enable Americans to hold their heads high and not hang them in shame is for him to be so prepared in advance—and I mean prepared in his own soul, as well as with his army and navy—that when he says anything the rest of the world will know that he means it and that he can make it good.

"Don't you try to nominate me unless you think that is the policy that ought to be followed out and followed out for your sake as much as for mine and for the sake of the rest of us here in the United States.

"And don't forget that isn't a course that provokes war. It is the only course that in the long run prevents war and secures national self-respect and guarantees the honor of this country and the rights of its citizens wherever they may be."

It is said that the would-be national delegate responsible for the colonel's outburst mumbled an unintelligible reply and softly faded from the scene.

TEACHERS LEAVE FOR MEETING AT CHICAGO

A large delegation of Allen county teachers left Thursday morning at 7:30 o'clock over the Pennsylvania for Chicago to be inattendance at the thirty-third annual meeting of the Northern Indiana Teachers' association. About fifteen teachers left Wednesday afternoon.

As a result of the meeting in Chicago a majority of the schools in Allen county will be closed for the remainder of the week. Teachers of the county who did not go were not permitted to close their schools. The teachers of Fort Wayne will not attend, they having chosen the meeting at Indianapolis last fall.

AN UNIQUE CELEBRATION.

D. H. Wolf Walks Fifty Blocks In Memory of Battle of Shiloh.

D. H. Wolf, of East Wayne street, a veteran of the civil war, celebrated Thursday the fifty-fourth anniversary of the battle of Shiloh, in which he participated, by walking between forty-five and fifty blocks just for exercise. The battle of Shiloh was fought on April 6 and 7, 1862.

TRAPPER DIES IN CABIN'S SOLITUDE

Body of Aged Recluse Found in Dilapidated Shack.

Alone in his little log cabin in Milan township, far from the habitudes of even his nearest neighbors, Samuel Jordan, aged eighty-five, a recluse hunter and trapper, lay down to rest Wednesday morning on his narrow bunk. He lay for a long time, his head on his hand and his long white hair falling across his face, and then the fire in the little cannon stove went out, and the morning winds came up from across the fields and blew open the narrow door.

Emil Schaefer, a neighbor, happened to be crossing the field, and seeing the door open and missing the spiral of smoke that hung over the little house on cool mornings, he walked to the door and called. The echo of his own voice was the only response. He peered through the darkness of the shack and saw the ancient hermit on the bunk. He touched the declining figure.

The body was cold.

For thirty years Samuel Jordan had lived in the little house alone. For thirty years he had followed the byways of the township that was his little world, rarely venturing upon the open road. Friendless, companionless, rather glorying in his solitude, he had passed a score and ten winters in the silent wood and stubble field about his decaying home.

Spurning the advances of those who would make him their friend, dodging the neighbors who crossed his patch, disturbed by the voices of his fellow beings, he chose the hermit life, and he lived in solitude for thirty years and he died as he had lived.

In the shack was nothing that spoke of the modern world which had passed by the old trapper, and left him far behind. An old lantern lighted the single room and a musket and powder horn hung on wooden pegs on the wall. The hides of small animals, some ancient traps and a medical almanac of 1847 were the only possessions of the old man.

The body was removed to Maysville and Coroner J. E. McArdle pronounced death due to senility. The dead man had relatives at Antwerp, Ohio.

This is Captain Henry Stoll's birthday and congratulations personally and by mail poured in upon him, attesting to the esteem in which he is held by his friends.

CITY COURT DOCKET VERY SMALL THURSDAY

Two Drunks and a Vagrant Are Disposed of by Judge Kerr.

But three cases adorned the docket of the city court, Thursday morning and all were disposed of in short order by Judge Waveland Kerr. Charles Johnson, who was arrested on a charge of vagrancy, was allowed to go and his case was continued indefinitely when he proved to the court that he was really a cripple.

The case of drunkenness against William Bedamm, an aged man who has appeared before in the city court rooms was continued until Friday morning. He was held under a bond of twenty-five dollars.

Joe Shea, who was parading the streets with a souse, was fined five dollars and costs and went to jail.

Juvenile Loafing Must Cease.

Chief of Police Charles Lenz has issued an order that officers should break up the practice of children who play in and around new houses under construction. Not only is their danger of injury to the children themselves but several times it has been reported that damage has been done by children in houses before completion. Chief Lenz asks that parents should assist the department in enforcing this order.

Speeds by a City Car.

Three complaints were received at police station Wednesday evening that an automobile driver drove his car past a street car at Pontiac and Calhoun streets while the city car was receiving and discharging passengers. It is stated that several people narrowly escaped being struck and that the auto was traveling at a great speed. The license number on the car was given as 47,236 Ind., 1916.

MOTORMAN IS HURT WHEN HIT BY BRICK

George Landis, motorman on East Creighton avenue city car No 159, was slightly injured about 10 o'clock Wednesday night, when he was struck by a brick suspended by a rope from the trolley wire where it had been placed by some culprit. The accident occurred as the car approached Buchanan street on John. The motorman's injuries were not serious and he was able to continue his trip.

An unknown bicyclist riding alongside of a Spy Run city car, Wednesday night, hurled a brick through one of the windows, shattering the glass and almost hitting Mrs. Kintz, a passenger residing at 1701 Spy Run avenue.

Both incidents were reported to the police, but they were unable to apprehend the culprits.

SEXTON HANGS HIMSELF UNDER CHAPEL BELFRY

New York, April 6.—Under the belfry of old St. Paul's chapel, the sexton hanged himself today. Philip G. Walter, tiring, as he had recently complained, of the monotony of his position after thirty-one years of service at the famous edifice at Broadway and Vesey street, climbed upon a piano stool which he had placed upon a table, fastened a sash around his neck, tied the end of this cord to the stairs leading to the belfry and kicked the stool from under him.

Discovery of the sexton's body was made by an assistant who found a pad upon which Walter had written instructions for the finder to climb to the roof beneath the belfry. Walter was 55 years old.

F. W. Fitch, Pennsy machinists' apprentice, will spend the week-end in Chicago.

BIG TANK STEAMER AND HER OIL CARGO BURNED

New York, April 6.—The tank steamer San Cristobal, owned and operated by the Mexican Oil company between Mexican and gulf ports, was destroyed by fire, together with a cargo of 5,000 barrels of crude oil, on March 27 at Puerto, Mexico, according to reports brought here today by the Ward line steamship Santiago.

The fire started with an explosion and endangered the Santiago. Tugs towed her into the stream, returning for the blazing tanker, which broke away and drifted near the Santiago, which was badly scorched before the tugs could again get control of the tank. The fire was said to have been caused by an exposed light which ignited crude oil gases.

The San Christobal was built at Newcastle, Eng., in 1906, for the Mexican Oil company. She was registered at 1,280 tons.

HENRY BENDER DIES IN SPOKANE.

Former Fort Wayne Man Will Be Remembered Here.

Word has been received in Fort Wayne of the death at Spokane, Washington, on March 30 of the death of Henry Bender, who will be well remembered by older citizens of this city. He is survived by the widow and a son 30 years of age. Death was due to kidney trouble.

At the beginning of the civil war Mr. Bender was learning the trade of marble cutter in the monumental works of P. S. Underhill in this city. He enlisted in the Eighty-eighth Indiana volunteers but was later discharged on account of a physical defect in one of his feet. Completing his trade, Mr. Bender embarked in business at Bluffton. Later he removed to Montana, operating a hay and cattle ranch. Five years ago Mr. Bender sold out these interests and had been living a retired life at Spokane. He had been quite feeble during the winter but it was not believed the end was so near.

The Doctor's Advice
by Dr. Lewis Baker

"Poorly" writes: "I have chronic constipation and my head aches all the time. I am nervous and don't sleep well. I have fever and my skin is muddy and my tongue coated. My eyes are dull and I feel tired and weak."

Answer: What you need is a good laxative and blood purifier. Clean your system thoroughly with three-grain sulpherb tablets (not sulphur). These tablets act on the bowels, aid digestion and purify your blood. Their use will drive away the tired feeling and other symptoms.

"Proud" says: "I have always been proud of my hair until lately, when it has acquired an ugly, greasy, stringy appearance, and my scalp is covered with scales and itches terribly. What may I do?"

Answer: You should use plain yellow mlnyol to relieve the scalp of dandruff and itching. It acts as a tonic to the scalp and hair strands and promotes a beautiful, luxuriant growth of hair. Clip the ends of the hair about an inch, to get rid of broken ends.

"Model" writes: "I have been a perfect thirty-eight in size until the last few months, when I have gained about 25 pounds too much flesh. Please prescribe."

Answer: You will find a very harmless and successful flesh reducer in the use of arbolone tablets, sold in sealed tubes, with directions for home use.

"Nervous" writes: "I am a brain worker but now I am so nervous as to be unable to apply myself to my tasks. I cannot concentrate my mind. Have a constant feeling of fatigue and drowsiness. Seem to have lost all buoyancy; in other words, I don't seem able to 'draw myself together' somehow. What will renew my strength, brace me up, and make me feel like a man?"

Answer: Your condition is the same as that of thousands of other men who have been restored to new strength and energy, when from worry, dissipation or overwork, they were feeling the same as you. The questions answered below are general in character, the symptoms or diseases are given and the answers will apply in any case of similar nature.

Those wishing further advice, free may address Dr. Lewis Baker, College Bldg., College-Ellwood Sts., Dayton, O., enclosing self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. Full name, and address must be given, but only initials or fictitious name will be used in my answers. The prescriptions can be filled at any well-stocked drug store. Any druggist can order of wholesaler.

Three-grain cadomene tablets should reinvigorate your system, give you new strength and life and make your brain clear and able to cope with daily requirements.

"Runt" says: "I'm tired of being called 'runt' just because I'm so thin. I want to weigh more. How may I add about 25 pounds to my weight?"

Answer: There is the use of three-grain hypo-nuclane tablets to increase your weight. They are the surest, safest and best health, strength and flesh producers I could suggest. You should easily gain twenty-five pounds in weight in a relatively short time

"Anna L." writes: "I have kidney trouble and have had for some time. I have a baby three months old and since she was born I have been bothered. I have been taking medicine, but it doesn't seem to act on my kidneys."

Answer: Quite often kidney and bladder trouble follow child-birth, and if your symptoms are the usual ones, such as swelling of the feet, puffs under the eyes, chills and fever with headache and pains in the back, would suggest that you use balmwort tablets. They are a splendid all-around kidney medicine and tone and liven the kidneys."

"Sufferer" writes: "I am a chronic sufferer from rheumatism. I have tried various cures but none of them have given me relief."

Answer: You will be pleased with the results from the use of the following mixture: 2 drams iodide of potassium, 4 drams sodium salicylate, ½ oz. wine of colchicum, 1 oz. comp. fluid balmwort, 1 oz. comp. essence cardiol and 5 ozs. of syrup sarsaparilla comp. Mix and take a teaspoonful at meal times and again before going to bed. I always prescribe this treatment and it has given very satisfactory results.

"Gayle" says: "I have cold in my system almost constantly. I cough, and my throat and chest are sore. I seem full of inflammation."

Answer: Constant colds are bad for the system. Try to avoid draughts and undue exposure. Get a 2½ oz. bottle concentrated essence mentho-laxene and mix with simple syrup, according to directions. This should break up severe coughs and colds in a very little while, and at the same time rid the system of the cold inflammation.

RAISE $23,000 FOR Y. M. C. A.

Michigan City Workers Obtain $6,000 From Mrs. Howard Spaulding, Jr.

Michigan City, Ind., April 4.—A campaign to raise $20,000 for the Michigan City Y. M. C. A. was closed successfully here on the last day. More than $7,000 remained to be raised. Reports of subscriptions were received after a banquet in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium, and the final announcement was that of a donation from Mrs. Howard Spaulding, jr., of Chicago, formerly Miss Catherine Barker, of $6,000. This made the total sum obtained more than $23,000. This donation was unexpected and the audience in the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium rose and cheered when the leader of one of the committees visited Mrs. Spaulding at her Chicago home during the day and obtained the donation.

19 HATS IN RING AT KENDALLVILLE

Boszor, William H. Weil, O. E. Michaelis, N. J. Shook, J. D. McKellar, Bark Moyer, A. Matzinger, Walter L. Holcomb, W. E. Sawyer, F. N. Yarian, M. S. Lyman, W. J. Fisher, A. J. Strauss and E. E. LONG ROAD FIGHT IS WON.

State Aid Secured to Improve Lincoln Highway in Van Wert County.

Van Wert, O., April 6.—One of the very few remaining bad spots on the eastern section of the Lincoln highway is to be done away with by the recent decision to hard surface three and one-half miles of the unimproved portion of Van Wert county. This was determined at a recent conference held by the county commissioners and attended by the good roads advocates. Unlimited credit must be given to O. W. Kerns, spokesman of the people of Tully township, where the improvement is to be made, and T. C. Wilkinson, county counsel of the Lincoln Highway association, who have been working industriously to this end for the past three years.

The road will be improved to a width of sixteen feet at a cost of $24,000, of which $10,000 will be allowed by the state, the remaining $14,000 coming from the township and county, and work will be started as soon as possible.

With the addition of Van Wert to the list of communities in Ohio now actively engaged in making preparations to improve the Lincoln highway during the coming year, it is very apparent that the general sentiment is decidedly in favor of such construction, and the Lincoln highway will soon be entirely hard surfaced within the state.

MYSTERIOUS BARN FIRE

Third in Strange Series of Rural Fires in Jay County.

Portland, Ind., April 6.—The new barn on the Jacob Tieben farm in the northwest corner of Green township, was burned to the ground shortly after 8 o'clock in the morning. The origin is unknown, but is believed to be the work of incendiarism. Two years ago last September a barn on the same site was burned. Jacob Tieben was away from home, having gone to a neighbor's to procure seed oats. Neighbors succeeded in saving the live stock, a buggy and harness. Over 600 bushels of corn was burned with a large quantity of hay and other feed. Just last week the barn on the Raymond Hapner farm in the same vicinity was burned under mysterious circumstances. Depredations of this character have been going on for the past three or four years.

WILL KEEP LITTLE OLD DEPOT

Hartford City, Ind., April 6.—Whatever expectation there might be in this city as to getting a new Pennsylvania station was dispelled yesterday when a representative of the engineer's department of this district of the railroad was in town and was asked regarding a station for Hartford City. "The engineer's department has not looked at the plans for the new station since the day the city won the fight to keep High street open," declared the engineer. Four years ago, when the company declared its intention of building a new station here, the railroad endeavored to have a street near where land had been purchased, closed. The city fought the case and won. For the past several years the city has been forced to be content with a little frame station.

HUNTINGTON HAS NEW FACTORY

Huntington, Ind., April 6.—A. L. White, of Lima, Ohio, was in Huntington and gave his check in the sum of $50,000 to J. W. Caswell, trustee for both Mr. White and the subscribers of stock to the Huntington Steel Foundry company, a new industry that is soon to start here with 400 employes. Pending the payment of stock subscriptions by the Huntington contributors the incorporators of the Huntington Steel and Foundry company met at the Huntington county bank and formed a temporary organization by the election of A. L. White, president; J. W. Caswell, vice president, and L. R. Wright, secretary treasurer. These officers together with G. S. Rinehelt and F. E. Wickenhiser constitute the board of directors.

HAND EXTINGUISHERS END FIRE

Van Wert, April 6.—The timely use of hand fire extinguishers perhaps saved the building in which the Van Wert Clothing company is located, from destruction, when a pile of rubbish at the rear of the office of Dr. R. C. Fleming became ignited. The origin of the fire is not known. The flames had gained considerable headway before they were discovered by Robert West, who was working on the second floor of the clothing store. The hand extinguishers were put into action and by the time the fire department could arrive the fire was completely under control.

PORTLAND'S CLEAN-UP DAY

Portland, Ind., April 6.—"Clean-up" day is to be observed here on May 1. This is the date set apart by the city council when it will be expected that citizens will have their premises in spic and span order and is in keeping with a request made by the Woman's Home and Civic league, who urged that the entire month of April be observed as "Clean-up" time with "Clean-up" day May 1.

A DRY TOWN'S RECORD

Hartford City, Ind., April 6.—Four arrests were made by the city police here during the month of March, the smallest number of any month for some time.

27 UNITS FORM FOR TEACHERS' PENSION

Fort Wayne in List of Indiana School Bodies Under New Law.

By Willis S. Thompson.

Indianapolis, April 6.—Since the teacher's pension law became effective in August, 1915, twenty-seven of the units described in the law have organized and been approved by the state board. Each county is a unit, including cities of less than five thousand. Cities of more than five thousand are units unto themselves.

Teachers who have been in the service for twenty-five years, are entitled under the law to receive a sick benefit of $350 a year, but when able to teach are supposed to return to work. The sick benefits increase at the rate of $25 a year up to and including thirty-four years of service. At thirty-four years the amount is $575 a year.

When a teacher has been employed for thirty-five years the state provides an annuity of $600 upon retirement from the profession for any cause. This amount increases up to and including forty years of service, when the annuity is $700.

No unit is recognized by the state board except where a majority of all the teachers and a majority of all the school officials make petition. To be included under the benefits prescribed in the law each teacher must pay a membership fee equal to the amount of the annual benefit anticipated. This fund is supposed to maintain the fund. Under these provisions the following units have been admitted since last August:

Laporte, Marion, Lafayette, Logansport, Goshen, Seymour, Hartford City, Vincennes, Muncie, Madison, Columbus, Jeffersonville, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Pulaski county school for blind, state normal Bedford, Huntington, Mishawaka, school for deaf, Kosciusko county, Franklin county, Wayne county, Valparaiso, Dearborn county and Bartholomew county.

CITIZENSHIP IS ATTACKED

Hammond Saloon Keeper Charged With Violating the Law.

Indianapolis, April 6.—When Andro Klofficar, a saloon keeper of Hammond, appeared before Judge A. B. Anderson, at Hammond, in 1911, in a successful attempt to obtain naturalization papers, he testified that he had operated his place of business without violations of the law. Two years later, Klobucar again appeared in court to testify in behalf of a friend who sought naturalization papers and admitted that his saloon was not being operated in accordance to the law.

For these reasons, a petition has been filed from the office of the United States district attorney in federal court asking that the certificate of citizenship received by Klobucar be set aside. The petition is based on an affidavit sworn by M. A. Stuges, of Chicago, chief naturalization examiner for the district including Indiana.

PLAN AUTOMOBILE CARAVAN

Rotary Club Members to Attend Convention at Cincinnati.

Indianapolis, April 6. At the noon luncheon of the Rotary club in this city it was voted to go to the international convention of Rotarians at Cincinnati next July in an automobile caravan. The drive through the state, it was agreed, would be made a feature of the Indiana centennial celebration. Rotary clubs from Evansville, Terre Haute, Ft. Wayne, South Bend and other Indiana cities are expected to drive to Indianapolis and join the main caravan here. Indianapolis will have headquarters at the Sinton and Grand hotels for the convention.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

You can Bring Back Color and Lustre with Sage Tea and Sulphur.

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is mussy and troublesome. For 50 cents you can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray, faded hair, though no disgrace, is a sign of old age, and as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger. This ready-to-use preparation is a delightful toilet requisite and not a medicine. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.—Advertisement.

Two hundred and twenty yards in 3 minutes and 34.5 seconds is new swimming record made by Olga Dorfner of Philadelphia, which places her up among the tank stars.

Miss Dorfer, representing the Philadelphia Turngemeinde, swam against Miss M. Galligan, of New York, at Philadelphia. She made a perfect dive and started in the lead in a double overhand stroke and kept ahead. She won by three lengths.

CREAMO BREAD AT YOUR GROCER'S

AMERICAN CAPTAIN PROTESTS STRONGLY

Resents Seizure of Persons from American Steamer China by British.

Shanghai, March 1.—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—Captain Frazier, the officer in charge of the American steamer China, which was stopped by an English auxiliary cruiser January 18, and delayed for five hours by the English, searching the ship and removing thirty-eight German, Austrian and Turkish passengers, has made a report of the occurrence to the local agent of the China Mail line, of this city.

Capt. Frazier protests the action of the British cruiser on three grounds. He maintains the English had no right to board the vessel with an armed force. He holds the English were beyond their rights in removing business men traveling between neutral ports who had passports showing they were not military reservists. He also objects to the delaying of the United States mail for five hours.

Capt. Frazier demanded an explanation from Lieutenant Steele of the British cruiser, when he boarded the China with an armed squad. The English officer explained his action at that time by saying it was necessary to prevent resistence on the part of the Germans. The English ship which stopped the China was formerly the White Star liner Laurentic, and has now been converted into an English auxiliary cruiser.

Capt. Frazier's report says the China left Woosung at three minutes past eight on the morning of February 18. At 11:25 the pilot left the steamer and at 11:49 the Laurentic was sighted. The China was then about ten miles from the mouth of the river. The warship ran up the signal: "Stop instantly." To back up the request, she fired two shots across the China's bow. The first was a blank and the second a solid projectile. The liner hove to and hoisted the American flag. The party that put off from the Laurentic consisted of three officers, and nineteen men, seven of whom boarded the vessel.

The passengers of the China were mustered on deck. Their passports and the ship's papers were carefully examined. When the examination was finished, the British took off twenty-eight Germans, eight Austrians and two Turks, a total of thirty-eight passengers. They left one German, who was a paralytic. The mail carried by the China was not molested.

The British officers told Capt. Frazier that they had been waiting fifteen days for the China. A wireless message—supposedly from Shanghai—told them of the German passengers on the steamer and when she sailed.

The following is a full list of the passengers taken from the steamer: Germans: Dr. W. Eyle, H. Fokkes, G. Grotjahn, Dr. R. Grimm, W. Hinkle, E. Seimssen, F. Schiefler, A. Bach, sr., A. Bach, jr., W. Doering, A. Frederick, J. Gartz, A. Gertzer, K. Goedecke, B. Haner, J. Janssen, R. Klein, A. Klein, K. Kraus, K. Krausch, P. Mainke, W. Pigulla, L. Rospeck, G. Streckfuss, A. Schroeder, A. Schwartz, K. Tolkmitt, R. Weber; Austrians, C. Beckner, A. Camerle, F. Weurth, Anton Gerl, A. Piety, W. F. Schuetter, I. Haas, P. Zednick; Turks, J. Glickman, L. Mechlin.

Advices from Nagasaki say that Mr. Grotjahn had originally come from Kobe to Nagasaki to board the vessel. He learned that the China was late and fearing that he might be seized in Japan he came to Shanghai and got on board. He fell into the hands of the enemy with the others.

Twenty Germans and one Austrian left Nagasaki on the China for San Francisco. Most of these were missionaries who have been deported from the South Sea islands, occupied by Japan.

1 And it shall come to pass, if thou shalt hearken diligently unto the voice of the Lord thy God, to observe and to do all his commandments which I command thee this day, that the Lord thy God will set thee on high above all nations of the earth:

2 And all these blessings shall come on thee, and overtake thee, if thou shalt hearken unto the voice of the Lord thy God.

3 Blessed shalt thou be in the city, and blessed shalt thou be in the field.

4 Blessed shall be the fruit of thy body, and the fruit of thy ground, and the fruit of thy cattle the increase of thy kine, and the flocks of thy sheep.

5 Blessed shall be thy basket and thy store.

8 The Lord shall command the blessing upon thee in thy storehouses, and in all that thou settest thine hand unto; and he shall bless thee in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee.

9 The Lord shall establish thee a holy people unto himself, as he hath sworn unto thee, if thou shalt keep the commandments of the Lord thy God, and walk in his ways.

10 And all people of the earth shall see that thou art called by the name of the Lord; and they shall be afraid of thee.

11 And the Lord shall make thee plenteous in goods, in the fruits of thy body, and in the fruit of thy cattle, and in the fruit of thy ground, in the land which the Lord sware unto thy fathers to give thee.

Roosevelt in the Running.

Well, it has happened. The old familiar hat is in the ring once more. Colonel Roosevelt had laid down the definite plans and specifications under which he would be willing to accept the republican nomination for the presidency. He can be persuaded to accept party leadership once more and grace the head of the ticket this year provided the party will come unreservedly over to his way of thinking, permit him to designate the paramount issue upon which the battle shall be waged and to draft the rules of the contest. The colonel demands that adequate preparedness be made the chief issue, and he is forever and unalterably "for" it to the last final limit. The pronouncement was made by the colonel himself in an interview given out at Oyster Bay to some unnamed republican of prominence who expects to be a delegate to the Chicago convention and who told the colonel he feared he might make up his mind that the republicans would have to nominate the former president.

Some of the gentlemen who essay the task of making a livelihood by staging theatricals would do well to give close heed to Colonel Roosevelt's acomplishment in this latest instance. It is as fine as anything presented in many years. One cannot fail to notice the happy appearance of the obliging questioner at the psychological moment to permit the colonel to come stalking impressively upon the scene with his ultimatum. There were no half-way measures about it, either. He laid down the terms. The republicans can accept them or reject them—but they now know that if the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt is essential to the preservation of the country, they can have him, but only only upon his own terms. The party can build a platform—provided it builds a Rooseveltian structure.

There are many admirable traits about the ex-president, and his tremendous force and his fine Americanism can never be brought into question. At the same time we do not believe the people will clamor for Rooseveltian leadership at this juncture of the country's history. We do not believe they can be induced to rally to his standard as they did during either of the former occasions when he was a candidate for the presidency. There may have been an anxious demand by republican leaders that Colonel Roosevelt consent to be their candidate this year, but if so, it escaped our attention. Indeed, it is much to be doubted if they will permit him to get a look-in at Chicago. He defeated their nominee for the presidency four years ago, it is true, but he must not too lightly appraise their power or the intensity of their desire for revenge. They have neither forgiven nor forgotten. They probably could not be induced to frame terms of thir own upon which they would accept the colonel, to say nothing of acquiescing in specifications of his own fashioning. That republican convention at Chicago promises to be a rather difficult crowd to stampede, and nothing save a stampede would make Colonel Roosevelt the republican standard-bearer this year.

In the course of a rather notable utterance in the reichstag, the German imperial chancellor, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, protested against some of the sensational stories afloat, declaring, among other things, that "Germany, neither at this time nor any time in the future, contemplates aggression against the United States." The imperial chancellor decried as sheer calumny all reports of German hostility against America, and he unquestionably voiced accurately the sentimen of the German people. Still, some of those panic-stricken souls who simply must have something to view with alarm will doubtless be inclined to suspect that Dr. von Bethmann-Hollweg is simply trying to fool us.

Unwholesome motion pictures are said to have inspired a Lafayette lad of some seven years to form the "Brave Sons of the Starlight Camp" and start out as the intrepid leader of a band of gentlemen crooks and bold bandits. All went well with the oath-bound clan, too, until their peerless leader landed in the juvenile court and was sent to a reformatory institution for incorgible juveniles. With the wealth of wholesome, instructive and really meritorious films now available under the wonderful development of the motion picture business, it is amazing that movies of the sort that actuated the Lafayette youngsters are still permitted to be shown in some quarters.

Discussing the merits and the demerits of both the primary and the delegate systems of nominating candidates, W. D. Bynum, of Indianapolis, in a communication to the press contends that each is defective and that neither meets the situation properly in giving to the voter the largest measure of power of choice. Mr. Bynum would eliminate the legal recognition of parties, have all nominations made by petitions and all placed upon a single ballot without party designations. The suggestion is worth consideration.

Health experts are advising is that right now, and not a little later, is the correct time for indulgence in the national pastime of swatting the fly, for each one killed now keeps billions more from coming within the next few months. Get to swatting, brother.

He Located Villa.

Lieut. Dargue of the U. S. aviation corps, is the man who located Villa and his band and made a report that resulted in the 55-mile dash of Col. Dodd and his regiment and the surprise attack on Villa. Lieut. Dargue made a dangerous flight of 250 miles, partly over mountains, spied out the bandits from above and reported his discovery.

AN UNUSUAL SITUATION.

(Indianapolis Star.)

It is a strange and puzzling situation that confronts the democratic party of Indiana upon the eve of its state convention three weeks hence.

For the place left vacant by the death of Senator Shively, two names are mentioned—Taggart and Ralston. Neither of them asks it, yet neither of them would feel free to refuse it.

No one who has looked over Mr. Taggart's immense properties at French Lick with a discerning eye can fail to appreciate the enormity of his task, especially at the "Springs," and the extreme folly, from a business point of view, of leaving it to itself at this critical time for four years. Perhaps they who urge him into this political enterprise are not nearly so wise and true in their friendship as those business associates and advisers who believe in should let it alone.

Equally unaffected and sincere is the attitude of Governor Ralston. He knows the financial sacrifice involved in a senatorial career, and with his moderate means and a growing family to be educated, he naturally desires to resume the practice of his profession during his active years, rather than fall out of line in a calling where it is not easy at his time of life to re-establish oneself after a period of retirement.

At the same time, neither of these men feels free to refuse an obligation if it is put upon him by the party, and either would undertake the task of leadership if called to it, sensible of the honor and sinking personal considerations in the acceptance of duty.

Apparently it is simply up to the democratic convention to solve this riddle for itself. Its members may console themselves with the reflection that its decision can in no wise cloud the long and beautiful friendship between these two strong and sincere men. Whichever of them is chosen, he will have no more pleased and loyal supporter than the other. It is an almost unprecedented situation.

PROSECUTION, BUT NO PREVENTION.

(Toledo Blade.)

For a number of years, John Grant Lyman conducted a strictly non-legal business. He avoided all of those lines of human endeavor which involve the exercise of scruples. When he was caught in Florida, the postal authorities having taken a sudden interest in his case, he expressed regret that the particular swindle he had most recently been engaged in, had been exposed so soon. In a few more months he would have cleaned up magnificently, he said.

Blue-sky laws were passed to deal with promitions of the John Grant Lyman brand, prevention being the treatment. But these laws will not pass the acid test of constitutionality. None, we understand, has managed to go through the courts and survive. The only thing that the states can do is to urge the police to be a little more watchful of get-rich quick schemes. If John Grant came along, or one of his masters or pupils, cheated an investor or two, relieved a few widows of their insurance money and a sprinkling of orphans of their inheritances, then the state could step in and send someone to jail. Preventive medicine is not in the pharmacopoeia of the law.

What would we think of a constitution which solemnly forbade a doctor to apply disinfectants against Asiatic cholera and which yet laid it down as a duty that the doctor must prescribe for victims once they're infected?

NEW TREATMENT FOR SWOLLEN VEINS

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength) at any pharmacist and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once.

Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated. Apply night and morning with the soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal.

It is so marvelously powerful that swollen glands, and even goitre disappear when used steadily.

Valparaiso Reform Editor Suffers Broken Leg in Fall.

Valparaiso, Ind., April 5.—Some mystery surrounds the attack on L. Garfield Snow, editor of the Independent, a reform paper here, in his office Saturday afternoon, as a result of which he is suffering from a broken leg. Snow either jumped or was thrown from a second-story window when three men attacked him in his office. It is said his assailants intended to abduct him to permit a young woman, said to be a student in Valparaiso university, to horsewhip him for an alleged defamatory mention of her in his paper. The attack was the third one in which Snow figured, all being occasioned, it is said, by his attacks on conditions he considers lawless. He has not made a statement concerning the attack.

NICARAGUANS TO GET THE BALLOT

May Express Their Will in the Selection of a President.

Managua, Nicaragua, March 11—(Correspondence of The Associated Press).—The people of Nicaragua are to be given the right to express their will for the selection of a president. That will be a remarkable state of affairs for Nicaragua where, for twenty years, dictatorship and revolution have interdicted and made such a condition impossible. As the secretary of state expressed it in an official letter when he dismissed the Nicaraguan minister from the United States in 1909: "It is equally notorious that under the regime of President Zelaya, republican institutions have ceased to exist in Nicaragua except in name, that public opinion and the press have been strangled and that prisons have been the price of every demonstration of patriotism."

President Diaz has just issued an announcement through the press, and says he will make it official by a proclamation in the Official Gazette, that "it has been the basis of my program of government to restore in Nicaragua all the republican practices." To that end, he continues, the most important is the succession of one-term presidents in the executive power, selected by popular will.

As the presidential election in Nicaragua occurs October 1 next, and as politics are warming and the parties are gathering themselves together, this announcement is most significant. The present generation, (except the older people who were active before 1893), known nothing of a popular discussion of candidates for the presidency, of a free registration of voters, or of any expression of the popular will. Such things were not permitted under President Zelaya from 1893 to 1910.

The provisional government which gained force that year adopted a new constitution for a republican form of government, providing that the presidential term should be four years and an incumbent could not succeed himself, thus restoring the practice in Nicaragua for the quarter century preceding Zelaya. The first election was in December, 1912, but it came so soon after the revolution of 1912 engaged in by General Mena and the Zelaya liberals, that the partisans of the latter party made no effort at the polls and the conservatives won without opposition, the acting president, Adolfo Diaz, being elected for a full term.

The president now declares that the one-term provision will be carried out, which means that he will retire, and states further that the free expression of the popular will in the primaries or meetings will be guaranteed by the government "with the same care that I have taken that the other guarantees which the constitution gives to the citizens shall be respected.

He says that there is further guaranteed the free exercise of propaganda and the right of free speech in meetings providd that it be doen with decorum and in lawful manner. He calls attention to his instructions to the Jefe Politicos (governors), of the departments last month that all citizens who desired to register will be given further opportunity on two days in May.

The liberals, which is the party in opposition, are already taking advantage of the president's declarations that free discussion will be permitted, by organizing clubs and calling meetings. The conservatives are doing the same. So there is good prospect of a six months lively campaign. Some of the liberals seem a little stunned by the announcement that free speech will be permitted, so unusual is it. When it is remembered that most of the present high officials of the government, who are conservatives, spent more or less time in prison or in exile for indulging in free speech in the regime of Zelaya, the significance of President Diaz's announcement can be appreciated. It marks a new epoch for Nicaragua.

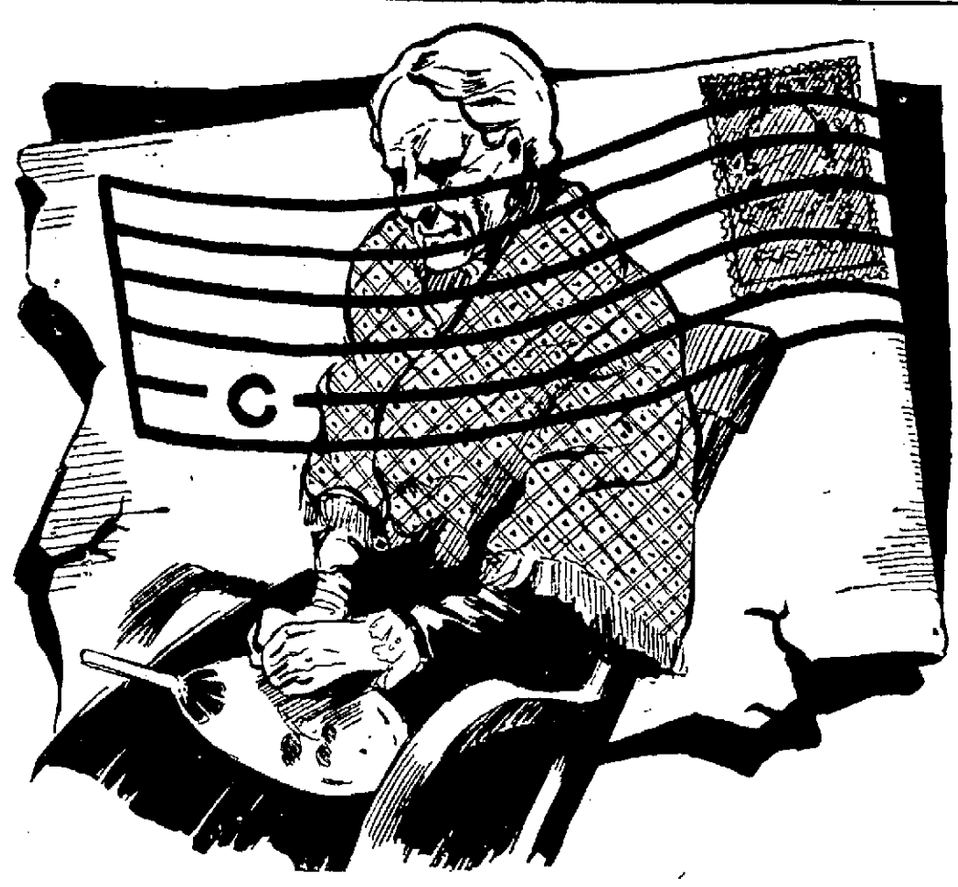
BLIND WIDOW WAITS, WAITS, WAITS FOR FORTUNE OWED HER BY UNCLE SAM.



Mrs. Norton sits silently in her ho me, waiting patiently for Uncle Sam to Pay the debt he owes her.

By Kenneth W. Payne.

New York, April 6.—Blind, widowed and broken-hearted, she sits rocking back and forth in her humble home here—the little old lady whom Uncle Sam owes and has owed for half a century one million dollars!

She is Mrs. Elmira D. Norton. She is past 80, but still waiting for the government to pay its debt to her.

Every day you see the black bars that are at the heart of this great tragedy! They are the post marks on the letters you receive!

Marcus P. Norton, of Troy, N. Y., invented in 1853 the machine by which postal clerks, with one deft blow, both cancel the postage stamp and postmark the letters that pass through their hands.

That device, the government itself has admitted, has saved taxpayers $20,000,000.

Yet its inventor and his heirs have never received one penny of profit. Instead they have been forced into debt trying to collect only a part of the compensation postoffice officials have declared are due to them!

The cancellation mark symbolizes the cancellation of a great man's hopes and a sweet little mother's dreams for her children.

When Marcus Norton, a young patent lawyer, had taken out a patent in 1853 on his device which cut in half the time and expense in canceling millions of letters, he submitted the machine for use in various postoffices.

Norton's invention was used for years and no appropriation was made to pay for it. Finally, in 1870, congress authorized the postoffice department to use the invention.

The department insisted that for the use of the invention before that time the individual postmasters alone were liable. Suits brought against them for indemnification never resulted in Norton's getting a penny of pay.

Norton's business went to ruin, he lost his health, borrowed money to press his claim and finally died.

For half a century the case has been swathed in tangled red tape, batted back and forth from congress to the postoffice department to the court of claims.

Only congressional action now can cause payment of the claim. A bill was brought forward during the present session of senate to pay $50,000 to Norton's heirs.

This sum, Mrs. Norton's lawyer says, is only a fraction of what the case has cost so far.

Mrs. Norton still hopes the patent will be officially purchased at a fair price.

In the meanwhile, she is waiting in the little home where her two daughters, Miss Ada and Miss Estella Norton, as actress and music teacher, earn enough to keep the household going.

A Real Flesh Builder For Thin People

Thin men and women—that big, hearty filling dinner you ate last night. What became of all the fat-producing nourishment it contained? You haven't gained in weight one ounce. That food passed from your body like unburned coal through an open grate. The material was there, but your food doesn't work and stick, and the plain truth is you hardly get enough nourishment from your meals to pay for the cost of cooking. This is true of thin folks the world over. Your nutritive organs, your functions of assimilation are probably sadly out of gear and need reconstruction.

Cut out the foolish foods and funny sawdust diets. Cut out everything but the meals you are eating and eat with every one of those a single Sargol tablet. In two weeks note the difference. Let the scales be the judge. Five to eight good solid pounds of healthy "stay-there" fat may be the net result. Sargol aims to charge weak, stagnant blood with millions of fresh new red blood corpuscles—to give the blood the carrying power to deliver every ounce of fat-making material in your food to every part of your body. Sargol, too, mixes with your food, to prepare it for the blood in an easily assimilated form. Thin people tell how they have gained all the way from 10 to 25 pounds a month while taking Sargol and say that the new flesh stays put. Sargol tablets are a careful combination of six of the best assimilative elements known to chemistry. They come 40 tablets to a package, are pleasant, harmless and inexpensive, and Meyer Bros. Co., Dreier Drug Co., D. & N. Pharmacy, The Family Drug store and all other good druggists in this vicinity sell them subject to an absolute guarantee of weight increase or money back as found in every large package.—Advertisement.

Vast Plans for Making U. S. Coast Safe Against Attack.

Washington, April 6.—The third great element of the national preparedness program was today brought into the house. It is the largest fortification bill ever reported, and the first of four annual measures under which it is proposed to spend approximately $100,000,000 for increasing and modernizing the coast defenses, already officially declared to be superior to any in the world, and to supply an ample store of reserve ammunition for the guns.

Included in the bill are provisions for mounting 16-inch direct fire rifles to guard New York, Boston, San Francisco and other great cities from long range naval bombardment. Provision is also made for mounting 12-inch rifles now in reserve so they will have a range of more than 30,000 yards or 15 sea miles. No ship could live within that distance of the guns.

The plan will add 16-inch mortar batteries to the present 12-inch emplacements because of the increased armor protection of modern battleships. In addition it provides for 16-inch mobile howitzers and 14-inch guns on railroad cars to defend points not protected by established forts.

In approving the bill the committee accepted almost without alteration the proposals of the war department and the officers who have studied the subject of coast defenses for years.

The bill carries appropriations of $23,305,123 and additional authorizations to reach a total of $34,299,050. It is the first of the bills mapped out by former Secretary Garrison to cover a four year program of expenditure totaling $82,064,557 on the continental coast defenses and reserve material. The Panama canal defenses will add $13,995,000 to the project, reaching a grand total of $96,059,557.

The committee cut down the 1917 estimates $1,378,073. As the bill stands, however, it represents an increased expenditure over last year of $16,936,833.

Outlining the Projects.

Outlining the projects approved, the report says:

"While it may not be proper to state in detail the proposals made, it is proper to state that the ends sought by the additional armament are at certain points to defend the harbors and existing defenses against long-range naval bombardment, made necessary by the increased range of guns of modern battleships; to increase the volume of gunfire at certain places in order to make it adequate to meet the increase volume of gunfire that could be directed against the fortification by a fleet of modern warships; and in a few instances, to cover water areas not covered effectively by existing armament; and to deny to an enemy the use of certain harbors not now protected.

"The total additional armament for continental United States included in the above projects comprises twenty-two 16-inch guns, twenty-four 12-inch guns mounted for long-range fire, twenty-three 6-inch and four 3-inch guns and forty-eight 16-inch mortars; for the insular possessions, eight 12-inch guns mounted for long-range fire; and for the Panama canal, four 16-inch guns, four 12-inch guns mounted for long-range fire, and twelve 16-inch mortars.

"In addition to the above, the projects of the board include one hundred and thirty-four 3-inch anti-aircraft guns for the seacoast defenses of continental United States, seventeen 3-inch anti-aircraft guns for the insular possessions, and eight 3-inch anti-aircraft guns for the Panama canal.

"The board also recommends the construction of six 16-inch movable howitzers and an experimental 14-inch gun on railroad car mount for defense against hostile landings in unfortified harbors."

Reserve Ammunition.

As to reserve ammunition, the report says:

"A review of the subject in the light of the European war caused the board to very greatly increase the amount of such reserve ammunition thought to be requisite, and it has submitted this year an estimate of three millions of dollars, with a contract authorization of three and one-half millions to be expended toward securing a new reserve. The committee has allowed in its entirety the estimate submitted, making an appropriation in effect of six and one-half millions for this purpose, as against previous annual appropriations of $200,000."

In addition to the new guns, the bill provides for the expenditure of $750,000 to purchase the rights of the radio-dynamic torpedo control devised by John Hays Hammond, jr. Acceptance is conditioned, however, on the report of a joint board of army and navy officers after a test for which the bill provides.

The report shows that four of the new 16-inch guns will be emplaced at Cape Henry, Va., two at Rockaway Beach, N. Y., others at San Francisco and San Pedro, Cal. Long range 12-inch guns will go to New York, Boston and either Portland, Maine, or San Francisco.

The full estimates for the insular possessions were allowed by the committee as were the war department's figures for additional mobile artillery including field guns. In addition the committee inserted an appropriation for $1,000,000 to provide tools and fixtures for commercial plants to equip them for the manufacture of government ammunition. It is provided, however, that the prices paid for ammunition or other material purchased shall not be more than 25 per cent. in excess of the government's actual or estimated cost of manufacture.

Purpose of Seacoast Defense.

Chairman Sherley presented the following explanation of the purposes of seacoast defenses in his report:

"It is the popular belief that our fortifications are designed to protect all the shores of continental United States and the insular possessions from invasion by a hostile force and that they are adequate only to the extent that they would prevent such invasion. No greater misconception of their function could be had. The author of this report is unaware of any responsible military authority ever suggesting such a purpose. Certainly the cost of such numerous fortifications to accomplish such a purpose would be beyond the purse of even this, the richest of all nations.

"But though this is known by all students of the subject, criticism is continuously aimed at our system of fortifications because of the absurd assumption that they should accomplish the impossible; while many, properly believing that our fortifications are excellent but with the same mistaken view as to their purpose, fail to appreciate the need for other means of defense.

"The chief and real purposes to be served by our fortifications are to protect from bombardment large centers of population where the damage that might be otherwise inflicted could not be thought from a military point of view admissible; to protect from destruction establishments of military value, such as navy yards, coaling stations, arsenals, etc.; to deny to an enemy the use of important harbors as a base for offensive operations against either our fleet or land forces; to preserve such harbors as a base of refuge for our own fleet and permit it to be used in its most efficient way by seeking out and engaging the enemy; to afford refuge and protection to our shipping; and to compel the enemy in order to achieve military results of importance to resort to an expedition involving the transportation of troops across the seas and effect their landing at some place not possessing the strategic value had by the places fortified.

"Of necessity many coast towns would have to be left without such defense, where the damage that might be done in the event of control of the sea being lost by our fleet, would be deplorable but would not be of such character as would really impair the nation's well-being or resisting power.

"Fortifications are deemed sufficient when they serve these purposes and the prevention of invasion then becomes the duty of the mobile army. They are deemed sufficiently strong if they compel the enemy to land in order to effect their capture.

CREAMO BREAD AT YOUR GROCER'S

By Elsie Endicott

MRS. SNYDER started everything in Arles. She was a little, eager, nervous woman whose daily endeavor it was to keep not up with the current of modernity as expressed by Arles' society, but just a bit ahead of it. When her old aunt, Sarah Crouk, died and left her $1,000 she felt that fate had placed a power in her hands. A thousand dollars was a great deal of money for the Snyders to have, and she determined to make every penny count.

"I shall have a vacation," she told Mrs. Todd. "I've never had a vacation and I deserve one if anybody ever did. I've raised six children and done my own work since I married Myron Snyder. And I've never seen the outside of Arles six times in my life. I'm going to spend two weeks—two whole weeks—at Perch's Point. I shall have some new clothes made to wear and I shall sit around on a hotel veranda with my hands folded while somebody else is cooking my meals. And if I don't have the time of my life I guess nobody ever will."

"I envy you," said little Mrs. Todd, and she sighed. "I'd like a vacation, too, and Felix needs one, but there's no use in thinking about it, because it's an impossibility. It takes all Felix can earn now to just live the way we're doing."

Mrs. Snyder left about the middle of June. She sent back a lot of colored postcards with emphatic messages scrawled upon them. And when she returned she was full of enthusiasm.

"The most enchanting place on earth!" she cried. "Wasn't it, Myron? I can't begin to tell you. I'm no hand at description, but if you could just see it! The sea and the rocks! And if ever there's a place where one could take real, solid comfort, it's that hotel. I never ate such food in my life. And everybody so lovely to you. I'd advise anybody who can afford it to go to Perch's Point."

Myron Snyder said nothing. But then he never said anything. He was as silent as his wife was talkative. And experience had trained him in discretion.

The Latimers were the next to go. They only stayed a week and had not much to say about it. Mrs. Snyder hinted that they probably found it too expensive. She was still declaring the attractions of Perch's Point.

The Wheelers and Miss Finch followed after the Latimers. They stayed ten days.

There came a spell of torrid weather. Little Mrs. Todd nearly melted over her kitchen stove. Every night Felix came home from the grocery store limp and white and silent. One breathless afternoon Mrs. Todd was getting supper when Felix came home. He was earlier than usual.

"Oh, Felix!" she cried, and got as much of him as she could in her arms, as if she would hold and keep him against any adverse occurrence. "Are you all right?"

"Yes, girl, I'm all right. Come into the house; I've got something to tell you. Good news—the very best. There, now! Mr. Scutt has raised my pay and he've given me a week's leave of absence, with my wages going on the same as if I worked. I didn't know what to say when he told me. Oh, Bess, we'll have that vacation yet!"

"We'll go to Perch's Point," breathed little Mrs. Todd. And she could not help crying.

The potatoes were burning, but it did not matter. They were almost too excited to eat.

They had just seated themselves at the table when the back door opened and Mrs. Latimer came in with a dish of salad. "It's Waldorf, and I thought you'd like a bit of it," she said. "Anything wrong? I saw Mr. Todd coming home early and I was afraid—"

"He's had a raise and a week for vacation," said little Mrs. Todd proudly. She was all one shining flush. "I guess we'll do what everybody else is doing—go to Perch's Point."

Mrs. Latimer sat down suddenly. She looked very queer. "Don't!" she said at last.

"But Mrs. Snyder said—"

Mrs. Latimer looked grim. "I know. Because of what she said we went there. Everybody else has gone for the same reason. I could have stopped it all by a word, but I thought I'd keep still. Mrs. Snyder is my neighbor, and a kind of relation. And we didn't miss the money. When I saw that the rest were holding their tongues, I just made up my mind I'd never speak unless I had to. But I feel now as if I had to. I'll tell you folks what there is about it. Mrs. Snyder made an agreement with the hotel people to boost their place. She's paid for talking. Everybody who has been there knows it, but nobody wants to give her away or admit that they've been made fools of. Now you understand it all well enough to keep away from Perch's Point.

Little Mrs. Todd was gasping. She looked at Felix. Then she held out her hand to Mrs. Latimer. "Thank you a million times for telling us. I guess we've had a narrow escape. You don't know how I felt about seeing you all go when we had to stay at home. I was downright wretched. I guess Perch's Point is like a lot of other things you want because you only see one side to them. You've taught me a real lesson, besides saving Felix's vacation."

A very beautiful "farewell" party was given last evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. D. W. Bitner, of South Harrison street, when Mrs. Bitner entertained in honor of her niece, Miss Estella Graham, who is to wed within a few weeks, Carlos L. McMaster, of Columbus, Ohio. There were blooming plants of hyacinths and jonquils for decoration of the rooms. About twenty of Miss Graham's young women friends were asked to enjoy the party with her and arrangements were made for a shower of hosiery for the bride to be. Mrs. Bitner made a large stocking of pink tarletan, to which a long pink thread was attached. The stocking was hidden behind the piano and in it were the gifts. Miss Graham was told to unwind the thread and a fine hunt she had, upstairs and down, before it finally led her to the hidden gifts. Other threads which the guests had to follow up led to photographs of the bride as mementos of the occasion. The pictures were wrapped in pink paper and two were found at a time. After that fun there were two contests, both suggestive of an approaching wedding. One was to make a list of words from the letters found in the name, Estella. Another contest was to answer questions with letters found in the word stocking. So everyone had to make her wits work as well as her fingers and there was much laughter over the two contests. A little later came the announcement of supper time. The guests were then directed to the den, where suspended from the ceiling was a large white wedding bell, from which extended either green or white ribbons of crepe paper to the sides of the room. Under this bower Miss Graham stood and directed her friends to each take a ribbon end, while she held the others. When the tangle was straightened out everyone found she had a partner to go to supper with. Supper was served in the basement, where Mr. and Mrs. Bitner have entertained their friends before. It was a vision in pink and white for the room was a peach tree garden in full bloom, while on the long table were white baskets of pink roses, white snapdragon and white and pink carnation blossoms. A corsage of roses for Miss Graham and small bouquets for each guest, together with festoons of bells and cupids above, and pink shaded lights, made the scene most charming. Tiny pink baskets held nuts and the menu included white wedding bell ice cream and pink heart cakes. Mrs. Bitner was assisted in serving the supper by her daughters, Misses Coreinne and Mildred Bitner. Covers were laid for twenty and the place cards were especially attractive, the work of Miss Coreinne Bitner, who designed them and did the work in water colors. The design of the cards was a landscape view approaching Columbus, with the word on a railroad guide post and a sketch of a house in the distance, suggestive of the new home Miss Graham is to occupy after a while.

Look to Your Sleeve, Fair Maid; It Makes or Mars the 1916 Gown

By Betty Brown.

The collar may make the fashion this season, but the sleeve is a good "runner up." Better a gown of 50 cent serge with sleeve modishly puffed out or strapped in than a broadcloth gown that lags behind the style.

But how shall a poor maid know what is "it" in sleeves and what is "nit," I asked Mme. Alla Ripley, noted American designer and creator of many of the new sleeve models.

"So far there are only two things you may be certain about in sleeves," she said. "No sleeve follows the contour of the arm in unbroken line from shoulder to wrist, and no modish sleeve is exaggerated in style."

Believing that pictures speak louder than words I sketched a few of the Ripley models that will lead the sleeve fashions this spring.

The center figure shows the sleeve contour broken at elbow and wrist. The close fitting upper sleeve is of the same material as the gown; the double elbow frills match the collar in outline and material.

The sleeve at upper right starts out as a kimona, continues as a bishop until it is stopped below the elbow by a tight fitting, up-flaring cuff. The bishop puff is chiffon and the lower sleeve is taffeta. At lower right we find our old favorite the simple bishop sleeve which will be used on many of the sheer summer gowns.

Just to prove that the short sleeve hasn't altogether lost favor this charming model at the left has been designed for summer gowns.

AT THE MAJESTIC.

John Drew in a New Comedy, "The Chief," Monday Evening.

There are so few really successful dramatists that when an unknown one suddenly looms up on the theatrical horizon people generally are curious to know all about him. Such is the case regarding Horace Annesley Vachell, who wrote John Drew's new comedy, "The Chief," which comes to the Majestic next Monday. There are men who have written one successful play and have never been able, try as they might, to turn out another that would win popular favor. But within a year Mr. Vachell has had no less than four plays produced and hence the interest in a man who is so prolific a dramatist and so clever in being able to hit off the popular taste.

For more than twenty years, with absences from the state, Mr. Vachell lived in California. He married a native of the state, Miss Lydia Phillips, and to them two children were born. After the death of his wife Mr. Vachell returned to England, where he lives in a charming place near Southampton.

AT THE TEMPLE.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin" Opens Three Nights' Run, With Contest, This Evening.

"Uncle Tom's Cabin," a favorite production for years, will open a three nights' run tonight at the Temple theater. While the floating ice and bloodhounds will be there to add something to the flight of Eliza, the play will not have to depend on such incidents to insure its success. It will be a really dramatic production of the play from Harriet Beecher Stowe's great work, which stands out prominently in the events prior to the civil war. Miss Ethel Hamerick, as "Topsy;" Frank Gallagher, as "Uncle Tom," and Mariee Jenkins, as Lawyer Marks, are certain to score their usual successes in these rolls.

Amateur night Friday evening will be turned over to Fort Wayne colored folk and some real "stunts" are promised. A cake walking contest will end the production Saturday night.

AT KEITH PALACE

FOR THE WOMEN ONLY.

Special Eva Fay Matinee at the New Palace Friday.

An afternoon with Mrs. Eva Fay, without the trammeling presence of any men, is the unusual opportunity to be afforded Fort Wayne women Friday at the New Palace, when this famous mistress of mysticism and diviner of the hidden will solve the perplexities that the women propound. There will be no men in the theater during Mrs. Fay's presence on the stage and she will answer the most personal questions. Mrs. Fay has Fort Wayne by the ears, through the amazing manner in which she divines questions, the names of the askers and the correct answers, although the questions merely are written on slips of paper and retained by the writers in their hands or pockets without a chance for a confederate so much as to see them. Thought wave transference, telepathy or whatever one may style it, one must concede that the act is a baffling mystery to the average mind. Mrs. Fay will remain at the theater until Saturday night and this afternoon will be presented at the head of a completely new bill.

The Misses Lightner and Alexander, that jolly trio in songs, sayings and dainty dances; the Kelso Boys, the monarchs of the bicycle and kings of comedy; Arthur Rigby, through whose mask of burnt cork issues a steady stream of laugh compelling comedy; the Harmony trio, a singing combination of supreme merit and the Six Castillians, also known as the Cuban wonders, are some of the splendidly promising features on the week-end bill.

AT THE GRAND

"A Social Deception" Featured at the Grand Today.

This is a three-reel drama with many climaxes. The cast is thoroughly competent, being composed of Edward J. Piel, Eugenie Besserer, Wheeler Oakman, Vivian Reed, Grace Darmond, Harry Mestayer and James Bradbury.

When Grace's father loses her inheritence, her fortune-hunting suitors abandon her. She meets Dodge, a millionaire, who pretends to have evidence that she is a crook, and claims to be a crook himself.

She goes to a dinner in his honor, and finds out his real identity, and is the means of reuniting him with his long-lost sister. He then asks Grace to marry him.

Friday and Saturday will be the last chapter of "The Girl and the Game."

Read the "Social Pirates" and see it played soon at the Grand, between Wayne and Washington streets.

ARMED MEXICANS ARE GATHERING

Border Patrol Suspicious of Concentration Near New Mexican Line.

Hachita, N. M., April 6.—Between 50 and 75 armed Mexicans from the American side of the border are concentrating in a secret position in the corner of Chihuahua that projects into New Mexico toward Hachita.

The border patrol has not discovered whether they are Villa sympathizers, or whether there is anything illegitimate in their movements.

But the appearance of so many armed men, singly and in twos and threes, has aroused suspicion in the minds of army men and border residents.

The alarm was given to the chief of the border patrol, by miners in the vicinity of Lost Cabin, northeast of Culberson's ranch, near which Col. Dodd's flying squadron of United States troops crossed the border.

They saw several parties of Mexicans with rifles, on horseback, passing toward the boundary, in the vicinity of the Banditas mine, which is on the Mexican side of the border and is operated by Mexicans.

There are half a dozen mines along this angle of the border, but only the Banditas and one American mine are now operated, because of present unsettled conditions.

Other Mexicans were seen riding toward the border near Doyle's wells, 12 miles southeast of Hachita, and only three miles from the international line.

There are three possible explanations of this Mexican concentration:

1. They may be scattered members of the Villa band who fled west and into the United States after the Columbus raid, arranging to meet at a secret point later.

2. They may be Villista agents getting ammunition into the Villa ranks from the bandit's American connections; thousands of rounds could be smuggled in this way, concealed under coats.

3. They may be lawless Mexicans from the New Mexico border towns, who see a chance to ply the bandit's trade in the present turmoil along the line.

The attack on an automobile at Lanark, on the Southern Pacific, is generally believed to have been made by outlaws living in the United States—not bandits from Mexico.

A communication has been received by Charles L. Biederwolf, secretary of the Commercial club, from ex-President William H. Taft, asking that delegates be sent from this city to the first annual national assemblage of the League to Enforce Peace, to be held in Washington on May 26 to 27.

RELIGION, TEMPERANCE AND HEALTH

KEEP ON PRAYING, MOTHERS

The saloon was crowded with men and boys. In the midst of their noisy talk a child's voice was heard through the thin partition:

"Take the name of Jesus with you,
Child of sorrow and of woe;
It will joy and comfort give you,
Take it, then, wher'er you go."

"Never mind, that's only my little Bessie singing one of her Sunday school pieces."

"Better hush her up," called a voice.

Again the little girl's voice rang out,

"Oh, the precious name of Jesus,
How it thrills our souls with joy!
When His loving arms receive us,
And His songs our tongues employ."

A young man put down the glass in his hand and went out. Another young man followed.

"What's the trouble, Will?"

"Trouble enough, Tom. I have a mother at home who has been praying for me all my life. That song made me remember her and her prayers. It spake to me of my sinful life. Tom, there is no hope of Heaven for me."

"Will," answered Tom. "It's the same with me. I too had a praying mother and though I loved her, I have not lived as she would have me."

"O, Will," cried Tom, "let's break away from the drink. It's spoiling our lives."

"If I only could; if I only could!" groaned Will.

"If that song is true," said the other, "we can find help in Jesus."

"There's a Bible in my trunk. My mother put it there when I left home. Come over to my room and we'll see if we can find help in it."

"Though your sins be as scarlet"—"that's me," sobbed Will.

"Read on, read this!" cried Tom. "They shall be as white as snow."

"Can it be true that the wrong of the past can be covered and we can have help to keep us right?"

That Bible whispered, "Whosoever will let him come," "I came to call sinners," "If we confess our sins, He will cleanse." When they came to David's prayer of forgiveness, "Create in me a clean heart," they made it their own. Then they knew David's joy of sins forgiven.

A mother went about her work with a troubled face. It is three weeks since the two asked God to cover their sins. This was Will's mother, sad-faced and troubled because it had been so long since any word had come from the boy away from home.

"Here is a letter for you!" called the postman. "It is from Will." The mother's sad face lighted up. What she read filled her with joy. Her prayers had been answered. Her boy's letter was filled with joy for sins covered and the help he was having from Jesus in keeping upright. She had never had a letter like this from Will before. How happy she was!

THEY FLY, BUT NEVER RETURN

Says Benjamin Franklin, the most American of Americans:

Dost thou love life? Then do not squander time, for that is the stuff life is made of.

The flying minutes make up life, success, happiness. It is easy to let them escape; impossible to coax them back.

If you have time, you are rich, for you may accomplish anything; but if your fortune of time is wasted, you can do nothing.—Los Angeles Herald.

MUST I NOT STRIVE?

I had a long conversation the other day with a butcher, on the railroad, on the reason why men smoke and drink. This led us to the subject of the bitter misery that sin produces, even in this life; and the various attempts that men make to smother conscience and drown sorrow. The butcher had just lost his wife, was left with two little children, had passed through some trouble of conscience; but, what was worse, he often took too much drink. In short, we both agreed that one great reason why men drink is the misery and burden of sin. He owned it was a wretched thing thus to go on from sin to sin; and that solemn word of God sounded heavy in his ears, "The drunkard shall not inherit the kingdom of God." I found him much interested in the things of religion, and wishful to converse upon them. I found he purposed, at some future time, to make a firm resolution to cast off his sins and become religious. Alas! how many are now in hell who once had the same intention as this butcher! He evidently thought a little striving of his own, at any time, would do all that is required.

"Well, now," said I, "man is certainly in a wretched condition through sin; but how do you think he is to get saved from this guilt and misery?" "Well, you know," said the butcher, "it will not do for a man to go on in his sins until he dies, will it? He must strive hard to give up all his bad ways, and live to God." I replied, "He will never save himself by his striving in that way." "What!" said he, "do you mean to say a man must not strive?" "As long as he does strive in that way," said I, "he is a rejecter of Christ." I saw the poor man was evidently trusting in his future strivings. "Explain yourself," said he, "whatever do you mean?—A man striving is a man rejecting the gospel of Christ! What do you mean?"

I replied, "I will illustrate what I mean. Suppose you have gone on in sin and drunkenness until you have brought your family to starvation; you have not a farthing to buy them food, and you are too ill to make the least effort; when a friend comes to your house, spreads your table with plenty, and begs you to eat. If then you say, 'No; I must strive to get food myself,' would not you be rejecting the kindness of your friend? and would not this rejection of his love continue as long as ever you continue your striving? And is it not so with the lost sinner? Man is so bad that he really does go on sinning until he dies. Is he not as helpless as the starving man? God has come to his rescue—God has given His own Son to meet his deepest need as a lost sinner, by the death on the cross. He died to deliver us because we could not possibly save ourselves. God, the Friend above all friends, has come in Christ to our house of wretchedness and sin; and He, in pure love and pity, has spread the table of salvation—all things are ready. Oh! it is God who beseeches poor dying sinners to eat the bread of life spread before them. 'Now, then, we are ambassadors for Christ; as though God did beseech you by us, we pray you, in Christ's stead, be ye reconciled to God.' The kindness of God to perishing sinners has now been shown by the death of Jesus. Now, pardon and deliverance as preached through Him. Surely, then, the longer I strive to save myself, the longer I reject the kindness of God of all love."

Saloonless Denver.

The same Denver that in another and a wetter day rejoiced in its reputation of being a "wide open" town, where "everything went," has known for more than a month the aridities of a saloonless existence. John Barleycorn was made to take his sign down in that town January 1. During the period immediately preceding, the pessimists had everything their own way. There would no longer be any money in circulation. Business would go to the dogs. Tourists would cease to visit Denver. It would become a "one-horse" town. Taxes would go up and property values come down. All the familiar arguments habitually advanced in every city of considerable size whenever it is proposed to close the saloon were brought forward in Denver.

More than a month has passed. Grass has not yet sprouted in the streets of the business section. A prosperous and contented people seem to thrive even more abundantly than before the drouth began. The New York Sun states: "Restaurants, poolhalls and other lines of business are reporting the best times in years." Many of the saloons have been converted into food shops, where light drinks are sold. Several of the largest breweries are engaged in the production of non-alcoholic beverages. There has been no falling off in rents. We are told, 'those saloons which did not reopen have already moved out and every desirable saloon site in the city has been snapped up for some other line of business.'"

GOOD PREACHING

A Y. M. C. A. secretary learned to say "Good Morning" in a foreign language. One morning he tried it on a discouraged looking "Dago" steel worker, on his way to work. The man looked up amazed and apparently unmoved. Next morning the friendly man had another "Good Morning, John" for him, and John responded with just four words: "You're like Jesus Christ!"

That was good preaching.—Association Men.

How to Read the Bible

George Muller was one of the greatest Bible readers, who read it reverently and with profit, every day, and his directions for reading it may well be adopted:

"Read the Scriptures regularly through. Read alternately portions from the Old and New Testaments. Begin at the beginning of each. Mark where you leave off and begin there next time. When you have finished each Testament, begin it again.

"Read with Prayer.—You cannot by your own wisdom understand the Word of God. In all your reading of the Scriptures, seek carefully the help of the Holy Spirit. Ask, for Jesus' sake, that he will enlighten you.

"Read with Meditation.—Ponder over what you read; the truth is thus applied to your heart. You see new and deeper meanings. It is better to think over a little than merely to read a great deal.

"Read with Reference to Yourself.—Never read only with a view to instructing others, but for your own teaching. Receive blessing yourself first, and you will communicate it to others. Always ask yourself, 'How does this affect me?'

"Read with Faith.—Not as statements which you may believe or not, but as the revealed Word of God. Receive every word as true, with simple, childlike trust. Rest upon the promises. Read them as made for you.

"Read in Order to Carry into Practice.—We must accept His Word as being the revelation of His will. In it He tells us what to be and what to do. He expects us to be 'Obedient children.'"—R. Messenger.

Calamity Often Cures Skepticism

Horatio W. Bottomley, editor of John Bull, and a prominent skeptic of London, in a statement renouncing his unbelief recently said: "In my fifty-fifth year, and after a very strenuous life, I now believe in God, and in the immortality of the soul of man. The great world war has done it. In it there is a mighty alchemy transmuting the base metal of human experience into the pure currency of faith. In these soul-searching days no man can be content with a mere negative philosophy. The doubter must go to the wall. Pure rationalism, however scientific, has no word of comfort for weary watchers, or of solace for broken hearts." When Lord Ashburton visited the home of Dr. James McCosh in Ireland before he came to the presidency at Princeton, he told him that his wife had died and that he had gone, for some source of comfort, to his friend Thomas Carlyle, who recommended Goethe's "Wilhelm Meister," but that no ease came to his soul. Dr. McCosh told him that neither Goethe nor Carlyle, but Jesus Christ alone, could give him help in such an hour. The troubles, the tragedies of life scatter unbelief to the four winds and sweep the soul into Christ as a refuge. The apostle thus announces this ministry of affliction: "For our light affliction, which is but for a moment, worketh for us a far more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." (2 Cor. 4:17).—The Christian Herald.

JOHN WESLEY'S RULE

"Packing Pork to Pay Expenses—An Incident in Moody's Life

(Tent-making and soul-winning—these went together for Paul; pork-packing and soul-winning—these for William Reynolds. And how the latter came to combine these two diverse lines of activity is herewith told by Dr. Howard Agnew Johnston).

I wish to relate to you a story which I heard over twenty years ago, from the lips of the man himself of whom I speak. He was William Reynolds, of Peoria, Illinois. It was several years before, that he was stopped on the street by a friend who asked him this question: "Mr. Reynolds, how long have we known each other?" After a moment's thought he replied, "About fifteen years." The friend continued: "Mr. Reynolds, do you believe that I must accept Christ as my Saviour, if I am saved?" "Yes, I do," was the reply. The friend continued: "Mr. Reynolds, are you a Christian?" To this he assented. With unexpected intensity, the friend then asked: "Mr. Reynolds, do you care whether I am saved or not?" "Why, certainly I do!" exclaimed this Christian. "Pardon me, I do not mean to hurt your feelings," said his friend, "but I do not believe it. As you say, for fifteen years we have known each other. We have frequently met in social contact. We have discussed almost everything under the heavens; yet in all this time you never once uttered one word to let me know that you cared about my soul. Of course, when I put the question, you assert your concern; but surely if you had cared you would have spoken. You are a leading Christian in this city, and if you had ever told me you had something precious in your life which I ought to have, I would have listened to you with respect. But you never spoke the word and I cannot believe you really cared."

An Unlooked-For Question

With shame Mr. Reynolds confessed that he had shirked many an opportunity to speak for Jesus Christ. But being much affected by this conversation he said to his friend: "What has happened to stir you up in this way?" His friend replied that on the previous day, as he was entering the train at Chicago, a man came in after him, occupied the same seat, and began a conversation somewhat as follows: "Pleasant day!"; "Yes," said the friend. "Fine crops!" said the stranger. "So I believe," was the reply. The stranger, evidently bent on conversation said: "We ought to be very thankful to the good Lord for all His blessings." "Why, yes, I suppose we ought," was the reply. Then came the leading question: "My friend, are you a Christian?" The friend replied, "Well, I believe the church is a good thing. I would not wish to bring up my family in a city that had no churches in it; but really, I have never given any serious thought to this subject." Then the still more surprising statement from the stranger was this: "My friend, I would like to pray with you!" "Well," said the friend, "if we were in a convenient place, I do not know as I would have any objections." "Oh, we will never have a better place than this!" said the stranger. "And Reynolds," continued his friend, "before I knew it, he pulled my head down behind the car seat and was praying as I never heard a man pray. He prayed as if he believed there was no possible hope for me unless I accepted Christ as my Saviour. He prayed that God would give me no peace until I had repented of my sins and my indifference, and had turned to God in faith. I never heard such a prayer. Suddenly the brakeman called out the name of a station, and he said, 'Good-bye, my friend, I must get off here. Remember, Now is the accepted time. Now is the day of salvation,' and he was almost gone before I realized that I did not know his name. I rushed after him and said: 'Sir, will you please tell me your name?' He replied: 'My name is D. L. Moody.'"

One Man Who "Cared."

The friend continued: "Mr. Reynolds, I have heard of that man Moody and his wonderful work in Chicago. There is one man in the world who cares about my soul. He never saw me before, and never expected to see me again; but he could not miss that opportunity to lead me to my Saviour. Hundreds of Christians would have said that was no place to speak to a man about his personal religious life; but he wanted no better place. And the matter is so upon my heart that I have decided to go to Chicago, and hunt up that man Moody, and settle this matter." But William Reynolds was too much of a Christian to allow his friend to go away alone in that state of mind, and before they separated that evening he had led his friend to give his heart to Christ. Then, as he turned homeward, he exclaimed: "O God! forgive me! forgive my sin of unconcern about the dying men all about me! Here I have been counting myself one of the leading Christians in this city. Yet here is a man who can tell me that for fifteen years I have known him, and have never uttered a word to indicate to him any concern about his soul. There is something wrong about my Christianity! I think I would better go to Chicago and get acquainted with this man Moody!" And this very thing he did. It was the beginning of an acquaintance that transformed William Reynolds' life.

"Packing Pork to Pay Expenses."

These two Christian business men talked over the needs of the church of Christ, and Mr. Reynolds went home to begin a work of positive Christian activity such as he had never dreamed before of attempting for Christ. Some years before he died, I met a gentleman from Peoria on the Pacific coast. I said to him: "I suppose you know my friend, William Reynolds, of that city?" He replied: "Oh, yes. Every one in Peoria knows him." I referred to his great work, as he had gone from the leading church to a destitute part of the city and had built up a strong people's church from a mission Sunday school, started in a hall over a saloon. This gentleman spoke in the highest terms of the extent of blessed influence which had radiated from that work. Then I asked: "What is Mr. Reynolds' business now?" He replied: "Why, have you never heard what they say about him in Peoria? They say that William Reynolds' business is to serve the Lord Jesus Christ, and he packs pork to pay the expenses."

What God did through William Reynolds He can do through you—in lesser, or even in greater measure—if you will let him. Will you give Him a chance? "Freely ye have received, freely give."

Billy Sunday's Lincoln Illustration

During the civil war Lincoln issued an order that no soldier would be granted a furlough. A while after that order, one soldier got word that his wife was dying. His superiors couldn't grant him the furlough, but they did let him go and try to see the president. But when he reached the president's office a guard outside stopped him and told him it was impossible to see the great man. The soldier went away discouraged, his eyes filled with tears.

Outside a little boy saw him. The boy was Tad Lincoln. The little boy said, "What's the matter, Mister Soldier?" And when the man told the child why he mourned, the little fellow said: "Come with me; I'll take you to see him—he's my papa." The boy got the soldier past the guard and Lincoln signed the order allowing him to go to the bedside of his dying wife.

That story is perfect. Here is sin, the guard at the door, and you can't get by. Sin is the barrier. Twenty-nine years ago, in a Chicago mission Jesus Christ came to me. I could not get past the door, but he took me in.

FIGHTING TRIM

In a pamphlet entitled "Fighting Trim," just issued by the United States public health service, Surgeon J. M. Eager lays stress upon personal endeavor of every individual as of the highest public importance in the organized war against disease. The wonderful victories that have been won in combating infectious maladies have had a tendency to divert popular attention from the equally important personal fortification against diseases of all kinds. The question of preparedness against onslaughts of the enemy, a query prominent in the minds of everyone in these days of warfare is put in a special personal bearing as relating to the dangers threatened by disease, the permanent enemy of mankind. Are you personally prepared, it is asked, for the hand-to-hand encounter with disease that you are sure to be forced into sooner or later or in which perhaps you are already engaged? Unless you are willing to succumb without a struggle, fight you must, no matter how feeble your fighting proclivities are. The inevitability of the battle against disease is strongly insisted upon. Peace between nations, it is stated, may not be an unattained hope, but even when the much desired era of human concord comes and armed strife among men has ceased, there will still be an everlasting battle to fight, a ceaseless struggle for a few more years of health and life, a desperate conflict against a foe who, as far as victory over the individual fighter is concerned is certain in the end to win—the battle against disease.

In the defense against disease two things are necessary—a systematic union of fighters, the sanitary organization, and personal preparedness, the product of intelligent and diligent personal hygiene. Personal preparedness is the patriotic duty of every citizen as an aid to national sanitary defense. No man as a member of society is morally free to live unhygienically or to acquire disease through lack of personal care. Like a slovenly soldier, the person who neglects his health risks imparting to others his loose morals, or even transmitting disease to the whole community.

THE MENACE OF ALCOHOL

"It is quite true that I have taken much more interest in the temperance question in the last ten years of my life than I did earlier, and this increase of interest has come from certain studies and opportunities for observation. These studies related to the terrible effects of alcoholism in increasing the number of feeble-minded, insane and criminal in our American communities. Later, I had the opportunity of studying the German investigations on the mental effects of very limited doses of alcohol, doses which most people have always supposed to be completely innocuous. The German investigations seemed to me to prove that every twenty-four hours after taking a small dose of alcohol the time-reaction in the human being is unfavorably affected. Now the quickness of the time-reaction is important to every machinic; to every artisan, and particularly to every person who is engaged in a dangerous occupation, like driving an automobile for instance, or managing a circular saw, or, indeed, in the tending of any powerful machine or hot furnace. Lastly, somewhat more than a year ago, I had a long opportunity of observing the difference between the white race and the Japanese, the Chinese, the Indian, the Malay and some of the Mahometan people, in regard to susceptibility to the alcoholic temptation. The white race is inferior to all the other people I have named in regard to this susceptibility to the temptation of alcoholism. No observant person can travel through the east for a year without being shocked by the manifest tendency of the white race temporarily resident there to destroy itself through alcoholism. Alcohol is destructive in the highest degree to the white race in the tropics, and all through the tropics the white race exhibits a terrible lack of self-control with regard to the use of alcohol drinks. It is mortifying to the last degree for an American to see intoxicated American soldiers and sailors staggering about the streets of the Chinese cities where we now have troops, and never to see a Japanese soldier in such condition; although the Japanese have five times as many troops there as we have. I mention but a single fact; but the lesson of the east is that the alcoholism of the white race must be overcome, or that vice, with the licentiousness it promotes, will overcome the race."—Charles W. Eliot.

Diseases Caused by Use of Tobacco

Tobacco causes diseases of the digestive organs, nervous system, head, lungs, eyes and brain—heartburn, nausea, costiveness and diseases of the liver and kidneys—pains in the chest, difficulty of breathing and violent palpitation of the heart.

Tobacco also produces unnatural sleep, nightmare and a great number and variety of affections which we have not space to mention. Of course, it does not affect all persons alike, but where there is one man who has constantly used it and lived to old age there are tens of thousands who have been killed by the vile stuff before they arrived at middle life. The senior physician to the Metropolitan Free Hospital in London, England, writes as follows: "I must protest against the use of tobacco in any form. This is also the opinion of Drs. Broadee, Copeland, Critchett, Guerrin, Mantegazza, Cocopardo and numerous heads of my profession in all countries."

ALCOHOL AND PNEUMONIA

The United States Public Health Service, from its department of Health News, sends out the following:

"The United States Public Health Service brands strong drink as the most efficient ally of pneumonia. It declares that alcohol is the handmaiden of the disease which produces ten per cent. of the deaths in the United States. This is no exaggeration. We have known for a long time that indulgence in alcoholic liquors lowers in the individual vitality, and that the man who drinks is peculiarly susceptible to pneumonia. The United States Public Health Service is a conservative body. It does not engage in alarmist propaganda. In following out the line of its official duties, it has brought forcefully to the general public a fact that will bear endless repetition. The liberal and continuous user of alcoholic drinks will do well to heed this warning, particularly at this season of the year when the gruesome death toll from pneumonia is being doubled."

SENSIBLE YET INVINCIBLE

"Thou nearest the sound thereof, but canst not tell whence it cometh and whither it goeth." Two old miners lost their way in a coal mine that stretched out under the sea. The lights went out and they were in imminent danger of death. After wandering a long time, one of them said, "Let us sit perfectly quiet and see if we can feel which way the air is moving. It always moves towards the shaft." At length one of them felt the air on his cheek; he sprang up and said, "I felt it!" They went in the direction in which the air was moving and reached the shaft. Note—"If a little breath from God so gentle you barely recognize it touches your soul, do not disregard it. Thank God and give yourself up to it and you will come out of darkness, bondage and sorrow, into perfect light and joy."

ADVICE TO YOUNG LADIES

Dear Young Ladies: You who are old enough to be looking for your future helpmate, which is perfectly proper and right, let me advice you, first of all, to ask God to help you in this the most important step in life and try to be guided by your parents' and older friends' advice. You should not be in haste to fall in love and accept the first offer of marriage, fearing you may not have another, especially if his only recommendations are his fine looks and good clothes—often the first love is only "puppy love"—and will soon fade and die. It only takes a few moments and a cost of a few dollars to have the marriage knot tied, but it takes many months and several hundred dollars to have it untied, or annulled, besides the disgrace and heartaches.—Your Friend.

WHAT IS THRIFT?

To form the habit of spending money only for the things you really, truly, want—that is thrift—the thrifty man will have more fun and probably spend more money in a lifetime than the spendthrift—he will certainly have more to spend. The thrifty man will be his own master—when the time comes if he wants a gun he can buy a good one; if he wants to go hunting or fishing he can take a vacation for the purpose. He has not wasted his money on trifles that did not really interest him. He is free to do the things he really wants to do. The difference is like that between trained soldiers who submit to discipline so they can win and the soldiers who, because of self-indulgence and lack of discipline, get whipped.—Bolton Smith, Memphis, Tenn.

Diphtheria is a disease that is always caused by germs. Diphtheria germs never cause other disease except diphtheria.

This disease is caused by the growth of the diphtheria germs on the tonsils or mucous membrane of the throat.

The diphtheria germ does not usually grow, in the body unless the covering membrane of the tonsil or throat is injured. When this membrane has been injured or when the individual is exhausted or his resisting powers lowered by exposure or weakened by some other infection, the diphtheria germ may be able to grow and by the poisonous substances which are produced, set up an infection which we call diphtheria.

Many cases of diphtheria are very mild and are often not recognized as diphtheria, but are considered as tonsilitis or merely sore throat.

Sometimes the germs are found in the throats of perfectly healthy persons who do not at any time show any symptoms of the disease.

If these germs through sneezing, coughing or in any other manner get into the throat of some one else, they are very likely to cause diphtheria in that person.

THREE MORE DAYS TO ENTER HORSESHOE CONTEST

SENTINEL PITCHING TOURNEY ENTRIES TO CLOSE MONDAY EVENING AT 6 O'CLOCK

With but three more days to enter The Sentinel horseshoe pitching contest and the events scheduled to be played off in a couple of weeks, the entries are coming in fast. The entry list closes at 6 o'clock Monday evening, April 10, and none will be accepted after that time. Close to sixty are entered in the singles and nearly a hundred in the doubles to date, and the returns are coming in so fast that indications point to a total list of more than 200.

Yesterday there were a score of pitchers practicing up at Swinney park, and each day and each evening finds the players working out about the city. Alleys and back yards and vacant lots are being put into service as horseshoe pitching courts.

The Variety of Shoes.

There has come up some discussion as to the types and varieties of horseshoes to be used, with the result that the committee of management will give a wide range of latitude to the kinds.

Here are the rules governing the shoes:

Each shoe must not weigh more than 2½ pounds.

The opening between the prongs may not be over 3½ inches across.

No shoes may be magnetized.

These are the only conditions. If you prefer a flat shoe that will slide into a ringer easily, you may have it.

If you want sharpened corks that will prevent the shoe from sliding it is your own lookout. There are players who can play better with one kind than with the other, and it has been decided to allow them to take their choice.

CLEARY'S BOSSES TO MEET TONIGHT

Shop Leaguers Hold Session to Report on Advertising.

Mart Cleary and his shop leaguers will be on the job again tonight at their regular meeting and reports indicate that the score book advertising proposition is practically finished. The boys have been hard at work on the book and already have contracted for advertising amounting to several hundred dollars, enough to keep the league on its feet throughout the coming year.

The teams will work out Saturday afternoon and the managements seem to be well satisfied with the outlook for the coming season. Since the organization meeting held in The Sentinel office two months ago a great amount of work has been completed and the league is in the best shape any local city league has ever been.

JOE TINKER IS UP IN THE AIR.

Chicago, April 6.—It looks as though Manager Joe Tinker will not know the "regular" Cub lineup until he announces his batting order at Cincinnati April 12. In his endeavor to find a line of battle that will combine speed in the field and strength at the bat, the Cub leader has shifted his men about continually. He is confident he finally has injected into the squad some of th e"pepper" and fighting spirit he deemed lacking at the start but is still in doubt as to the makeup of the infield and outfield. Doolan's failure to round into form spoiled his plans for the inner defense, but in himself and Mulligan Tinker has reserve strength to use until Mike regains his speed. Mann's hitting slump has disappointed the manager, too, and leaves the outer gardens still to be definitely filled. It is probable that Schulte may retain his old place in left.

WHY NOT APRIL FIRST?

Gotch and Stecher are to meet on Labor day.

Ho, golfers! List to the claims of John L. Hudson, an inventive genius of Newark, N. J. Hudson has applied for a patent on a golf club which, it is said, will correct wild drives. The club has a bi-concave face, the bi-concaving being done both ways on driver and brassie to a dead center. By this method, it is asserted, more of the surface of the ball is covered by the club in making the stroke. Result: More impact, a longer ball and a straighter drive.

No, my dear, the Bitter Root Kid is not a patent medicine. He's a fighter who has just come out of Montana and threatens to conquer the world.

If Fort Wayne had a place to stage the games she might have roller polo for a week this spring. Grand Rapids is in the midst of a five-day series, and the local fans would like to have the teams come back again.

They don't seem to appreciate the high school team's track suits at the Washington gym, for the teachers at the school have raised a loud objection to the abbreviated uniforms and kicked the athletes out into the cold.

TOO MUCH WAR.

St. Louis, Mo., April 6.—Thomas G. Watts, jr., who promoted the big Missouri Athletic association indoor track carnival, has decided to resign as chairman of the association as soon as the financial details of the meet are settled.

"Long distance wrangling was too much for me," Watts said. "I lost ten pounds, resigned from business, lost half of my friends, made hundreds of enemies and worried myself sick. Hereafter in any athletic meet I shall be a private citizen. No more promoting. I'm going back into business harness for a vacation."

St. Petersburg, Fla., April 6.—"He's up in the air." This old familiar lay of the ball field, heard when pitchers falter under heavy fire, has seldom been rendered at the expense of Grover Cleveland Alexander. Yet Alex was "up in the air," literally, likewise actually, only recently and returning to mother earth took a solemn oath he'd never go there any more.

The Quaker star ascended here in company with Johnny Green, the aviator who made the trip across Lookout mountain. Green has been flying between St. Petersburg and Tampa and his craft has attracted Alex to the water front daily. Manager Moran was reluctant to allow his slab marvel to make the trip and welcomed him with open arms upon his return.

THE PROGRESS OF HIGHER EDUCATION

NOBODY LOVES A FAT MAN.

Minneapolis, Minn., April 6.—In an effort to put a stop to the practice of prize fighters entering Minnesota rings overweight, M. L. Nolan, Minneapolis representative on the Minnesota state boxing commission, will present to the commission at its next meeting a proposal to incorporate a rule providing for the deduction of 10 per cent of a fighter's purse for failure to make the required weight.

"We have authority to make rules and we could do nothing that would help the game more than a rule of this character," said Mr. Nolan. "Many fighters would deliberately forfeit a small sum posted on making a weight in order to enter the ring with an advantage in pounds, which, of course, is unfair to the opposing fighter. But a rule deducting 10 per cent of the purse would undoubtedly solve the question."

Cincinnati, O., April 6.—Twelve graduates of the Cincinnati public schools division for baseball umpires will be graduated at the home plate at league park a half hour previous to the beginning of the National league game with the Chicago Cubs and Cincinnati Reds on Saturday, April 15.

This announcement was made simultaneously today by Superintendent of Schools Randall J. Condon and President August Herrmann, of the Cincinnati club.

Of the twenty-eight men who took the course for the last year and likewise the recent examination, twelve of them passed while the remainder will continue on through the second year's course. A new class will begin another course in the fall, two years being required before any are permitted to take an examination which would entitle them to receive diplomas.

The graduation exercises will be staged just previous to the time for calling the players into the field for practice and the principal address will be made by Secretary John E. Bruce, of the national commission, while Superintendent Condon will likewise make a few remarks and then award the diplomas.

Training for the Track

(By Fred Kelly, World's Champion High Hurdler.)

Don't worry over your race or over your condition. Worrying is the surest way to retard your progess. In fact, don't worry over anything. If a man be of a nervous temperament he should avoid thinking of his race. Go in determined to win.

In training for the hurdle events a man must practice form particularly. This, of course, along toward the end of his period of training, say, about the last week. Before he goes in for the hurdle work he must be sure of his wind and he must know he can get away to a good start.

Good form in hurdle racing consists in keeping as close to the top of the hurdle in going over as possible without knocking the hurdle down. The idea is to spend the time on the ground running rather than in the air.

Experience has shown that less time is wasted if a runner takes his hurdles with his leg straight out in front rather than doubled under him in the old-fashioned way. In this manner he keeps closer to the bar and spends less time in the air. A man should be very careful to avoid turning sidewise in leaping the hurdles as this causes him to lose time.

Now a word about rub-down. A good rub before a man goes out on the track limbers up his muscles and puts him in better shape to run. No man should ever attempt to travel his distance without first warming up with a little jogging. Nothing will snap a tendon quicker than the strain of running without first having limbered up the muscles.

After a workout a warm shower, a vigorous rub, a cold shower and then a man is as fit as a fiddle and ready to face the air without fear of catching cold.

During the training season, of course, a man should never smoke or drink. In fact, if a man expects to put himself in the championship class he should never become addicted to the tobacco or liquor habits. Some coaches recommend that a man never eat sweets during the training season, but I find if I eliminate sweets for the last week it is sufficient. I have no fads about diet. Good, plain, wholesome food I find is all that is necessary. I get eight hours of sleep every night when I am getting into condition for a meet.

FRED KELLY.

Fred Kelly, 24 years old, holds the intercollegiate record for high hurdles. Time 15 seconds. Distance 120 yards. He also has equaled the world's record for low hurdles on a curved track. Time 24.4 seconds. Distance 220 yards. He does a hundred yards in ten seconds flat.

POLICE SEEK WOMAN AGAIN

Say South Bend Prisoner Took Wife and Assumed Husband's Name.

South Bend, Ind., April 5.—The police are trying to find Marjorie Forsythe, who said she is the wife of E. S. Miller, alias Basil Forsythe, bound over to the grand jury here on a charge of obtaining money under false pretenses. Word was received from Elmira, N. Y., where the couple said they were married, charging that Miller ran away with Mrs. Forsythe, and adopted her husband's name. The husband is coming to South Bend. The woman was here Saturday, but has been missing since. In the preliminary hearing of Miller's case the evidence was that Miller has been representing himself as a magazine agent, and has been working in Evansville, Indianapolis, Fort Wayne, Terre Haute and other places.

PLOGSTERTH HEADS SCHOOL TENNIS CLUB

High Schoolers Plan Meet With More Than 100 Entries.

At a meeting of tennis enthusiasts held at the Fort Wayne high and manual training school Wednesday evening Bill Plogsterth was elected chairman of the committee, which will take charge of the coming meet.

It is expected to drag out about 100 or 125 players in the school meet, which will be played off early next month. It is hoped to play many of the games on the public park courts, although the various tennis clubs have offered their courts for the affairs.

The net men will get out and begin their practice within a few days, and the school has several players who are pretty nearly stars right now, and need nothing but training to place them in the front rank among the players of the city.

VOTELESS EAST AND VOTING WEST UNITE

Have Joined Forces in Tremendous Effort for Ballot.

Washington, April 6.—The suffragists of the east say they will prove that Kipling's "never the two can meet" is mere poetry.

In a "suffrage special" 25 of the leading suffragists of the east will go from Washington, April 9, to meet suffragists of the west.

In the 12 "free states of the west" voting women are preparing a reception for their eastern guests, and when the two "armies" meet they will unite for a tour.

Through Chicago, Kansas City, Topeka, Wichita, Cheyenne, Denver, Colorado Springs, Tucson, Seattle, Spokane, Great Falls, Butte, Portland and other western cities the suffrage special will whiz, stopping at the capital of each suffrage state and other towns along the westward route.

Public meetings will be held and there will be rear-platform speeches by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mrs. Harriet Stanton Blatch, Miss Helen Todd and Mrs. Inez M. Boissevain.

Each speech will be an appeal to the women who have won the vote to use it in support of the national woman suffrage amendment.

The tour will end about May 12 at Salt Lake City, where delegates from the 12 suffrage states will organize the woman's party to support the national suffrage amendment.

Governor Arthur Capper, of Kansas; Governor Samuel V. Stewart, of Montana, and Governor J. B. Kendrick, of Wyoming, have approved the plan to organize a woman's party.

RECOUNTING BALLOTS STARTS NEXT MONDAY

Comissioners Are Named in Vonderau-Hursh Contest.

Three commissioners were named Thursday by Judge Eggeman in the circuit court to recount all the ballots cast at the primary election on March 7 as petitioned for in the contest proceedings brought by Christian G. Vonderau, of St. Joe township, against Allen Hursh, of this city, to determine the democratic nominee for county recorder. The commissioners named by the court and agreed upon by both Vonderau and Hursh are: W. A. Johnson, Clark Harrod and Albert T. Miller.

The recounting of the ballots will be started Monday morning at 9 o'clock and will continue until every democratic ballot cast has been counted. This will require two or three days. The clerk of the court will act as clerk of the board. Charles Niezer and Louis Crosby will be witnesses for Hursh, the present incumbent, and William Fruechteneicht and Jay Brown for Vonderau.

The proceedings were first brought by Vonderau in the circuit court and later in the county commissioners' court. There was no transfer, however, and when it was found that the petition had not been filed with the commissioners within the period required by law, which says that a contest must be started within ten days after the result of a primary election is officially known, Mr. Vonderau decided to proceed upon his petition pending in the circuit court.

Mr. Vonderau received a majority of the first choice votes in the primary election, but when it came to counting the second choice it was found that he was defeated by a very close margin. Because of errors on the part of the election officials in a number of precincts in the county it was impossible for the primary election board to count the second choice votes in these precincts. Mr. Vonderau is of the opinion that if these second choice votes had been counted he would have been nominated.

Manier Will Filed.

The will of the late Joseph Manier, of Arcola, was filed in the circuit court Thursday in which the deceased leaves his entire estate to his wife during her lifetime and at her death to be divided among his children, Joseph J., August, Robert, Sebastian, Maria, Mary Mason, Rosa Boaenf, Anna Palmer, an adopted son, Elmer, and the children of a deceased child. One hundred dollars are left to the St. Patrick's church at Arcola. The widow, Margaret Manier, is named as executrix.

Suit for Divorce.

Charging desertion Harry Wilson, residing at 911 St. Mary's avenue, has brought suit in the superior court asking for a divorce from Abbie M. Wilson. Mr. and Mrs. Wilson were married April 15, 1901, and separated December 1, 1915. They have four children as follows: Harry, 8; Abbie, 11, and Berril and Bertha, each twenty two months old. The suit was filed through Attorney Phil B. Colerick.

Jury Hears Case.

A jury in the circuit court Thursday heard the case brought by Diederich J. Brandt against his uncle, Diederich Brandt, for $600 alleged to have been collected by the defendant on a piece of property belonging to the plaintiff. The case has been pending for a number of years. The testimony disclosed that the uncle had paid the money to the plaintiff's father and one of the principal questions to be decided is whether this would bar the son. Judge David N. Smith, of Decatur, is presiding.

Failed to Report Accident.

An affidavit was filed in the circuit court Thursday by Prosecuting Attorney Frank Emrick against Alva Lahrman, charging him with failing to report an accident where an injury had occurred. Some months ago, it is alleged, Lahrman struck the rig of Mahlon White, on the Leesburg road, with his automobile. The rig was overturned and Mrs. White and grandchild were painfully hurt. It is alleged that Lahrman never stopped his machine and made no effort to ascertain whether anyone had been injured. The affidavit was originally filed in the court of 'Squire Henry J. Grabner, where a preliminary hearing was held. It was found that the justice of the peace did not have jurisdiction.

Damage Case Monday.

The case of Adam H. Hans against the Pennsylvania Railroad company wherein $10,000 is asked by the plaintiff for the loss of an automobile and personal injuries, has been set for Monday, April 10, in the circuit court. The suit is the result of a crossing accident at Maples a year ago, in which the automobile was struck by Pennsylvania passenger train, killing William Richey, injuring Adam H. Hans and demolishing the auto. The railway company settled with the heirs of William Richey some time ago.

Petition to Change Name.

The county commissioners have taken under advisement a petition filed Thursday by C. D. Kammeier and forty-three others asking that the name of the Bass road be changed to Winona drive. The road was named in honor of John H. Bass, whose farm and beautiful country home is along the highway. The road is sometimes known by various names, such as the Yellow river road, Leesburg and Columbia City road.

The Gable road and Hartman roads in Wayne township and the Harmon road in Marion township were established Thursday by the county commissioners. The Hartman road is an extension of South Broadway across the St. Mary's river to connect with the Winchester road, while the Gable and Harmon roads extend east of the Decatur road.

Cruelty Is Charged.

Charging cruel and inhuman treatment, Meta M. Oberlin through her attorney, Howard Hanthorn, filed suit in the superior court Thursday asking for a divorce from Guy E. Oberlin. Mr. and Mrs. Oberlin were married on Sept. 21, 1911, and separated Feb. 26, 1916. They have one child, June Oberlin, three years old. Mrs. Oberlin charges her husband with failing to make reasonable provisions for the support of his family. She is an invalid.

Mrs. Coby Makes Answer.

Mrs. Henrietta Coby, who was made defendant in a suit for divorce filed by Herschel Coby on March 29, has filed a cross-complaint in which she makes a number of ugly charges. She is asking that the decree for divorce be granted to her and that she be given the custody of their four-year-old baby. A restraining order was granted by Judge Yaple in the superior court to prevent the Pennsylvania Railroad company from paying to Coby wages due him for work until disposition has been made of the case pending. Mrs. Coby alleges that her husband on a number of occasions struck her and called her many vile names. She also charges cruelty to their little baby.

Two Issues Sold.

County Treasurer W. F. Ranke has sold two issues of road bonds. The $10,000 issue for the Dan Row road in Monroe township was sold to the Hamilton National bank for $10,181 and the $10,800 issue for the William Youse road in Madison township to J. F. Wild & Co., of Indianapolis for $10,986.

Notes of the Courts.

The case brought by Charles F. Hilker et al., against Frank Wagner, et al., was dismissed in superior court Thursday on motion of the plaintiff.

Judge Yaple Thursday granted a decree for divorce to George Smith from Dora Smith.

Suit for $750 alleged to be due on a note has been filed in the circuit court by Lawrence E. Heiny against Will J. Conroy, Charles H. Gumpper and Martin H. Ankenbruck. Byron Hayes is attorney for the plaintiff.

Suit for $1,400 alleged to be due on a note has been filed by the Conservative Life Insurance company, of Indiana, against Henry W. Meyer.

The will of the late Lydia Hollopeter was filed Wednesday in which she leaves her entire estate to her son, Henry J. Hollopeter.

Judge Yaple in the superior court Thursday afternoon granted a decree for divorce to Clara Cook from Charles E. Cook.

ARISE TO FIND ROOF OF HOUSE IN FLAMES

Arising at 6:15 o'clock Wednesday morning, Roy Gilbert, residing at 1009 Huestis avenue, discovered that a large portion of the roof of the residence was a mass of flames. A call was sent in from box ..o. 78, and before the department arrived Mr. Gilbert with the assistance of neighbors had carried out nearly all the furniture on the first floor and part of the furnishings of the second floor. Sparks from the chimney caused the blaze.

The entire east side of the roof of the house was burned away and some damage was done in the garret. The loss was estimated at $200. When the fire laddies arrived the situation looked dangerous and a line of hose was laid but was not used. Street car traffic and an interurban car were held up for a short while.

The chemical answered a still alarm at 9:30 o'clock to Keller's stone yard, where sparks from the chimney had set fire to the roof of the office building. The loss was $5.

SERMONS ATTRACT ATTENION.

Interest In Revivals at Immanuel Baptist Church Increases.

The sermons that Evangelist Jack Caldwell is delivering at the revival services at Immanuel Baptist church are attracting wide attention and the interest seems to increase daily. The subject of the sermon Wednesday evening was "The Sluggard." The speaker said that sin was as sleep and that it made people indifferent to their surroundins: that it made them insecure, and that it made people go to sleep in strange places where they are exposed to death.

He continued by saying that we must have someone to awake us and that the only power that was capable of doing this was the gospel of Jesus Christ properly preached to sinful men and that it must also be accompanied by the power of the holy spirit.

Friday evening a delegation from the South Wayne Baptist church will attend. On Saturday evening Singer Houghton will give a free stereopticon lecture.

Two important jobs, however, are to be finished, work on them to begin as soon as the weather permits. THE DEATHS.

PHELPS.

Mrs. Mary Phelps, mother of Charles A. Phelps, business manager of the Wildwood magazine, died late Wednesday afternoon at St. Joseph hospital following an illness due to double pneumonia. Had she lived two more days Mrs. Phelps would have attained the age of 72 years. An anniversary celebration had been planned by the children.

Although she had been ailing for some time her condition was not regarded as serious until the latter part of last week when her son, Charles, with whom she resided at 324 West Creighton avenue, was telegraphed to return home at once from New Orleans. She was taken to the hospital Monday.

Mrs. Phelps had been a resident of Fort Wayne for forty years and was widely known. She was a member of the First Baptist church and the Pythian Sisters. Her husband, Dr. Whitcomb Phelps, died fifteen years ago.

The deceased is survived by two sons, Charles Phelps and Wilbur S. Tinker, of Cleveland; two daughters, Miss Nellie Phelps, of this city, and Mrs. W. O. MATTER NOT YET SETTLED

American troops proceeding much further.

Gen. Funston today asked the war department to send the recruits enlisted under the recent authorization of 20,000 additional men to Brownsville, Texas, for distribution among the border patrol regiments.

The recruits are being assembled and drilled at recruiting stations at Jefferson barracks, Mo.; Columbus barracks, Ohio; Fort Logan, Colo., and Fort Alcatraz, California. They will not be sent across the border but will fill up regiments of the border guard.

At Gen. Funston's request a battery of the Fourth artillery, which had been ordered from Brownsville to the Panama canal zone, will remain on the border, in view of Mexican conditions.

VEILED IN OBSCURITY.

El Paso, April 6.—The entire Mexican situation was veiled in obscurity today as far as the border was concerned. For the last three days not a single Mexican or American has arrived here from the interior and the scanty news given out by the Mexican officials at Juarez as received by telegraph threw no light on the operations, beyond confirming the impression that the chase has been practically halted, at least temporarily.

Army officers here show no hesitancy in expressing their opinion in attempting to pursue Villa farther without the aid of reinforcements is almost a hopeless task. The one incalculable factor is the question as to whether Villa is wounded or not. The Mexican commanders are emphatic in their assertions that the bandit chief is seriously disabled, but their belief is not shared by the American commanders. That Villa should spread a report to the effect that he had been shot is so characteristic a maneuver that it is received with considerable reservation.

SHOP AND RAILROAD NEWS

Organization Similar to Federal Government Part of Dividend Plan.

One of the biggest things that has taken place in Fort Wayne for some time occurred yesterday at the works of S. F. Bowser & Co., when all employes of the factory and office met to elect from among the ranks of the workers their own choice for members in the house of representatives.

The convention was held in one of the large buildings at the plant after dinner, and was called to order by President S. F. Bowser. As Mr. Bowser cordially invited the public to enjoy Rev. Folsom's address, which was a part of the program, he opened the meeting with a few remarks to the visitors, telling them the nature of these meetings which are held regularly at stated times.

The Purpose of the Meeting.

S. F. Bowser & Co. some time ago adopted a dividend or profit sharing plan for employes. Every man in the plant receives in addition to his salary a monthly dividend on the business done by the company during the preceding month. In addition to this profit sharing, a plan has been evolved whereby every employe will have a voice in the management and control of the conditions under which he labors. This is made possible by organizing the employes into departments similar to those of the United States government.

Mr. Bowser's speech was an expression of his faith in his fellowman, of his realization that every man can be true to himself only when he is true to his neighbor, of his high aspiration that the contract his own life may impinge, the direction of his fellowmen toward kindly judgment, efficient sympathy and neighborliness.

We have all come to realize that our age is transitional. Here in America we have announced an ideal of splendid self-reliance. The expression of that ideal required of us, first, the organization of a government based upon individual self-reliance and then the upbuilding of an industrial life in which self-reliance should obtain the greatest possible reward.

Self-reliance and self-interest are in our time reaching their higher fulfillment in a consciousness of our responsibility for others and our interdependence upon others. We are now learning—and with us the men of all the English-speaking world are learning—that there can be no freedom for the individual which does not include also freedom for the group.

Every change in society is the product of an interplay of forces. As men rarely act from single motives, so likewise do social forces rarely express themselves in single movements.

The new Bowser policy is one of several important expressions of man's larger regard for his brother. It is probably not the chief of them. Assuredly it is not the only material one amongst them. But we believe that to those to whom the ministrations of this policy are vouchsafed, its spirit may prove an exceptionally potential expression of our regard for these, our brothers.

This new policy means for the Bowser employe participation in profits and self-government in business.

It marks the epoch in the world's industry that business and Christianity must go hand in hand.

Rev. Folsom's Address.

Rev. Folsom then gave his most remarkable address entitled, "The Boy."

In part he said: "A father must set a good example for his boy if he wants him to be a good man. Until the boy is fourteen, mother's influence will do, but at fourteen the boy must have the influence of a man. Be a chum to your boy. A man that asks his boy to do things he don't do himself is a coward."

This address was the most practical talk we ever heard on the subject and made a decided hit with the many fathers in the audience. It was without doubt worth a dollar to hear.

John Leitch.

Mr. Leitch, who is planning this self-government scheme, then explained the duties of the house of representatives and an election was held. Every department of the business has a representative and the election resulted as follows:

In the factory—Paint shop, Carter Bowser and C. Zollinger; machine shop, W. Smith, J. Brown, F. Sorg, J. Pulhamus, Arthur Saffron and William Bade; tin shop, C. Didrick, John Schmidt, Walter Reiter and J. W. Butler; meter department, C. W. Kroeger and Leslie Laible; stock room, H. Barger and A. Bunting; crating department, George Green and F. C. Schaaf; factory department and drafting room, Hugh Stahl; grinding room, R. Betz; tool department, Paul Wood; boiler shop, E. C. Monroe, F. L. Waltemath and Henry C. Koresch; assembling department, B. Lahyman; carpenter and pattern shop, J. Richardson; yard gang, Fred Beckle; power, plumbers and electricians, Fred Johnson; ware house, C. Federspiel.

Offices—Card department, Miss Ethel Elliott; cost department, T. E. Sommers; stenographic, Morning Blystone; publication department, F. M. Morrison; service department, Fred Miller; collection department, Miss Graham and P. E. Krider; general sales, E. G. Conklin; export and Fort Wayne sales, George Bacon; executive department, A. J. Prauger; accounting and mailing department, F. H. Joebker and A. O. Hughes.

Music during the meeting was furnished by the girls' sextet from the card department and the men's quartet from the factory.

BIG CROWD AT BOWSER MEETING.

Over 1,000 people heard Rev. A. J. Folsom deliver an address on "What We Owe Our Boys," at the factory of S. F. Bowser & Company yesterday afternoon. Of course, the greater portion of the audience were employes of the Bowser company, but there were many others there who are not connected with the concern.

THE CENTENNIAL NEEDS YOUR HELP RIGHT NOW

People for the Pageant Cast Are Wanted This Week.

Don't be bashful. Get in on the biggest thing that's going. The committee in charge of the Centennial pageant is badly in need of volunteers to put on the big show. Of course, a great many applications are already in, but a good many more are needed. Those who participate in the great show will have much to remember. To participate in an entertainment before an audience of 14,000 people will be the event and the sight of a life time. The opportunity is still open, and it is hoped the people of Fort Wayne will come forward promptly and give of their services in this connection.

It will require from 600 to 700 applications within the next few days to enable Pageant Master Donald Robertson to make his selections for the big show. Thousands of application cards have been placed at convenient places in the factories and other centers of activity, and a great many applications are already in. If you haven't one of these cards, it doesn't make any difference. All you have to do is to write to the committee, stating that you are willing to take part in the pageant, and giving your name and address, together with a few words concerning your ability or experience, so the pageant master may know just where to place you. Address your letter or card to The Pageant Committee, Commercial Club, Fort Wayne, Indiana.

Tell your friends. Form a group of your acquaintances and join the happy throng that's to tell the thrilling story of Fort Wayne.

You Must Have Plenty of Iron in Your Blood to be Strong, Says Doctor

Nuxated Iron Will Increase Strength of Delicate, Nervous, Run-down People 200 Per Cent. in Ten Days in Many Instances.

New York, N. Y.—Most people foolishly seem to think they are going to get renewed health and strength from some stimulating medicine, secret nostrum or narcotic drug, said Dr. Sauer, a specialist of this city, when, as a matter of fact, real and true strength can only come from the food you eat. But people often fail to get the strength out of their food because they haven't enough iron in their blood to enable it to change food into living matter. From their weakened, nervous condition they know something is wrong, but they can't tell what, so they generally commence doctoring for stomach, liver or kidney trouble or symptoms of some other ailment caused by the lack of iron in the blood. This thing may go on for years, while the patient suffers untold agony. If you are not strong or well, you owe it to yourself to make the following test: See how long you can work or how far you can walk without becoming tired. Next take two five-grain tablets of ordinary nuxated iron three times per day after meals for two weeks. Then test your strength again and see for yourself how much you have gained. I have seen dozens of nervous, run-down people, who were ailing all the while double and even triple their strength and endurance and entirely get rid of all symptoms of dyspepsia, liver and other troubles in from ten to fourteen days' time simply by taking iron in the proper form, and this after they had in some cases been doctoring for months without obtaining any benefit. But don't take the old forms of reduced iron, iron acetate or tincture of iron simply to save a few cents. You must take iron in a form that can be easily absorbed and assimilated like nuxated iron if you want it to do you any good, otherwise it may prove worse than useless. Many an athlete or prize fighter has won the day simply because he knew the secret of great strength and endurance and filled his blood with iron before he went into the affray, while many another has gone down to inglorious defeat simply for the lack of iron.

NOTE—Nuxated Iron recommended above by Dr. Sauer is not a patent medicine nor secret remedy, but one which is well known to druggists and whose iron constituents is widely prescribed by eminent physicians everywhere. Unlike the older inorganic iron products, it is easily assimilated, does not injure the teeth, make them black, nor upset the stomach; on the contrary, it is a most potent remedy, in nearly all forms of indigestion, as well as for nervous, run-down conditions. The Manufacturers have such great confidence in Nuxated Iron that they offer to forfeit $100.00 to any charitable institution if they cannot take any man or woman under 60 who lacks iron and increase their strength 200 per cent. or over in four weeks' time provided they have no serious organic trouble. They also offer to refund your money if it does not at least double your strength and endurance in ten days' time. It is dispensed in this city by the Dreier Drug Co., Meyer Bros. Co. and all other druggists.—Advertisement.

PHOTOS SHOW THERE'S NOTHING NEW IN DISCOVERY MADE BY T. R.

Here are pictures of a skeleton and stuffed specimen of the Guacharo or steatornis caripensis, which ex-President Roosevelt is quoted as saying he discovered on his recent trip to Trinidad. This skeleton and stuffed specimen have been the property of the Agassiz museum at Harvard university 30 years and was originally discovered by Humboldt in 1779. The natives of Trinidad use the oil of the bird for lighting and cooking and it is sometimes called the oil bird.

KILLED TRYING TO SAVE DOG

Clarksville Carpenter Struck by Pilot of a Suburban Train.

Jeffersonville, Ind., April 6.—Jarvis Benjamin, age fifty, a carpenter who lived in Clarksville, was instantly killed by a suburban train two miles west of the city. He was walking with Albert Fuller. His little dog, to which he and his wife were much attached, got under the pilot and in trying to reach the animal Benjamin was struck. Fuller was looking the other way and did not see the tragedy, but looked back to find Benjamin lying dead, with his feet toward the tracks and the dog cut in two. Benjamin leaves a widow and a brother.

"All Bosh---

Coffee Doesn't Hurt Me"

says the cynic—but, we live and learn and at some time of life many coffee drinkers wake up to the fact that the drug, "caffeine," in coffee is "getting them."

Headache, nervousness, biliousness, heart flutter, insomnia, etc., are often signs that coffee is getting in its work; and the growing knowledge of its true nature has led thousands of former coffee drinkers to turn to

INSTANT POSTUM

This famous food-drink tastes much like mild Java coffee, but is entirely free from caffeine and other harmful elements ever present in coffee. It is made of whole wheat and a small portion of wholesome molasses, and permits Nature, unhampered, to carry on her work of daily re-building brain, nerves and muscle.

Postum comes in two forms: The original Postum Cereal must be boiled: Instant Postum requires no boiling—a level teaspoonful in a cup of hot water makes a delicious drink—instantly. Both forms are equally delicious and the cost per cup is about the same.

HOUSEWIVES FLOCK TO BIG UNIVERSITY

Seek to Get New Ideas for Doing Their Work in the Kitchen.

Seattle, Wash., April 6.—At last the humble kitchen has won the profound attention of big universities and the apron taken its place beside the cap and gown.

The University of Washington has just conducted its second annual housekeepers' conference, under the direction of Mary E. Rausch who is in charge of home economic extension work throughout the state.

Miss Mary E. Rausch

Brides, brides-to-be, mothers and grandmothers, apartment dwellers and old-fashioned "home bodies" dominated class room and campus.

A model kitchen, built by the class in home management, was the hub of the conference activities. Matters of diet, food values, home management, cleanliness and the elimination of drudgery were thoroughly discussed in a practical short course.

Housekeepers who have heretofore stood somewhat in awe of the university have learned that it is but a short step from their kitchens to the laboratory and lecture halls where home problems are gladly considered.

They have learned that the college folk here are just as much interested in pumpkin pie as in Greek translation, in bringing up a family on $75 a month as in a problem of quadratics.

It's been a pleasant surprise all 'round.

How to make a 70-cent shoulder of lamb serve for a family of four with meat for three meals, was one of the demonstrations given housewives. The speaker, head of the meat department of a big market, illustrated his advise by carving the cut of lamb.

The entire course of instruction by experts was equally matter of fact. There was no vague theorizing; no highbrowism.

Following this conference here, Miss Rausch will lecture throughout the state, under the university auspices, in the interest of better homes and domestic management.

"No university," she says, "can perform a more important service."

A Night in Our Border Capital Since the Mexican Situation Became Acute

BY LEON STARMONT,
Special Correspondent on Mexican Border for The Sentinel.

El Paso, Tex., April 6.—Let's take a walk tonight around El Paso, to see what we can see.

There's a fashion show at the Paso del Norte, with living models, fresh from Broadway.

There's "The Birth of a Nation" at the Texas Grand, where slow-spoken southerners are cheering the Ku Klux Klan.

Store windows fronting the Prado shimmer with silks such as you'd see in Marshall Field's—and before them pace soldiers in fours and sixes, khaki cloaks flapping in a chill night breeze, service rifles over their shoulders pointing grimly at the cold north star.

Limousines purr to a standstill before the Paso del Norte, emitting pairs of evening-gowned women, chatting gaily. They stand silent on the curbstone till the soldiers pass. Then they enter the fashion show.

Farther south, on the one paved street that stabs the squalid Mexican quarter, garish red and green posters in Spanish announce "The Serpent—Para Hoy!" Theda Bara registers hate from behind a Mexican ticket-girl who rakes in nickels. They look very much alike.

A phonograph screams in Spanish from a little 8x18 restaurant, equipped with two tables, a cigar counter, and a yellow-haired, non-Mexican waitress.

In a cantina, a Mexican saloon, brown peons talk in soft grunts, and look at the pictures in ribald weeklies published in Madrid and Barcelonia.

There are fewer people on the side streets. Let's walk this way.

"Quong Sing, laundry down the alley," reads an English sign.

There's an alley there, but you might have passed it. The gate is only two feet wide. There are 14 little wooden doors in as many little adobe huts, built close together, without a window in the row. A Chinaman regards us curiously.

Soldiers in twos are walking through these side streets.

THEDA BARA PARA HOY
ON A SIDE STREET

Night life in El Paso, sketched by Juan Delgado, Mexican artist.

Four Mexican girls, who might be 18 or 28, razor their customers in a "lady barber shop."

Up in the El Paso & Southwestern yards a trainload of trucks has just pulled in—motor trucks from Detroit, for use in the Mexican desert behind the army.

Fifty civilian drivers pile out of a tourist car.

"Br-r-r!!—It's cold down here," says one. Few of them brought overcoats along. They thought El Paso would be sunny and balmy. They'll buy overcoats before they venture into Mexico.

There's a hint of snow in the air.

All windows are lighted in the higher part of town, inhabited by Americans and Mexicans of the well-to-do class, who fled from revolutions. There is singing in some of the homes along Montana street. Where there are no lights, you can bet the residents have gone to the fashion show, or the Country club, which perches on a clay-bank this side of Fort Bliss and commands an efficient view of the unvegetated Franklin hills.

Taxicabs flash past, toward the roadhouses out Ysleta way. It's just like any March night, up here where the streets bunt the foothills.

Down where the big irrigation ditch gurgles past Camp Cotton, sentries stalk in silence up and down the border. Restless army mules kick the sides of their stalls, and soldiers, awakened, curse them.

Empty street cars at intervals cross the international bridge.

STIFF CARD FOR SOUTH BEND

South Bend, Ind., April 6.—South Bend's high school track team has arranged one of the stiffest schedules in its history for this year. The team will compete in two triangular meets, the northern Indiana events, with Culver Military academy and with the Notre Dame preps. On April 20 the interclass events will be held; on April 29, Culver will be met at Culver; May 4, Notre Dame preps at Notre Dame, Mishawaka, Laporte and South Bend at Notre Dame; May 13, Elkhart, Goshen and South Bend, at Elkhart; May 20, northern Indiana meet at Notre Dame. Indications are that the state meet will be held on May 20, and, if so, the schools in northern Indiana have practically decided to keep their men here for the sectional competition.

Motorcycle side cars are being successfully used for carrying the mails through rural districts in England.

TO REMOVE DANDRUFF

Get a 25-cent bottle of Danderine at any drug store, pour a little into your hand and rub well into the scalp with the finger tips. By morning most, if not all, of this awful scurf will have disappeared. Two or three applications will destroy every bit of dandruff; stop scalp itching and falling hair.—Advertisement.

YOUR SICK CHILD IS CONSTIPATED! LOOK AT TONGUE

If cross, feverish or bilious give "California Syrup of Figs."

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless "fruit laxative," because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."—Advertisement.

"TIZ" FOR FEET

For Tired Feet, Sore Feet, Tender, Aching, Swollen, Calloused Feet and Painful Corns

Just take your shoes off and then put those weary, shoe-crinkled, aching, burning, corn-pestered, bunion-tortured feet of yours in a "Tiz" bath. Your toes will wriggle with joy; they'll look up at you and almost talk and then they'll take another dive in that "Tiz" bath.

When your feet feel like lumps of lead—all tired out—just try "Tiz." It's grand—it's glorious. Your feet will dance with joy; also you will find all pain gone from corns, callouses and bunions.

There's nothing like "Tiz." It's the only remedy that draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up your feet and cause foot torture.

UNCLE SAM'S NEGRO TROOPERS BRING TERROR TO MEXICANS.

United States negro cavalry marching through Mexico.

Somewhere in Chihuahua, April 5.—There's terror in northern Mexico! Peons of the deserts and mountains think the whole world has turned against them!

That's because Gen. Pershing made a wise move and sent in negro cavalry from Hachita, N. M., the day of the first invasion, and negro infantry from Columbus afterward.

"These dark people—they are not Americanoes!" cry the Mexican as the negro troops pass. "The gringoes have brought other nations to fight against us!"

"We're Americans, all right, and don't you forget it," the negroes on horses respond.

"No, the Americanoes are pale and fair skinned," the Mexicans mutter among themselves. And the word has gone deep into Chihuahua's mountains that another dark race, like the Mexicans, only larger, is helping the Americans in their chase of Pancho Villa.

You can stand on a Chihuahua hilltop and see the long columns of advancing negro soldiers stringing out over the line of communication which the Twenty-fourth infantry is guarding.

Blithely they start from Columbus, smiles on their faces, banter echoing up and down the line.

When they get to the border ranch they're a little tired and not so gay.

When they reach the first stopping place they are weary and they tread with a sag to their shoulders, but they march on till the order comes to halt.

The desert sun is hard on their eyes, and they wear colored goggles to protect them.

STRANGE CONTRASTS ARE SEEN IN MEXICO

Queer Mixture of Wealth and Poverty, Progress and Lack of It.

Washington, D. C., April 6.—"Mexico, the land of contrasts, of great riches and extreme poverty, a few of its people amassing millions, while myriads are starving, a place where the most modern machinery may be found in operation at the very side of the most primitive method of accomplishing the same end, where beautiful architecture is in contrast with adobe huts and where shining automobiles of the latest design whirl past sleepy ox teams hauling carts with solid wooden slabs for wheels identical with the design which was used at the time of the Spanish conquest," is the subject of a bulletin issued by the National Geographic society, from its headquarters in Washington today.

"Passing down a prominent street in almost any of the large Mexican cities, there may be seen fashionably dressed gentlemen, who look very much as though they were just as much at home on Piccadilly, the Champs d'Elysees or Fifth avenue following or preceding them however, will be a sandalled peon clad in linen trousers and a boluse, with his 'serape' thrown over his shoulder and his head protected by a wide-brimmed sombrero and his entire worldly possessions upon his back.

"In the next block one may meet an Indian woman, barefoot and with uncovered head, a child slung in the 'rebosa' over her shoulders. About her there is a suggestion of garlic, onions and 'pulque,' while passing along the same street comfortably ensconsed in her victoria, dressed in a latest Parisian creation, rolls milady, also of the same nation.

"A gorgeously appointed funeral car bearing the remains of one whose family can afford this expense, may arrive at the burial place simultaneously with three or four peons, packing on their shoulders the body of a comrade in a plainly painted coffin the use of which is rented and will be returned after the body is given interment.

"A speeding automobile diverts its course to avoid a drove of sleepy burros laden with lumber feed, or pottery, or a great motor truck may move side by side with lithe 'cargadores' carrying mountain high, on their backs household goods of every description.

"One-story and possibly single-room adobe houses plastered in colors all-join large structures of elaborate architecture and the poor peon passing along to his humble abode may catch a glimpse through a spacious doorway of a beautiful patio adorned with flowers and fountains. Later when he sits down to his tortillas and frijoles, his next-door neighbor is probably being served with the richest viands and the rarest wines.

"Back in the country districts the whirr of a sewing machine may be heard coming from a cane or a mud but while the head of the house may be seen scratching the ground with a crude plow of essentially the same design as those used in Mesopotamia in the time of Nebuchadnezzar, or threshing his grain by driving animals over it.

"In the sugar-growing country, wooden, stone, or copper rolls operated by animal power extract the saccharine matter from the cane and excess molasses is absorbed by a wad of mud, although a few miles distant an hacienda with the highest type of roller mills, vacuum pans, and centrifugals, produces larger quantities of sugar of a superior quality.

"The climate, too, has its extremes, and in the highlands the nights are cold while the sunny side of the street at noon is too warm for comfort. The lowlands have days of intense torrid heat, proceeding others when a strong 'norther' chills to the bone. Months of drought, during which little if any rain falls, are succeeded by intervals when rain may be expected for a part of every day. Of such contrasts is Mexico, once called the 'Treasure House of the World.'"

OLD HOUSE YIELDS TREASURE

Box of Wealth Is Found Secreted in Walls at Vincennes.

Vincennes, Ind., April 4.—While three laborers were tearing down a two-story fame structure in this city, which was condemned by the state marshal, the workmen found a small wooden box between the walls. On opening the box they saw eighty silver dollars, two copper cents and a gold ring. The house was built in 1853 when the O. & M. railroad (now the B. & O.) was built through Vincennes. It was originally used as a hotel by the railroad men. The money was "split" between the three laborers, the foreman taking the ring and the extra pennies. All the dollars were dated 1865.

TRANSFERS GIVEN BY UNION EXCHANGE

Members of the Union Exchange, an organization of "jitney owners," endorsed and supported by organized labor, began Thursday selling six tickets for twenty-five cents and the giving of transfers, the tickets and transfers being good on all cars using a U. E. sign. Regular schedules are being established to compete with the various lines of the traction company.

The purpose of the Union Exchange is to put the "jitney" business in Fort Wayne on a better basis and to afford the same accommodations and privileges as are given on street cars. Another purpose of the new organization is to make this form of transportation much more satisfactory and safer than it has been in the past. The general offices of the Union Exchange will be in the labor headquarters, on West Berry street.

RIVALS MUST NOW BEWARE

Shelbyville, Ind., April 4.—Shelbyville's champion croquet team, taking advantage of the early spring weather, has started practice for the season's campaign. The first match game was played the other afternoon, with four of the members of the last year's champion aggregation knocking the balls about. The men showed that they still possessed some ability at the game. A manager of the team will be named later and an effort made to secure matches with teams from other towns and cities of the state. The locals are out after the championship of the state this year, they say, and are willing to meet all comers.

An Old, Family Cough Remedy, Home-Made

Easily Prepared—Costs Very Little, but is Prompt, Sure and Effective

By making this pint of old-time cough syrup at home you not only save about $2, as compared with the ready-made kind, but you will also have a much more prompt and positive remedy in every way. It overcomes the usual coughs, throat and chest colds in 24 hours—relieves even whooping cough quickly—and is excellent, too, for bronchitis, bronchial asthma, hoarseness and spasmodic croup.

Get from any drug store 2½ ounces of Pinex (50 cents worth), pour it into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup. Full directions with Pinex. Keeps perfectly and tastes good.

You can feel this take hold of a cough or cold in a way that means business. It quickly loosens the dry, hoarse or painful cough and heals the inflamed membranes. It also has a remarkable effect in overcoming the persistent loose cough by stopping the formation of phlegm in the throat and bronchial tubes.

The effect of Pine on the membranes is known by almost every one. Pinex is a most valuable concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract combined with guaiacol and other natural healing pine elements.

There are many worthless imitations of this famous mixture. To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex," and do not accept anything else.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this preparation. The Pinex Co., Ft Wayne, Ind.

Husband and Sister Take Tanlac When Fort Wayne Woman Gains Relief.

"I can't praise Tanlac enough," said Mrs. Mary Gaby, 60 years old, wife of George C. Gaby, janitor at the St. James apartments a few days ago.

Through her use of Tanlac Mrs. Gaby, who is a very well known Fort Wayne woman, not only gained big benefits herself, but paved the way for the relief of two other persons as well. Mrs. Gaby's husband, George C. Gaby, and a sister of Mrs. Gaby, convinced now that Tanlac is what it is claimed to be, both intend trying the medicine.

"My trouble dates back for six years," Mrs. Gaby said, speaking of her case. "I had stomach trouble in the form of indigestion. The last few months it has been extremely severe. Everything I ate caused pain. Accumulations of gas formed on my stomach. I bloated easily and had severe pains in the pit of my stomach. Headaches bothered me and I was subject to dizzy spells. I was very nervous and slept very poorly. I'd awaken in the morning as tired as when I went to bed.

"After taking Tanlac only a few days the pains gradually began to disappear. The bloating is entirely gone now and I do not have the severe pains in my stomach any more. I am able to eat anything I care for without bad after effects. The nervousness also is practically gone now and I sleep well at night. In the mornings I get up feeling rested and refreshed.

"I had about given up hope of finding anything that would correct my trouble and so it is not unusual that I consider Tanlac's work really wonderful."

Tanlac, the Master Medicine, is especially beneficial for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, catarrhal complaints, rheumatism, nervousness, loss of appetite and the like and is a fine spring tonic, purifying the blood and strengthening the entire system.

Tanlac is now being introduced in Fort Wayne at the Wayne and Calhoun streets store of the Meyer Drug Co., where the Tanlac Man is explaining the new remedy. It also may be obtained at the other Meyer stores, Calhoun and Columbia, 1420 Calhoun and Broadway and Taylor.—Advertisement.

REAL WOMAN'S PARTY NOW IN THE MAKING

Hopes to Consolidate All Factions for Woman Suffrage.

By Gilson Gardner.

Washington, April 6.—A real national woman's party, to be made up of women voters of the "free" states, is in process of formation. This party will make an effort to consolidate the four million women voters regardless of their party denominations so their influence may be polled in favor of amending the constitution to remove the sex qualification and give every woman a right to vote.

This is the answer of the congressional union for woman suffrage to the action of this congress in refusing to vote on the Susan B. Anthony amendment. The suffrage leaders hold the democratic party, and particularly the democratic leaders of the house, responsible for the action of the judiciary committee which recently twice voted to postpone indefinitely any consideration of the suffrage amendment. This action by a house committee makes it impossible to secure a vote of the whole house on this matter, and was taken unquestionably in accordance with orders from the party chiefs who desire to keep the embarrassing subjects of suffrage and prohibition from a record vote in the house lest such votes and records embarrass members who are facing campaigns for re-election in November.

The call has gone out and a conference is to be held in Washington April 9 and 10, preliminary to sending a spectacular trainload of suffrage workers from the eastern states to the "free" states of the west. This expedition is what Alice Paul, chairman of the congressional union, calls "an appeal by the unenfranchised women to their free sisters" to help them by forming a woman's party. Already a big trip has been arranged to cost not less than $50,000 taking in twenty or thirty states, with speeches, rallying meetings all the way from the union station in Washington to San Francisco and back again. The influence of the women's party, of course, will be cast against the democratic party unless between now and adjournment favorable action is taken by the party on the suffrage amendment.

The increasing prospect that Louis D. Brandeis will be confirmed as a member of the U. S. supreme court has for some reason dampened the enthusiasm for Hughes as a presidential candidate. Whether it is because certain interests feel that Hughes will be needed on the court to counteract the Brandeis point of view in that body is a matter of conjecture. The fact is becoming apparent here that strong pressure is at work to keep Hughes on the court and to eliminate him from the presidential game.

Uncle Sam's department of agriculture has gone into house-planning for farmers. A very interesting plan for a "southern farmhouse for a small family" has just been published. One of the interesting features is a "cooking room," which is partitioned off from the kitchen and contains the cooking range. In the ceiling of this compartment is a ventilator and cold air is taken in through the floor, while next to the stove is a large double-sashed window. Thus, there is light and a current of air moving from the floor out through the ceiling carrying the odors and heat, while the kitchen proper is kept cool. Next to the cooking room is a fuel compartment which is conveniently fed from out of doors so that muddy feet do not track over the housewife's floor. Another convenience is a bathroom located so that the men from the stable or field may step into it without walking through the house. There is also a closet off the screened porch just at the latter entrance, in which muddy rubber boots or wet coats can be hung. The house contains living room, dining room, two bedrooms, kitchen, screened porch, back porch and double sleeping porch. It is all on one floor and planned for cheap construction.

A lamp which is more than 150 times as powerful as the most powerful acetylene signal lamps now used, has been devised by the instrument section of the coast and geodetic survey for use during the coming summer in the mountain regions of Idaho and Oregon for use in surveying by triangulation, where it is necessary to set up a light and observe it with a telescope from points over 100 miles distant. The new lamp is an electric one with specially designed filament and the power is an ordinary dry cell.

For the third time during the present session of congress Chairman Lemuel P. Padgett, of the naval affairs committee, has refused a request of Louis Gathman, the naval engineer and inventor, to be heard by the committee. Gathman's last letter to Padgett stated that he would submit documents, photographs and other illustrations to show how the "faulty construction and equipment of our present armored ships can be rectified, and how this would increase their efficiency more than twenty-fold at a cost of one-fifth of that of new ships, in less time than it would take to build three new ships."

MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back Hurts or Bladder bothers.

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid which almost paralyzes the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken, then you suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or side headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get sore and irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To neutralize these irritating acids, to cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine, so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Advertisement.

THE GREATEST PRAYER IN THE WORLD

Prayer is the highest act of man. In it he is nearest to his Creator and the farthest from his sometime brother—the brute. All women and most men pray—whether they admit it or not. Prayer is the soul's answer to the question, "If a man die, shall he live again?" It came direct from Heaven, and did not unfold itself along with the convolutions of the brain.

Prayer is Hope with wings. It antedates all History. It will outlast Humanity itself. But prayer without faith is not prayer.

This is why the Lord's Prayer is the greatest prayer in the world. It is divine faith breathed into human words. All creeds, formulas, systems, philosophies, theologies—are within its miraculous compass. It is Religion itself. Like the dewdrop, it orbs the universe. Wise men have studied it reverently. Great men have lived and died with it on their lips. One-half the world has known no other prayer for 2000 years.

This is why we call it the greatest prayer in the world.

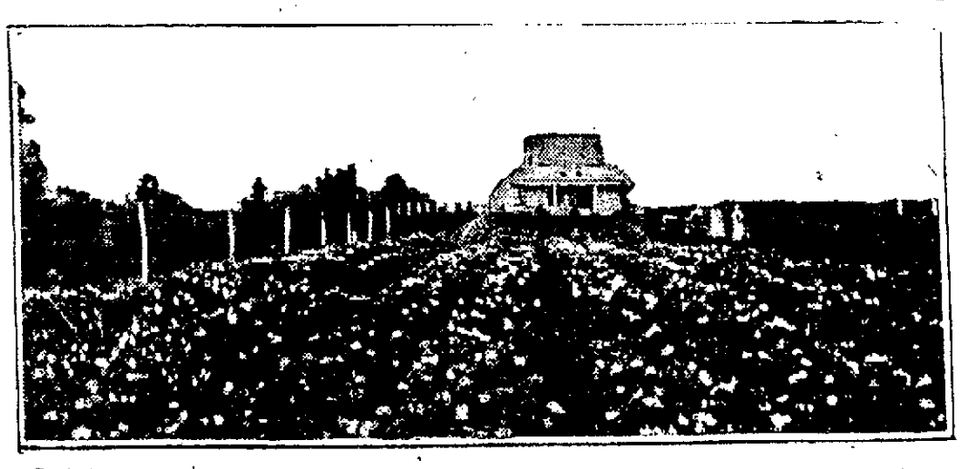
CANADA FINDS WAY TO TAKE CARE OF SOLDIERS AFTER WAR—WILL GIVE THEM READY-MADE FARMS.



Typical western Canada farm; just such a farm as war veterans may till when they return from the front

Ottawa, Can., April 6.—Ready-made farms for soldiers!

That is Canada's plan for helping heroes now on the British firing line and 1,000 farms in western Canada will be plotted and grouped into colonies large enough to insure support for schools, churches, libraries and other social and educational influences.

The movement to give soldiers ready-made farms originated with Canadian Pacific railroad and is being carried out under the direction of Lord Shaughnessy, president of the road.

Soldiers who come marching home long for the great spaces, and unless too badly maimed they want action, say directors of the movement.

"The industries lack sufficient work for the returning veterans, even if they could "settle down."

Regarding the ready-made farm movement, Lord Shaughnessy says: "Each colony will have a distinctive name, probably something that will carry military associations. Besides there will be churches, schools, libraries and an experimental farm in charge of a scientific farmer so advice may be available for the soldier-farmer.

"The burden we propose to carry will be no light one, but we are prepared to face all petty annoyances to fulfill our duty to the men who defended the empire."

PLANT PHYSIOLOGY AN ABSORBING STUDY

Every Plant Is an Expression of the Combination and Interaction of Three Groups of Forces—the Seed, the Climate, and the Soil—Every Plant Has Definite Requirements For Its Best Development; What Some of These Requirements Are.

By E. H. SMITH.

The development of plants and the nature of the products which they bear are influenced by two principal factors. First.—The inherent quality of the plant itself, transmitted through the seed or bud; Second.—The nature of the environment in which the plant develops. One factor is as important as the other. The character of the mature plant is the result of two sets of forces. The first of these is the inherent capacity of the seed to develop and produce a normal individual of its kind. The second set of forces constitutes the environment in which the plant grows and of which the soil is one part, the other component being climate.

Ideal conditions for the production of any crop may be summarized as follows:

IN THE PLANT: Proper inherent qualities of growth and production.

IN THE AIR: Proper temperature, moisture, light, chemical composition, freedom from injurious influences.

IN THE SOIL: Proper moisture, aeration, chemical composition, physical composition, freedom from injurious influences.

In other words, the plant needs in its environment, for successful development, a proper degree of heat, moisture, air, light and food, and freedom from injurious influences. Any serious departure from these ideal conditions results in the presence of disease.

A clear understanding of the fundamental principles of normal plant physiology is necessary to enable one to judge abnormal or diseased conditions with any degree of accuracy.

A plant consists of certain parts or organs, each with its particular duty to perform to maintain the life and activities of the whole. These parts are commonly as follows: The root, stem, branch, leaf, flower, fruit and seed. Any or all of these parts is liable to disease. Some plants, for instance, like the turnip or carrot, are cultivated for the root; some for the stem or branches, like the asparagus or celery; some for the leaf, like the lettuce; and a great many different kinds for the flowers, fruit or seed. If the root or stem is diseased, in a sense of being in an injured or unhealthy condition, the flow of water from the ground will be cut off or interfered with, and the remainder of the plant suffer accordingly. If the leaves are injured or destroyed, their functions will be interfered with and the rest of the plant suffer from starvation. Likewise, the value of the crop will be injured or destroyed if the particular part of which is cultivated has imperfections or undesirable characteristics, whether the health or thrift of the plant is injured or not.

Section of Tree Trunk. A, Outer Bark. B, Inner Bark. C, Cambium. D, Sap Wood. E, Heart Wood.

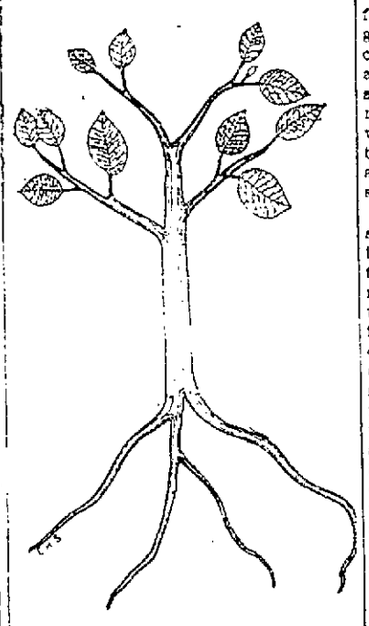

Diagram of Tree Showing Movements of Fluids, as Shown by Arrows.

Of the organs mentioned, the root commonly grows in the soil and the remainder of the plant in the air.

The soil has two general purposes in relation to plant growth. First, it furnishes a medium through which the the root is able to accomplish its mechanical function of holding the plant upright in the air and exposing its parts to the air and sunlight. Second, the soil is a storehouse of food and moisture, both of which are indispensable to plant growth.

Far from being an inert mass of dead mineral and organic matter, the soil is likewise the home of uncounted myriads of living organisms, not only soil bacteria, but also many other forms of low plant life, hosts of simple animal organisms, and likewise more highly developed creatures, such as earth worms and many other forms. All of these exert a profound influence upon the soil and its relation to plant production.

The root of the plant spread through the soil by growth and subdivision, forming a network of fine branches, the extremities of which are the delicate, minute root hairs through which food and water are absorbed. Air is also required by the root as well as by other parts of the plant. The activities of the root are therefore entirely dependent upon the physical texture, moisture supply, temperature and chemical composition of the soil.

The specific food substances taken from the soil by the root are: Nitrogen, hydrogen, sulphur, phosphorus, calcium, iron, potassium, magnesium and oxygen. All of these elements are absorbed by the plant through the root in the form of a solution in water. In other words, the water of the soil is a weak solution of these and any other soluble substances which the soil may contain.

After being absorbed by the root the soil solution, or as we may now call it, sap, passes upward into the plant from the smaller into the main, larger roots, on up into the trunk. The particular path of this upward stream is located in the woody portion of the conducting fibres. In woody trees of considerable size this upward flow of sap from the roots is most active in the newer, outer layers of wood or what we call "sap wood." Very large amounts of water, with food materials in solution, pass up through the stems of plants in this way, as may be readily seen when we consider the amount of the soil elements which plants contain, and the fact that the solution in which they come into the plant from the soil is an extremely dilute one.

The relation of the plant to the atmosphere which surrounds it is of supreme importance, its relation being expressed most largely through the leaves, which act as organs both of absorption and excretion. The water supply coming from the roots with its food elements in solution, comes into the leaves and there the larger portion of the water is evaporated off into the air by a process called transpiration.

A varity of complicated chemical processes goes on all over the plant in which use is made of the various materials taken from the soil, and the various substances formed build up the growth of new parts, the formation of fruit, or are otherwise made use of in the activities of the plant. Respiration goes on in the leaves in a manner chemically similar to that in animals, oxygen is taken in and carbon dioxide given off.

Feed Poultry for Profit

Hens will be better on mixed feeds than on any other. A quart of corn meal alone will not give as good results as a pint and a half of corn meal mixed with some other food such as cooked potatoes.

A great variety of chicken feed is manufactured, consisting of mixtures of various grains, dried ground bone, dried blood, beef scraps and such matter, but the best results can probably be obtained by studying the needs of one's flock and supplying them at first hand.

Exercise is of course very essential to laying hens when confined during the laying season. To obtain this many methods are resorted to in addition to scattering grain among the straw as for instance suspending a cabbage or a bunch of beets about two feet above the floor in order to induce the hens to jump up to reach it. If the hens are very hungry for this sort of food they will get more exercise by jumping after it, but our experience is that when fed a moderate amount of clover or ground alfalfa they have no taste for any other kind of green food.

We have suspended cabbage and other tempting morsels in the manner described but have yet to discover that our hens ever got any exercise in that way. In fact the cabbage would, in most cases, go entirely untouched and even if it was chopped fine and scattered among the feed it seemed to have no attraction for the fowls.

This of course is only an individual experience and cannot be taken as a universal guide, but we believe that scientific experiments will show that better results can be obtained by supplying green feed in the shape of ground clover or alfalfa.

For winter feeding nothing is better than corn and wheat. Many successful poultry raisers do not crack the corn but feed it whole. On this point there is a great difference of opinion but to be on the safe side, corn, particularly the large-grain variety, should be cracked before feeding. In very cold weather it should be parched or warmed.

Some poultry raisers advocate the feeding of all sorts of green stuff during the winter such as cabbage, carrots, potatoes, turnips, onion tops and the like, but as these feeds are composed mostly of water they are of little practical benefit except to make the rations more palatable by adding to their variety. Many cases of disease, particularly scouring can be traced to the feeding of green vegetables of this sort if fed at regular intervals.

Nothing equals cut clover for feeding the chickens. Alfalfa comes next, but clover stands at the head and if this is fed regularly and in moderate quantities it will take the place of all other green feeds.

Wet versus dry mash is a question that has received much attention from experimenters during the past few years. The general consensus of opinion at the present time is that the dry mash is the most desirable. Many practical poultrymen, however, still prefer the wet mash. Labor is one of the greatest problems that the poultry raiser has to consider, consequently, if he can find a method which will be labor saving and yet give results, it is worthy of consideration. Dry mash fed in hoppers is easier to handle than any kind of wet mash. Hoppers are now made which are rat-proof, sanitary and convenient. These can be filled once a week and are found satisfactory. Experiments have proved that eggs produced by hens fed a dry mash are more fertile than those laid by hens fed a wet mash. Wet mash is slightly more forcing, is inconvenient to feed, and requires more care in keeping the feeding vessels clean.

The guinea-hen is proud and makes more noise than any other bird on the place, but the commonest old hen in the barnyard lays more eggs, and makes no fuss about it.

THE FIELD PEA IS A GOOD FORAGE CROP

The Growing of the Field Pea as a Forage Crop is of Special Interest to Farmers and Dairymen Living in the Northern Tier of States and Also Those Living in Regions of High Altitude Farther South in the Rocky Mountains.

By H. N. VINALL.

The field pea is an annual plant with slender stems two to four feet high, which stands erect only where there are other plants to which they can cling. The plants seldom have more than three stalks and very often only one or two. The herbage is pale green with a whitish bloom on the surface. Each leaf bears usually two or three pairs of leaflets and is terminated by a slender, branched tindril. The hanging pods are about three inches long, each containing five to nine nearly round seeds.

The garden pea is cultivated primarily as a green vegetable, or as a grain crop for human food; the field pea is grown for hay or for grain to feed to animals. In many cases, however, the same variety is grown for both purposes.

Generally speaking, the varieties with wrinkled yellowish or greenish seeds and white flowers are classed as garden peas; while those with smooth seeds are considered field peas. Some field-pea varieties have yellow seeds and white flowers, while others have colored blossoms and brown, marbled, mottled, or speckled seeds.

Some confusion of name has arisen in this country because in the South the cowpea is often called the field pea, while in the same region the garden pea is distinguished as the English pea. The cowpea is really a bean, resembling the common bean both in its leaves with three large leaflets and no tendrils and in its kidney-shaped seeds. Further, on account of the fact that the true field pea is more largely grown in Canada than in the United States, it is frequently called "Canada field pea" or "Canadian field pea."

The native home of the pea is supposed to be in that part of western Asia extending from the Mediterranean Sea eastward through Syria and Palestine to the Himalaya Mountains. It appears to be one of the first cultivated crops, as seeds have been found among the relics of the Stone Age in Switzerland. It was, perhaps, one of the first crops to be brought over by the colonists to the United States, since there are records of its being grown in Virginia as early as 1636. The cultivation of the field pea did not spread rapidly in that section of the United States, but as the country developed it gained more and more favor in Canada and became a staple crop in the United States only in the New England States, New York, Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota and the eastern Dakotas.

The cultivation of the field pea throughout western Canada has increased with the settlement of that territory. In Washington, Oregon, Idaho and western Montana it has also been found well adapted to the climate and soil and is steadily increasing in importance as a farm crop.

A cool growing season is essential for the field pea. High temperatures are much more injurious than frosts, which are disastrous to the crop only when they occur just at the period when the pods are setting. These climatic requirements of the field pea limit its successful production as a summer crop to the Northern States and Canada and to high altitudes in the mountains of our Western States. It may, however, be grown with profit as a winter crop in the Southern States. Its moisture requirements are less important than those of temperature, but other things being equal, it does best where the rainfall is fairly abundant. A 15-inch rainfall in western Canada is sufficient to produce a good crop, while 20 inches of rain in Kansas, Nebraska or Colorado are inadequate.

It is a common practice in some localities to harvest the crop by pasturing with hogs or sheep. This is done more largely in Colorado than in any other part of the United States. There is no doubt, however, that the crop can be fully as well utilized this way in other Western States in localities which are near large sheep ranges. When intended for pasture, the field pea is sown alone or with but little grain, as it is not necessary in such cases that it be supported by some more erect-growing crop. Animals pasturing on field peas should be confined to one portion of the field by means of movable fences, or else a herder should be employed for this purpose. If sheep or hogs are allowed to roam about over the entire field, they waste a great deal of the crop by wandering around aimlessly as soon as their hunger has been satisfied. The animals should not be turned into the field until the seed becomes hard. Lambs will fatten on field-pea pasture in from 70 to 90 days, and a good crop will usually fatten from 10 to 15 lambs per acre, each animal gaining about 8 pounds a month. Hogs in a thrifty condition will fatten in from 60 to 90 days, and if not obliged to gather their food over too large an acreage will make an average daily gain of 1 pound. Alfalfa or sweet-clover pasture used in connection with field peas noticeably increases the rapidity of gain.

Farm Management

Certain fundamental principles of farm management are advanced by specialists as having been brought out or substantiated by a thorough agricultural survey of an old and representative farming section of Chester County, Pa. These principles are summarized as follows:

Farming conforms to local soil, climate, labor, and market conditions as well as to the business conditions of the individual farm.

When conditions remain unchanged for a long time, farming becomes approximately what it ought to be to get the best results, provided that practice which is immediately the most profitable does not deplete soil fertility.

Success in farming, measured in per cent of profit on investment, does not depend on the magnitude of the farm business, but measured in terms of the standard of living of the farm family it is directly proportional to the magnitude of business.

Profits increase as yields per acre increase until the yields are considerably above the average for the locality, but beyond this point increased yields are obtained at a loss.

In quantity of product per dairy cow the point of diminishing returns is not reached in ordinary farm practice.

It is easier and more profitable to increase low yields per acre than high ones, and small product per cow than large product. In other words, profits can be increased more easily by attention to the weakest points in a farming system.

There is a way of grouping the enterprises of a farm that is more profitable than any other way; that is, there is a certain most profitable acreage for each crop and a most profitable proportion of income from any one source.

Some enterprises, such as poultry keeping, may easily be made profitable as side lines, yet are difficult to make profitable when made a main feature of the farm business.

Production costs much more per bushel or per ton on the small farm than on the large farm of the same type.

POTASH FROM SEAWEED.

It has been found that the ash of the seaweed collected on the shore of Manilla Bay in Tondo yields 15 per cent of potash, says U. S. Commerce Report. This discovery has aroused considerable interest, owing to the war-time scarcity of potash. No data are available to show just the amount of seaweed available, but it is known in a general way that it is abundant. Explorations and further experimentation will be conducted by the Government.

MACHINERY USED IN THE CONSTRUCTION OF TRENCHES FOR TILE DRAINS

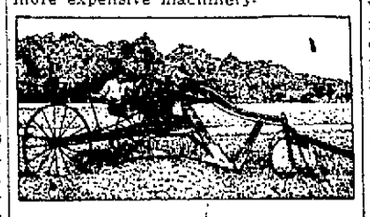
By D. L. YARNELL.

The invention of suitable appliances for tile trenching has been stimulated by three agencies—the rising prices of labor, the rapid extension of tile drainage for farm lands, and the growing practice of using large tile instead of open ditches of moderate size for community outlets, especially where the depth of cut is rather great.

Where wide trenches are dug by hand deeper than 6 or 7 feet, the material must be handled at least twice, since the dirt can not be thrown back from the edge of the trench at the first handling. Besides reducing the amount and cost of labor, a good machine greatly lessens the time necessary for doing the work, which is often of considerable advantage, apart from any saving in direct money cost. Difficulties such as occasionally arise where many unskilled workmen are employed may be largely avoided by the use of machinery requiring only a small crew. The many types of equipment for trenching vary from special plows and scoops of ordinary size to elaborate machines costing thousands of dollars. The smaller kinds are limited in depth and width of trench, also in regard to conditions of working. Some variations from the machines described have been manufactured and not found practical; new designs that may be available in the future perhaps will be as good or better than those now on the market.

Three things are required of a good trenching machine, namely, (1) it must operate efficiently through various kinds of soil; (2) it must be capable of cutting true to grade; (3) it must work for long periods without breaking or otherwise getting out of order. The first of these requirements is the hardest to fulfill, the second is the easiest.

Probably none of the plows or scoops cut accurately to grade, and some hand work is necessary to make the trench smooth for laying the tile properly. However, their low cost makes it profitable to employ them on work that would not justify the use of more expensive machinery.



Ditching Plow.

There are many kinds of soil to be encountered—hard shale, cemented gravel, sand, stones, loose loam, soft muck, and sticky clay. None of the machines will handle solid rock. The ideal machine will handle all kinds of soil, with but minor changes of parts, without breaking or stopping and at a minimum expense for purchase, operation, repairs and depreciation. Open or skeleton excavating buckets are best suited to sticky soils, while solid buckets are necessary in loose dry soils, though some machines have efficient cleaning devices that permit the use of solid buckets for any kind of material. A machine must be strong to work through shale or stony ground but if increased strength entails added weight, the efficiency and adaptability may be affected. A heavy machine can not work over soft ground unless fitted with rather costly apron tractors instead of the driving wheels.

Some form of trenching machinery will prove a profitable investment, according to engineers in the United States Department of Agriculture, if the landowner has more than 100 rods of tile drain to lay in soil that will require picking but which is free from rock. Ditching plows that can be purchased for $18 to $20 will prove of material assistance in such work. If as much as 1,500 rods of tile drain are to be laid, the landowner will be justified in purchasing a horse-drawn plow at $250 to $300, provided the soil is free from rock and large roots. The installation of 5,000 rods of drain tile will justify the purchase of a power-driven trenching machine for $1,500, provided the machine can subsequently be sold for one-half its original cost.

The various types of trenching machines are divided into four classes: (1) Plows and scoops, (2) wheel excavators, (3) endless-chain excavators, (4) scraper excavators. The plows and scoops range in price from $18 for a simple ditching plow to loosen the dirt and make handshoveling easier, to plows costing $300 and fitted with devices for lifting out the dirt and trimming the trenches. The other three classes are usually elaborate machines costing $1,200 to $6,000, which may not be profitable investments for the average farmer who has only a small amount of draining to do. However, where there is much drainage to be done it will be well for the landowner to investigate the advisability of purchasing some trencher which has a detachable tractor. When not needed for trenching, the tractor may easily be separated from the digging apparatus and used in all the ways in which a farm tractor is ordinarily employed. Another method of securing the services of a power machine is for several landowners to combine in purchasing it.

The cost of trenching by machinery must include, besides the expense for operation and repairs, interest on the investment and proper charges for depreciation of the machine. The interest and depreciation charges are continuous whether the machine is working or idle. The real difference in cost of trenching by machinery and by hand is not so great as it is often supposed to be, but many times there are advantages in having the work done quickly or in employing only a few men instead of a large number. The more expensive machines will be profitable if the owners can keep them busy a large part of the time.

Kill Lice and Save Pork

It has been estimated that a 150-pound hog has 92,000 drops of blood. Suppose he is supporting 1,000 lice and each takes one drop of blood per day. What per cent of his blood will be lost daily and who will pay the bill?

The question is a very important one. Lice are worse in winter than in summer. The hogs pile up closely and spend much time in their beds. The lice take advantage of the situation, and breed rapidly.

To remove the lice is neither difficult nor expensive. Dipping or spraying with coal-tar compounds is dangerous in winter, but three other treatments are available. These are:

1. Equal parts kerosene and machine oil mixed together and applied with an oil can, brush or swab.

2. Crude oil (thinned with kerosene, if too thick), applied with a brush as a spray.

3. Powdered staphisagria dusted on the pigs, or steeped as a tea and applied with a brush or as a spray.

For a small bunch the first treatment is the most convenient, but when one has many hogs the crude oil is cheaper. Be sure to apply behind the ears and in both flanks. The lice prefer folds of the skin.

Clean the beds and pens thoroughly, also. If these are thoroughly sprayed with the oil, there should be no further trouble from the lice. If the hogs sleep in straw sheds, one can keep them free from lice by treating them every two weeks. Try it!—R. C. Ashby, University Farm, St. Paul.

FIELD MICE DESTRUCTIVE.

A circular letter from the United States Department of Agriculture calls attention to the losses to orchardists, nurserymen and farmers from field mice, of which there are 50,000 species known to exist in this country, but the farmer recognizes only two kinds, meadow mice and pine mice. These mice are tenacious of life and multiply with great rapidity. They cannot live without eating and they take their choice of such food as may be at hand. If nothing better can be found the mice feed upon the bark of trees or upon the roots of grasses and shrubs, destroying grass, cutting down grain, clover and alfalfa, eating the grain in shocks or granaries, injuring flowers and vegetables, and doing harm in a hundred ways. In one part of Nevada the mice totally ruined 80,000 acres of alfalfa. Large blocks of nursery trees are totally destroyed each season by mice.

PROTECT THE FLOCK.

A flock of sheep harassed by dogs soon show the trouble in their general condition, as surely as in their manner. Fleetness of foot is not one of the characteristics of the animal, and when this is enforced as a means of preservation, it is to the detriment of the flock.

BE NEIGHBORLY.

The telephone is a great thing to cure loneliness on the farm, as it enables us to talk to our friends and neighbors in all kinds of weather and regardless of bad roads. But it does not take the place of actual visiting, and we ought to do more of that. This is true as applied to the young people. Encourage them to visit around as often as possible, and keep your own latch-strings out for others to come and call on your own.

HELPS FOR THE FARMER'S WIFE.

Don't leave matches, knives, hot water or other dangers within reach if there are children in the house.

Cookies should be put into a cloth-lined stone jar when hot, if you would keep them melting and crumbly.

When silver has become discolored with egg, dip a damp cloth in salt water, rub the silver; the stain will disappear.

Until we get perfect animals we should search for a sire that in some particulars is superior to the cows in our herds.

The farmer and his family, as well as his stock, accomplish more when care-free and in a happy turn of mind. All nature is fresh and cheerful. It is profitable for us to be likewise!

THE RIPENING OF CREAM.

By the ripening of cream is meant the changes it undergoes from the time of separation until it is added to the churn. Upon these changes depends very largely the quality of butter as regards texture and flavor. The temperature at which cream is held determines the firmness or texture, while the flavor is dependent upon the by-products from the bacterial growth.

The purpose of ripening cream is fundamentally that of giving the butter the desired flavor and aroma, but in addition it increases the ease and efficiency of churning. Cream is ripened in one of two ways:

First, it sours or ripens as a result of the action of bacteria which are normally present in milk and cream; or,

Second, it ripens as a result of action of certain kinds of bacteria which are added in what is termed a "starter."

THE GRAPE EASY TO GROW.

Grapes like good soil, location and culture, but they readily adapt themselves to circumstances so that lack of proper ground is anything but a sufficient reason to prevent almost anyone who has a garden from planting them.

The droppings from the swine, and the nitrogen gathered by the forage-crops, build up soil-fertility rapidly.

DON'T WORRY.

The man who is always behind in his work and frets and worries because he has so much to do, is working without a system. No use trying to do more than one thing at a time and if one will adhere to this rule and have a time for doing everything day after day and month after month, the kinks will soon straighten out and he can do his work easily and without friction.

GOOD DUCK FEED.

Cooked vegetables, thickened with equal parts cornmeal and bran is a mixture that is equally good for both growing ducks and layers. Equal parts oatmeal, cornmeal and bran, with enough "middlings" to make it cling together, is a good feed, but this requires the addition of an equal amount of green stuff.

DAIRY SUGGESTIONS.

Don't on any account milk any curd, blood or rope into your milk-can. If you find any slime inside the sieve, find out where it comes from.

Don't have your nails long.

Don't half do the job unless you want to dry the cow.

STRAW AS A FERTILIZER.

A large amount of straw is shipped from a county in Missouri to a nearby paper and strawboard factory. This straw brings the farmer about 50 cents per ton. A county agent recently found a pile of about 1,000 tons at Sikeston ready for shipment. He computes that as a fertilizer this straw is worth $2.50 per ton in addition to its value as a means of adding organic matter to the soil. He is making a campaign of the county in an attempt to show the inadvisability of the farmers selling their straw and urging its more extensive use as bedding in stables and feed lots. Straw used as a top dressing on fall wheat has been found to practically insure a good stand of clover on lands where clover is otherwise grown with great difficulty.

KEEP THE HORSE COMFORTABLE

The horse that is compelled to fight flies continually cannot get in a full day's work, or at least if it does there is less in stamina which eventually tells on the life-work of the animal. Neither can it do its best with an ill-fitting harness. The horse that is comfortable and in good spirits, is the one which makes the record.

Education and high milk yields go hand in hand.

TO GET FANCY PRICES.

To secure a fancy price for eggs, you must be absolutely certain that every egg sold is fresh. Don't leave an egg in nest for nest egg. You might accidently get one in gathering and send it to your best customer—then good-bye customer. When the breeding season is over sell all the roosters, or if you have a few good ones you wish to keep, pen them up. Then you can get a fancy price for infertile eggs, which are in great demand in hot weather. Clean all soiled eggs with a damp cloth and dry well, so they will not shine. Keep all small and imperfect eggs at home. Fill each layer with eggs of the same size, they look so much better that way. Pack carefully, so they will reach the customer in good condition, and absolutely guarantee every egg to be fresh. You will not have any trouble in getting and holding customers for all you can produce, at several cents above the market price.

SHEEP PROVIDE FOOD.

Sheep should be kept to supply meat for the household. The farmer is much prone to confine his meat diet to salt meat, as for instance to salt pork, and largely for the reason that in this form meat is most easily kept.

CHICAGO GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, April 6.—Wheat prices developed strength today as a result of anxiety as to the lateness of seeding in the northwest. Opening prices, which ranged from ½c decline to ¼@⅜c advance, with May at $1.18⅛ to $1.18½, and July at $1.16¾ to $1.17⅛, were followed by moderate gains all around, interrupted temporarily by a rather sharp setback.

Closing quotations were unsettled, ¼@⅜c to ⅜@½c net lower, with May at $1.17⅞ and July at $1.16¾.

Corn reflected the changes in the wheat market. After opening unchanged to ⅛c higher, prices scored further upturns though not without undergoing transient dips.

The close was steady at ¼c to ⅝c net advance.

Oats hardened with other grain.

Steadiness was the rule in provisions.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, April 6.—Mercantile Marine issues were again the outstanding features of today's early trading, the common and preferred being freely absorbed in large individual lots at substantial gains. Specialties also figured prominently in the initial dealings, Industrial Alcohol soon advancing 4¾ to the new high record of 179½. Petroleums, Westinghouse, Studebaker and Goodrich were higher by material fractions, with moderate gains in U. S. Steel and a few other leaders. Norfolk and Western led the rails with an advance of almost a point.

Marines continued to dominate the list, dealings comprising almost one-third of the first hour's output. The common advanced 2¼c to 23¾, with corresponding strength in underlying issues. Towards midday war stocks and the better known industrials and equipments assumed some of the recent activity at gains of one to over two points. United States Steel also denoted accumulation on its advance to 85⅝ and zinc shares responded to another rise in that metal. General Motors was conspicuous by a decline of 25 to 460. Bonds were firm, with marked strength in the new Canadian issue.

of the "democratic policy of scuttle in the Philippines;" a recommendation in favor of a world court; a demand for economy in national and state administrations; a denunciation of "such regulation of business as shall put any due burdens upon honest and wholesome enterprise" and a recommendation for a constitutional amendment which shall enable the president to veto specific items in appropriations, so as to put an end to the wanton extravagance of pork barrel legislation.

Fairbanks Endorsed.

In endorsing the nomination of Mr. Fairbanks for president the platform deals at length with his public career in the United States senate and as vice president and declares that he "has been for twenty years the trusted leader of his party in this state." It continues: "His election will mean the inauguration of a genuine republican administration in Washington free from internal contention, enlightened and steady in the dealings with domestic problems, and just and firm in its foreign policy. It will be an administration of peace and prosperity.

Dodges Liquor and Suffrage.

The platform as submitted to the convention contains no recommendations in regard to woman's suffrage or the liquor question.

The platform dealt with state issues at length, promising, among other things, "to restore an economical and business-like administration of the affairs of state upon the party's return to power," and announces that the republican party is in favor of the budget system for the expenditure of public funds.

Question of Taxation.

"We favor," the platform states in its plank on taxation, "a constitutional amendment fixing a limit to the tax rate and giving the legislature power to effect taxation reform, and, upon the adoption of such amendment, we pledge our support to a thorough revision of our system of taxation to the end that all property and persons shall bear equitably the burdens of governmental support."

Another plank states that the party favors an amendment prohibiting the increase of an official salary for the term of office, whether held by election or appointment. It states further that "we favor the abolishment of all bodies and officers not essential to the proper administration of the affairs of state."

The Labor Plank.

The labor plank follows: "The republican party has at all times been the friend of labor, as witness the many laws of the state and nation for the welfare of workingmen and women. We are opposed to the evils of child labor and favor the enactment of such legislation as will eliminate such abuse. We are opposed to placing convict made goods in competition with the products of free labor."

Primary Law Denounced.

The state wide primary law is denounced as "unsatisfactory and expensive and should be amended."

The co-operation with the federal government in the construction and up keep of mail routes and other roads in general use is recommended and it is stated further that "the present system of road building and maintenance is no longer suited to the present needs and should be reformed." The plank adds that "all the people of the state should contribute toward the improvement of the roads of the state."

A recommendation for the enactment of law that will permit cities to adopt a commission or city manager form of government is also made.

Pledges Law Enforcement.

Laxity existing among the executive officers and police authorities in many of our cities in the matter of enforcing respect for the laws of the state is condemned and the party pledges its support to the strict enforcement of the laws. There is also a recommendation for the enactment of a simple and efficient impeachment law, "that inefficient and corrupt public officials speedily may be removed from public service."

The party in its platform goes on record as favoring a non-partisan judiciary and urged that the election of the judiciary, if made at the general election, shall be made upon separate ballots without any party emblem. Another recommendation is that the next legislature shall take the proper steps to reform and simplify the methods of legal procedure in the courts of the state.

As to party management the platform states:

"We reaffirm our uncompromising position in favor of equitable and non-discriminating party management and pledge ourselves to the principles that the right of our members in party affairs shall be equally sacred and sacredly equal."

The eagle shall continue to be the party emblem on all ballots, the platform states.

BABY BONDS BEGIN BUYING THAT HOME

The first $10 is always the hardest to save for that home fund. If you buy a Baby Bond for $10 it starts paying you 6 per cent interest at once. NOTED AUTOMOBILE LECTURER AT MAJESTIC THEATRE TOMORROW NIGHT

Hundreds of invitations have been sent out in answer to requests received at the Fort Wayne Overland Co. for admission tickets to the lecture to be held tomorrow evening at the Majestic theater at 8 o'clock.

Mr. Henry H. Hower, S. A. E., will tell all about the Willys-Knight motor and will conduct a general discussion lecture on all topics relative to the mechanism and working parts of the motor.

Special musical features have been arranged to make the lecture a complete, live, wide-awake and enthusiastic gala affair. Elaborate preparations have been made by Fred Gaskins, president of the Fort Wayne Overland Co.

As is known by nearly all motorists, the Knight motor made a tremendous jump into the automobile field some years ago and it has completely revolutionized the motor construction of many makes of cars since its debut.

In fact, in the past, only the highest priced cars were able to boast of the wonderful sleeve valve Knight motor until recently the Overland made the announcement of the new Willys-Knight which is the lowest priced car on the market with such a motor.

"Now, however," said Mr. Gaskins, "the Knight may be purchased at a moderate figure, and it would appear that automobile owners all over the country are eager to learn more about this remarkable invention. It was for this reason that we have prevailed upon Mr. Hower to give us this motion picture lecture.

"Mr. Hower has been associated with the Knight motor interests for the past eight years and he thoroughly knows his subject. During the past few months he has lectured in many of the largest cities in the east and also at nearly all of the universities in the east and middle west."

Mr. Hower's lecture is given in the non-technical language of the man who owns or drives a car, and every point will be explained in an interesting and simple manner.

The tickets are issued free at The Fort Wayne Overland Co.

Assails Those Who Would Check Development in Alaska.

Seattle, Wash., April 4.—Enemies of government projects in Alaska are boasting that with a change of administration railroad building and coal land leasing there will be stopped.

So declares Major John E. Ballaine, who has thrown down the gauntlet to the Guggenheim interests of the north.

Founder of Seward and builder of the Alaska Northern railroad, now part of the government system, Ballaine has announced his candidacy for congress from the Seattle district at the republican primaries.

He has fought consistently and powerfully against Guggenheim aggression in Alaska. He is regarded as the biggest single factor in securing the government railway in the territory.

"My decision," he said, "is prompted by threats of Steve Birch, manager of the Alaska syndicate; by the boasts of the Guggenheim lobby at Washington, and by the secret aid from a few men in Seattle who are on their pay roll, to the effect that work on the government railroad in Alaska will be stopped with the coming of a new administration.

"They include in their threats the repeal of the Alaska coal leasing laws.

"I will accept their challenge. We shall see if the hard-won battle of two years ago to develop Alaska in the interests of the public good is to be strangled. If in its place is to be substituted the old policy of private exploitation for the exclusive benefit of a high-financed New York syndicate."

Major Ballaine says he will support a program for the construction of yet another 1,000 miles of government railway in Alaska—"so that all parts of Alaska may be opened to equal development for all Americans of every degree."

Japan is planning to adopt an alphabet of forty-seven letters, including most of the Roman characters, some Russian and the rest original symbols.

OLD HOUSE OF JIM FISK ALMOST GONE

Home Maintained for Josie Mansfield is Being Torn Down.

New York, April 6.—Josie Mansfield's former home is almost gone. The brown stone house at 359 West Twenty-third street, formerly so well known, has almost disappeared under the hands of the wreckers, to make way for a more modern improvement.

In the early '70s it was the home of Miss Josephine Mansfield, best friend of Jim Fisk, who was then vice president of the Erie railroad and colonel of the Ninth regiment, N. G. N. Y. Her influence over him was powerful. The house was wonderfully and beautifully furnished and the neighborhood at the time was fashionable. Mrs. Fisk occupied a house that was much less pretentious in the same street.

Miss Mansfield's house was the scene of many wonderful entertainments and dinners and gatherings of Fisk's friends and business associates. Here Edward S. Stokes was a constant caller. These calls ended in the quarrel which caused the shooting of Fisk by Stokes in the Grand Central Hotel (now the Broadway Central) January 6, 1872, and his death the following day.

The Mansfield house adjoins the quaint mansard roofed house back from the street which was once occupied by Lily Langtry.

Seven Cents Advance in Past Year in California.

San Francisco, April 6.—The price of gasoline took its fifth jump in five months when the Standard Oil company, of California, announced that, beginning today, the price of the product will be advanced one cent or to 19 cents a gallon.

A year ago gasoline was selling in San Francisco for 12 cents a gallon. The explanation offered by the producers for the rise is that gasoline is worth more and costs more to make.

Coroner J. E. McArdle has completed his investigation into the death of Isaac Zimmerman, of Holman street, the employe in the Western Gas company, who shot himself through the head Monday morning. The verdict will probably be suicide while temporarily unbalanced, due to injuries received in the explosion at the plant of the Western Gas company.
